

Amethysts and Pearls

Are beautiful and very effective in Jewelry.

We are showing some choice designs in Brooches, Pins, Necklets, etc.

A Brooch with a fine large amethyst in center, with pearls set in artistic design, is much admired and makes a desirable addition to your Jewel box.

SPANCER BERG, Jeweler, King St.

CHOP! CHOP! CHOP!

How tired are the arms that use the chopping knife.

The Universal Food Chopper

Chops everything, better, easier, quicker. Does away with drudgery and the Chopping Knife.

Only $1.50

Get one for that Christmas pudding and all kinds of Chop, Chop, Chop.

Sold only at

W. A. MITCHELL'S HARDWARE

Cook's Cotton Root Compound

The only safe and effective remedy for all kinds of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, etc.

For lame back nothing better than fresh Belladonna plaster, Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store has them fresh.

All the public school teachers are to-day in their class, including those who have been absent through illness.

THE 5 P. M. EDITION.

SECOND EDITION NEWS ALSO ON PAGE FIVE.

COMMERCIAL MATTERS.

What Is Going On In the Business World—The Markets.

J. J. Stater will erect a grist mill at Lloydsminster, Sask. ... A new industry for Hamilton is the Hamilton-Hoyle Wire Fence company, the Canadian branch of the McGregor-Hoyle well company, of Adrian, Mich. It will locate on Princess street. It has a capital of $1000,000.

A new industry is to be started in Madoc, Ont., a company having been formed to manufacture the Hanson-Campbell patent of Joseph Hanson, who has been engaged in this work for the past nineteen years.

Read This Rheumatics

Just because your disease is deep seated, the best of treatment is required. Only powerful remedies can reach your sore muscles and joints.

Half A Century Old.

The mayor's chain of office is half a century old. On November 19th, 1885, the Globe says: "At the last meeting of the Kingston city council the mayor appeared in the chair wearing a massive and costly gold civic chain."

For lame back nothing better than fresh Belladonna plaster, Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store has them fresh.

THE LONGSHOREMEN

WILL PUT UP STRONG FIGHT FOR UNION.

St. Cuneogonde Annexed to Montreal—Steamship Angola Ashore Off Longue Pointe—Grounding Due to Thick Weather.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—The local officials of the Longshoremen's Union are making every preparation to put a strong fight against the steamship lines receiving any assistance from the workmen of this city, in their fight with the St. John unions.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—The local officials of the Longshoremen's Union are making every preparation to put a strong fight against the steamship lines receiving any assistance from the workmen of this city, in their fight with the St. John unions.

The St. John men were with us on our first two years ago, and we will not be ungrateful," said Mr. McLaughlin. "We will stand by our St. John fellow workmen until the last."

The Elder Dempster steamship Angola, west ashore this morning, shortly after daylight, off Longue Pointe. She is engaged in the Canadian Mexican trade, and carried 1,900 tons of cargo.

The S.S. Angola has been floated without sustaining any damage. Her two St. Denis street cars were damaged in a collision, to-day, and five people sent to the hospital to have wounds dressed.

At the public meeting, at the board of trade, to-day, it was decided that the memorial to the late Charles Alexander would take the form of some benefit to the Montreal General Hospital.

FARM LABOR SCARCITY.

November Crop Bulletin Repeats Old Complaint.

The November crop report, issued by the Ontario department of agriculture, has the following to say in regard to labor and wages: "In most instances correspondents report a scarcity of laborers, more especially of those who have had no previous experience."

CHEESE FACTORIES ROBBED.

A. Roy Alquire Arrested at Cornwall.

Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 21.—A few days ago, fourteen or fifteen boxes of cheese were stolen from the factories of W. A. McLean, and G. A. McLean, in Roxborough township. On Thursday of last week, the cheese arrived in Cornwall in a wagon, the driver of which unloaded most of them in front of a local grocery, under the very eyes of the policeman on night patrol.

CHARLESTON LAKE LOCALS.

Charleston, Nov. 18.—A little son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hudson and another at Mr. and Mrs. E. Roberts. Our school was closed on Friday, owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss Carrie Stevens and Rinaldo Covey were united in marriage at Lansdowne, on the 8th inst. after spending a few days at Gananoque, the returned and a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevens. Miss Bertha Slack returned from Prescott on Thursday. She was accompanied by her cousin, Thomas B. Burns, Ogdenburg. Miss Julia Hudson has gone to Jersey City, N.J., to spend the winter. E. Curry and Miss Pearl Kelsey drove to Brockton on Tuesday, where they were quietly married by Rev. L. A. Betts. Mrs. Mary Burns and daughter, Lena, are spending a few days at M. Hudson's.

