FOUND IN A BOOK

PURCHASE AT SECOND-HAND STORE IS A FORTUNE.

Property of a French Lady Was to be Passed to Next of Kin When Will Bequeathing Estate to God-Child Was Found.

Paris, Dec. 19.—An extraordinary story comes from Saint Etienne, of how a lost will came to light. An ex-Benedictine monk, M. Granger, was passing the Place des Ursules several days ago, and heard a second-hand bookseller selling off a job lot. "Who wants a will for a penny?" cried the man.

M. Granger looked at it, saw it had been drawn up in duplicate, and passed on. Next day he, however, mentioned the incident to a notary, who advised him to try and obtain possession of it.

The bookseller man was not back at his customary stand till a week later. The will was still for sale, and the Benedictine at once bought it, and took it to the notary, Maitre Avril, who on reading it exclaimed: "Why, it is a perfectly valid will of the late Mme. Chevanne, who leaves her whole fortune to her god-child, Sophie."

Mme. Chevanne, having apparently died intestate, her estate, valued at £16,000, was about to be handed over to her next-of-kin.

Little Sophie Chevanne is only seven years old. The will had been hidden in a book which was among an old lot bought at a sale of the old lady's furniture.

FARMERS BETTER OFF.

Less "Simple Life" Than These Was.

London Chronicle.
An old farmer said with some truth: "If we were not for the factories and railroads we would still be weaving and cheap butter at the stores for high priced sugar, tea and molasses."

There are those who assert the old times were better when the farms were "self-sustaining" and before the factory people came. But suggest to such that there is still a chance to live under exactly those conditions, in a new country like the far North-West, and they show no enthusiasm to leave their comfortable homes to get back into primitive conditions, where farm products as well as land are cheap and plenty, but money and comfort scarce. Forty years ago the "simple life" was still a sure enough reality.

Most farm families have farms except in the parlor and country families went to church in a spring wagon. It was easy to exchange goods at the store, but the dealer took a wide margin between the farmer and the store, and there was very little cash from any source. When you come to think it over, the world has moved after all.

Tour will last about forty days, and will cover the most interesting portions of the "oldest country in the New World." Apply to any Grand Trunk agent or to J. Quinn, Bonaventure station, Montreal, for all information, descriptive matter, rates, etc.

Spiritual Aims.

The well-known English clergyman, Rev. E. Griffith-Jones, said the other day: "Progress, expansion, development, evolution—all it what you will—is the master word in the world of spirit as in the world of life. . . . What the philosopher tries to do for pure thought, what the scientist tries to do with the compass and the telescope, that the religious thinker, organizer, preacher is aiming at in the 'spiritual life'—to reduce chaos into order, to resolve conflicting impulses and passions into one harmonious master motive."

Some Foolish Facts.

Reraum was a generous man; he gave everybody a show.
Washington's first ride was when he took a hack at the cherry tree.
A prize fight is a striking affair and a cabby's business a paying one.
Lovers are like armies; they have no trouble until the engagement begins.
An architect is a designing man.
A milliner is always a trim creature.

BETWEEN CRACKS OF DOOM.

Predictions That the World Will Perish by Thirst or by Flood.

American Agriculturist.
Monsieur Martel, the French cave explorer, lecturing at Cambridge last evening, declared that a great part of our so-called springs were polluted through sewage and debris, finding their way into them by holes in the surface of the earth. Through the erosion and corrosion of the earth's surface, said the lecturer, the water level was being continually lowered, and less measures for preventing this were adopted a large part of the world would in a few centuries have dried up.

In the face of this prophecy of destruction by reason of the earth absorbing the world's supply of fresh water, Sir Archibald Geikie, lecturing at Cambridge last evening on the evolution of landscape, declared that a universal decay of the land was going on at such a rate that even should its progress not be accelerated, a comparatively short period would suffice to reduce most of the dry land to the level of the sea and threaten another flood.

Sir Archibald Geikie is one of the leading professors of geology, and is the corresponding secretary of the principal foreign academies. Until four years ago he was director-general of the geological survey of the United Kingdom, and director of the Museum of Practical Geology, Jernyn street. His handbooks have been translated into most European languages.

Children's Parties.

Congressionalist.
A perplexed mother begs that attention may be called once more to the growing expense of children's parties, and an appeal made to sensible women to use their influence against it. The wife of college professors, alert to the signs of the times and anxious to train her boys and girls toward the widest usefulness and the most secure happiness, she has felt that their pleasures should be simple, cost the minimum of money and effort, and not tempting to rivalry or display. But she is disheartened to find, that when they are invited out, that the toilets, supper, souveniers, and gifts are on a scale almost more elaborate, proportionately, than those of their elders, and she detects already traces of discontent and worse yet—of that enmity which ought never to be the portion of childhood. It is hard for one to make head alone, against a popular current. But there must surely be enough other wise mothers to form a public opinion setting in the opposite direction.

