

WOMAN'S BACK IS THE MAINSPRING OF HER PHYSICAL SYSTEM.

The slightest Back-ache, if neglected, is liable to Cause Years of Terrible Suffering.

A woman can be strong and healthy as the kidneys are well, and regular in action. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which kidneys ought to have filtered out of the blood are left in the system.

The female constitution is naturally more subject to kidney disease than a man's; and what is more, a woman's work never done—her whole life is one continuous strain.

How many women have you heard say, "How my back aches!" Do you know backache is one of the first signs of trouble? It is, and should be attended to immediately. Other symptoms are frequent thirst, scanty, thick, cloudy urine, frequent urination, burning sensation on urinating, frequent urination, puffing under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, floating specks before the eyes, etc. These symptoms if not taken in time and dealt with at once, will cause years of terrible suffering. All these symptoms, and all these diseases may be cured by the

OLD GUY CURTIS IS STILL AT HOCKEY.

He is the Unrivaled Referee of the Rural Matches—Sporting Paragraphs From Many Fields.

Berlin won from Varsity by a score of four to one in an exhibition match. The fight between young Corbett and Herrera was postponed for two weeks.

Berlin defeated London in the Western Ontario Basketball League by a score of 82 to 45.

Montreal defeated Shamrocks in the inaugural game of the Eastern Canada Amateur Hockey Association by a score of nine goals to three.

Old Guy Curtis has again arisen from the dead, and has become the official referee for the rural hockey teams around the hamlet of Delta.

The inducements offered eastern players to go to New York was twenty-five dollars a week. Thirteen Canadian players are attached to the Brooklyn Club team.

Old country football enthusiasts of Toronto, decided to call their organization the Anglo-Canadian Rugby Football Club. Mayor Gower was elected honorary president.

Varsity hockey team has arranged with the Pittsburgh rink officials to play two games there on January 19th and 20th, with the Carnegie Institute and Technical School.

The New York Hockey League has taken drastic measures to prevent the importation of Canadian players by barring them all out. The embargo is expected to keep the game clear of professionalism.

Superior passing on the part of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. basketball team in the unspectacular playing of the Rochester five, gave the contest at the Rochester Y.M.C.A. gymnasium to the Canadian team, by the score of 28 to 22.

There will be no hockey in Hamilton this winter. Even the executive of the Wholesalers' League was not able to make terms for a place to play. Hamilton lovers of the game will have to go to Grimsby to see matches.

The Kansas City Jubel Club says that owing to the repeal of the Prohibition Law at the last session of the state legislature the officials of the club say there is no possibility of any racing under the auspices of the club during the year 1906.

At Buffalo, in an exciting finish Alec Samuelson, the big Swede from the steel plant, was thrown in seven minutes by McLeod, McLeod, who is meeting all comers there this week, displayed some of his old-time form, and showed conclusively that he is entitled to meet any man in his class.

The greatest slugging feat in the history of baseball was that of the late Edward DeLoachy, of Adon's Terry, on the West Side grounds in Chicago. The feat is historic, but there are so many quibbles concerning it that it is worth while giving the facts. It was a game between Philadelphia and Chicago one afternoon in 1890. DeLoachy was in rare form, and, in the language of the game, he "had everything." The first time up DeLoachy cracked the ball high over the right field fence, not far inside the foul line—perhaps about forty feet—for a home run. The second time up he drove a liner over short. Dahlen got his hands on the ball, but it tore through them and rolled clear out to left field. The third time up he flung the ball over the right field fence again, this time far down in right centre. The next time he drove the ball out to the clubhouse in centre for his third home run. In the ninth inning he came up again. Lange played back between the two clubhouses, and the other outfielders retreated to the fences. DeLoachy hit the ball straight to centre, struck the top of one clubhouse, bounded to the top of the other, and rolled back up the field, and the big fellow made the circuit again, making a total of four home runs and a three-bagger for five times at bat. Yet Philadelphia got only eight hits off Terry in the game, counting Del's five, and was beaten 8 to 6.

AMPLE ICE SUPPLY.

Its Importance at Creameries Pointed Out.

The season is now at hand when the creameries must lay in a stock of ice for use next summer.