A Disastrous Season.

Detroit, Nov. 21.—With the close of navigation still a month off, and the worst of weather still to come, the statistics of loss of lives and vessels already this season are appalling. Over fifty ships were destroyed, and scores of others badly damaged in the storms, while the loss of life totaled over five million dollars, making the season of 1905 one of the most disastrous in the history of the lakes.

$10,000 IN CASH

Paid Yearly to Campaign Fund By Equitable.

New York, Nov. 21.—United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, testified, as a witness before the insurance investigating committee today. He said the Equitable Society contributed $10,000 a year to the republican state campaign fund. The contributions were in cash, and were uncollected, he said. The New York Life insurance company also contributed, but not nearly so much. No other insurance company contributed, as far as Mr. Platt knew. Senator Platt said he was expected, in return for the contributions, to influence legislation when any measures were hostile to the insurance companies.

President Roosevelt may be the chief architect in a co-operative effort of all the states of the union to compel the large life insurance companies, whose troubles are now being investigated in New York, to put their business on a safer and more economical basis.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Newly Paragraphs Picked Up By Reporters on Their Rounds.

Managing supplies at Chown's Drug Store, W. J. McKinley, Sealey's Bay, was in town to-day.

Fresh mustard plasters at Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store.

A. M. Clark, Picton, was a business visitor in the city, to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Hara, Watertown, are visiting in town.

D. W. Allison, Adolphustown, is registered at the Iroquois Hotel.

This is the weather that makes everyone smile. And yet another day like to-day is predicted by the weather man.

To-day's market was a poor one. Very few buyers and a limited number of farmers turned out. Saturday's prices ruled.

They may money does not make people happy. Try a box of McCook's high-class candy from Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store.

William Parsons, who died in Toronto, Monday morning, was a brother-in-law of Mr. James Reid, and a stepson of Edward Ball, Sr., of Kingston.

The first meeting of the Presbyterian Guild was held in Cooke's church, Monday night, with a large attendance. The enjoyable evening was spent discussing the life and works of John Greenleaf Whittier.

Superintendent Hewitt, of the waterworks, says that he notified the Toronto Smoke Consumer company regarding the making of another test at the pump house, as they desire, but he has heard nothing further about the matter.

There will be special meetings of the city property committees this week, on the evening of another test at the Locomotive works' exemption by law. A special meeting of the city council may be called for Friday evening.

Charles Livingston, Jr., on a trip to the northern point of Alaska, is homeward bound, but will not likely reach here before Christmas. He is having a glorious time and has seen much of the country, tramping over many mountains in a geological tour.

To-night, Rudin Goldman's lectures in Convocation hall, under auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club. His subject is "Tristan and Isolde." As the story goes, Marke, King of Cornwall, Ireland. He sends his nephew, the knight knight, Sir Tristan, to conduct her across the sea. During the journey, Tristan and Isolde, who have previously loved each other, partake of a fatal love-potion, which influences the further development of the drama. Tristan's follower, Kurwenal, Isolde's companion, Brangäne, and the Knight Melot, who betrays them to the king, are the other characters in this drama.

THE LATE R. S. DOBBS.

He Died Suddenly at His Home, on Monday.

At half past four o'clock, Monday afternoon, Richard Stewart Dobbs, at his home, 195 Johnston street, went to his room to rest, and a few moments later was found by his wife, cold in death; cerebral hemorrhage is given as the cause. Mr. Dobbs suffered a stroke some three years ago in the Opera House, and had never fully recovered though, on Monday, he had been feeling particularly well. His sudden death may come as a severe shock to his many friends. Mr. Dobbs was a retired civil engineer and had lived in Kingston, for the past eighteen years.

He was born in Toomoor, India, on May 28th, 1837. For several years he was a civil engineer, and constructed works in the Madras presidency. He was also conservator of woods and forests for the Nizam of Hyderabad. He was twice married. His second wife was Miss Isabella Bell, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Bell, registrar of Queen's College. He was a son of Major-General Richard S. Dobbs, late of Grey Stones, Ireland. Mr. Dobbs was a member of St. Andrew's church and a conservative.