Worth The Whole Of It.

A minister from Ireland who spoke at a Free Church induction service in Stevenson, Argyll, on 8th inst., told how, when travelling recently on a certain Irish railway, he was much interested in the sayings and doings of a young couple in the same compartment. They happened to be a big tunnel through which the line passed, and when the train had dived into the tunnel and emerged into daylight again, the young lady strove to divert attention from her glowing countenance by saying to her companion: "How much did that tunnel cost?" "Oh," said the young man, "it cost about £20,000." And the young lady said, "Oh, and ferretly." "It is worth the whole of it."

Love Letter In The Wrong Place.

A recent candidate for parliament in England wrote an address to the electors of the town he wished to represent, and when he got to his best girl he put the two effusions into the wrong envelopes. The printer was quite surprised at receiving an order to print 10,000 copies of the love letter in circular form.

THE DANGER THAT LURKS IN COLDS

And How Serious Results Can Be Avoided by Use of CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

There is one way in which the ravages of a cold can be very materially lessened and that is by the prompt and thorough cure of coughs and colds.
While weak lungs undoubtedly predispose to long and consumption, the beginning must always be with a neglected cold.
By directing your attention to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, we make known to you the most certain and effective means of curing coughs and colds and preventing such diseases as bronchitis, consumption and pneumonia.
This is not a new medicine, not an experiment, but a preparation which has successfully stood the test of time and has to-day by far the largest sale of any similar treatment.
If you can only help you to realize the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, we know that you will not run the risk of depending on any "cough mixture" the druggist may choose to hand you out, but will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.
Mrs. R. Hutton, 12 Claremont street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "A year ago I had a bad attack of the grippe and all the doctor's prescriptions proved of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it a great blessing, as it thoroughly cured me. I told my doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends. I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Write for a more effective treatment for cough, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, coughs and colds than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. 25c. a bottle, at all dealers.

CUT CROSS FROM NECK.

Daring Theft of $1,000 Emblem in Buffalo Church.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 18.—A gold cross, set across with rubies and suspended on a gold chain, was cut from the vestments of the Rev. Charles H. Colton, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Buffalo, while he was attending the dedication of St. Nicholas Greek cathedral church on Sunday. The cross was valued at more than $1,000. The cross hung about the bishop's neck over all his robes. While in a crush immediately after the service the cross disappeared. Police were summoned quickly, and while no one was searched, every one was closely scrutinized leaving the church. The bishop has offered a reward for the return of the cross.

STRIKE IN ROYAL DOCKYARD.

Workmen on Battleship Take Unprecedented Course.

Portsmouth, Eng., Dec. 18.—A strike was begun at the dockyard, on Saturday, among the men who are building the battleship Breadalough, on which work is being pushed with all speed, though the exact reason for the unusual haste has not transpired. The men have been required to work overtime, and Friday evening the riveters decided their pay was inadequate, and refused to resume work until their grievance was adjusted. After some delay their chief promised to recommend the reform they requested, whereupon the men returned to their labor. This, it is stated, is the first time a strike has taken place at the Royal dockyards.

Cultivating The Wrong End.

Speaking at a school prize distribution, John Burns, M.P., said that sport was being very much overdone and young men were developing their feet instead of their heads. He would not mind if they all played or took a healthy interest in sport, but it was a serious thing for so many to assemble to see other people play while they looked on. They wanted sportsmen, not gladiators; athletes, not professionals, and recreation, not brutality.

Tiger Killed With An Axe.

Madras Weekly Mail.
Link, a Sakali, was digging for potatoes with a wooden spade at Ulu Jak, Perak, in the Malay states, when a tiger seized his leg by below the knee. He turned and hit the tiger on the head with a big chopper, which he picked up, killing the animal with one blow. He had to force open the tiger's mouth with his wooden spade to release his leg.

Denied Kiss; Shoots Husband.

Charleston, W.Va., Dec. 18.—Because her husband refused to kiss her before going to work this morning, Mrs. Werley Peyton, shot him, inflicting a dangerous wound.
Louisville, Ky., Dec. 18.—Because his wife refused to kiss him after they had quarrel, Peter Raunche drank an ounce of carbolic acid, a bottle of limonene, and cut his right wrist twice with a razor.

Have It In The House.

There is nothing else you can have in your house worth so much that costs so little as a bottle of Smith's White Lipiment. It will enable you to escape the discomfort of sprains, rheumatism and the various aches and pains apt to come to anyone. Costs but 75c. for a big bottle at Wade's. Money back if not satisfactory.

Gives Mansion For Education.

London, Dec. 18.—The Duke of Sutherland has given his paternal seat in the house, Trentham Hall, which is the Italian palace mentioned by Lord Beaconsfield in his novel, "Lothair," to the Staffordshire county council for the purpose of higher education.
