FIRST AUTOMOBILE BUILT

It Was so Dreaded as to Be Locked Up in Church.

Those who imagine that the automobile is a recent invention will be surprised to learn that it was invented over 125 years ago. Malcolm MacDowell describes its early history in the Technical World Magazine.

"The automobile was born in the form of an idea, in 1759, when a Glasgow student threw out the suggestion that the steam engine—then a very crude low-pressure affair—might be applied to the moving of wheeled vehicles. This student afterwards achieved fame as Dr. Robinson, professor of natural philosophy in the University of Edinburgh.

Nicholas Joseph Cugnot, Ten years later

French engineer, built the first automobile.

The machine was a three-wheeled affair and its course was quickly run, for on its second or third trip it turned a corner too fast and toppled over with a crash. The city officials of Paris refused to permit Cugnot to repair his machine. To keep it from harming anyone they loaded it up in a church and there it stayed for years.

The first quarter of the last century developed an automobile craze fully as virulent as the fad is today.

In the 1820's and 1830's steam wagons go to run on common roads, became so popular with the higher classes in England that the directors of stage coach companies and breeders of horses took alarm. They used their influence to slip a number of little bills through Parliament prohibiting toll roads to heavy tolls prohibitive to steam carriages and wagons.

The steamer were compelled to pay five and ten times as much toll as the largest six-horse stage coach."