Beside his widow two sons, Stewart and Gerald, survive. The funeral tomorrow from his late residence, will be private, services conducted by Rev. Dr. Mackie.

Two Days Only.

Wednesday and Thursday, 2 lbs. of lemon and orange peel, mixed, 25c.; four packages currants, 25c. at Mullin's.

F. Coates has put a light in front of his store clock for the benefit of the night police.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

PEARALL'S MILLINERY

We have some very pretty ready-to-wear hats (LATEST SHAPES), and we are going to sell them at special bargain prices this week. If at all interested you should see them. In our store will be found hundreds of different kinds of feather arrangements and velvet flowers and lollages at special prices. Be the balance of this week.

IS LAID TO REST

BURIAL OF MRS. MUCKLESTON THIS MORNING.

Many People Were at St. George's Cathedral to Take Part in the Burial Service—Quiet Ending to a Good Life.

With the joyful, reassuring prayers of her church's burial office, surrounded by the clergy to whom she had always faithfully ministered, the body of the late Mrs. Muckleston was laid quietly to rest on Tuesday. The choir of St. George's cathedral was present for the service, which began at ten o'clock, in the morning, and brightened it by leading the congregation in the singing of "Rock of Ages." (On the Resurrection morning, and the Nunc Dimittis, the amens being also choral.)

The body was met at the door of the cathedral by the Bishop of Ontario, the Dean of Ontario, Canon Starr, Canon Grout, and Rev. William Lewis, who preceded it up the aisle, repeating the opening sentences of the office beginning with Christ's words: "I am the Resurrection and the Life." The coffin was laid at the foot of the chancel steps, beside the pew in which Mrs. Muckleston had been seated for so many years, to join in the church's services of praise and prayer. "Lord thou hast been our refuge from one generation to another," Psalm XC was said by the bishop. The concluding prayers were said by the dean.

Upon the coffin, among the flowers, was a beautiful cross, given by the churchwomen of the cathedral to her who had ever been the chiefest among them, and was an expression of their love for her. It was noteworthy that among the many women who were among the congregation, there were few that did not show by the outward sign of black or black and white, in their dress, that they mourned with Mrs. Muckleston's own family, who were all in the cathedral to take part in the service.

The mourners were Canon Muckleston, of Perth; J. S. Muckleston, Regina; Canon Loucks, of Kingston, a son-in-law; Rev. Walter Muckleston Loucks, Ottawa, a grandson. The pallbearers were: Col. Sydenham McGill, Capt. Cochrane, Dr. R. V. Rogers, R. Waldron, W. B. Dalton, and C. F. Gildersleeve.

In the congregation were: Canon Cooke, Archdeacon Macmorine, Archdeacon Carey, Rev. W. W. Burton, Rev. J. O. Crisp, Rev. R. S. Forner, Rev. Dr. Nimmo, Rev. Prof. Ferguson, Rev. Prof. Ross, Mr. Smeaton, of the Orphan's Home, in which Mrs. Muckleston was ever deeply interested, and many other prominent men of the city and the cathedral congregation.

There is no weeping for the dead, for she is at rest, her life here slipping, in quiet serenity, to the life beyond.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

At evensong, at St. George's cathedral, on Sunday, Canon Starr preached on the certainty of the future life, and at the close read touching tributes to the dear old lady whose long and useful life had reached that point where youth and age sleep side by side. To her the colors of life's sunsets were brighter, in hope and promise than the dawn. Long years had failed to make her commonplace, and all who knew her felt that the common round and daily task, consecrated by the means of grace, had perfected in her the hope of glory—a hope which radiated in a cheerful, winsome influence that does more to make Christ real to the world than all philosophy. Her allegiance to Him was shown in zeal for His church and in charity towards all.

Underwear

THAT WILL KEEP MEN WARM

Some men brag about their ability to wear Summer Underwear all winter long. Maybe you're not one of that kind, then this news of Medium and Heavy Weight Wool Underwear is for your special notice.

Men's Medium Weight Unshrinkable Wool Underwear, Shirts and Drawers, a very special bargain at 75c. each.

Men's Medium Weight Unshrinkable Wool Elastic Ribbed Shirts and Drawers at 99c. each. This quality has been usually sold at $1