The reports of C. E. Mortureux, F. A. Knowlton and other members of the dairy commissioner's staff, show that many creameries have in the past been out of ice before the season is finished. No creamery has a right to solicit the support of milk producers unless they are prepared to take proper care of the butter by keeping it at a sufficiently low temperature to prevent undue deterioration in quality. The age of butter is to be calculated more by the temperature at which it is kept than by the number of days that may have elapsed since it was made. Creamery men must get rid of the idea that no harm results from a high temperature, say fifty degrees, when the butter is held only for a few days. If the butter was consumed in that time it would not be so important, but it is weeks after the butter is shipped before the bulk of it reaches the consumer, and it cannot be exposed to a high temperature one hour, to say nothing of days, without shortening its life, or in other words, the period during which it will be in its best condition.

When the writer was in England last summer he was sometimes reminded that one of the weakest points of Canadian butter is that it does not keep well. Too high a temperature at the creamery is one of the principal reasons for this very serious defect. Buttery milk, cheese, is at its best when newly made. Any further fermentation tends towards rancidity, staleness or other objectionable flavors. Fermentation is checked by reducing the temperature. The temperature in every creamery cold storage should be kept below forty degrees—this lower the better—and the patrons have a right to know if this matter is being attended to. Our records show that very few of the creamery cold storages are kept below forty degrees.

Creameries are sometimes satisfied with results if the buyer of the butter finds no fault with the temperature at which it has been kept, but they forget that it is not the business of the buyer to point out these things. It is his business to purchase the butter and to sell it again at a profit. When he has done that he has no further interest in the matter. It is not so with the creamery owner or the patrons whose real interest in the butter does not cease until it is finally consumed, because the condition of the butter at that time will determine whether the demand for it will be increased or not and demand for any article is a most important factor in determining the price that will be paid for it.

These words are written with the object of inducing creamery owners to make sure of having an ample supply of ice for all purposes during the season of 1906.

Not In Any Danger.

It is told of Winston Churchill, the newly appointed under-secretary for the colonies, who had recently had occasion to take into dinner a very haughty lady. Winston, it seems, is beginning to cultivate a moustache, that unlike his father's, will always be small. The lady was not very gracious to her partner, and at the finish said, "Mr. Churchill, I loathe your politics and I do not like your moustache." "Do not trouble yourself, madam," was the quick reply. "You are never likely to be brought into contact with either."

Exports This Year.

In 1904 the United States was practically out of the business of exporting wheat, owing to the shortage in crop. It is, however, estimated by the Crop Reporter, an official publication of the United States department of agriculture, that the United States will have nearly two hundred million bushels of wheat for export from the crop of 1905.

To Remove Grease Spots.

The following recipe for removing grease spots will, the Boston Post says, never fail, and will not injure the most delicate fabric, and will remove from a carpet a pint of oil without leaving a trace behind. Rub as much dry buckwheat flour upon the oil or grease spot as it will take, surrounding and covering it entirely; let it remain a few days, then brush off. A second application is seldom needed.

Girl May Sue for Use of Her Picture.

Pittsburg, Jan. 5.—The Beauty and the Beast, an art calendar presented in Elizabeth, N.J., is commanding cabinet photograph prices and more, notwithstanding it bears the advertisement of Hauschild & Co., butchers. It may involve the publisher in a damage suit, because the "Beauty" is recognized as Mrs. Florence Evelyn Thaw, former model and show girl, wife of Harry Kendall Thaw, Pittsburg millionaire.

The calendar shows a beautiful girl reclining on the skin of a polar bear. The head of the "Beast" remains attached to the pelt, and the cheek of the pretty woman is pressed against the jaw of the brute.

There seems to have been no design on the part of the butcher to make capital of the Thaw social sensation, for he confessed that he was at a loss to know why his calendar became so popular the first day that he could not hand them out fast enough. It was all explained when an agent of the Thaw family called at the shop and demanded the entire edition.

At first the butcher refused and was inclined to be defiant. But when the agent threatened arrest and offered to pay a good price for all that were left he surrendered what remained. Then the agent went out to buy up the copies that had been given away. People are holding on to them, and few who possess the picture will admit it now.

His Patriotic Scheme.

To Be a Nation of Expert Rifle-men.

London, Jan. 5.—"If every able-bodied man in our islands is prepared to play the part of the strong man armed, his own and his country's goods will remain at peace."

Such is the proposition which Lord Roberts makes as the keynote of his campaign in favor of universal military training, to carry on which he recently resigned his membership of the imperial defence committee. His first speech after his resignation was delivered to the members of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce, and one more he emphasized the danger to the country arising from the present condition of things.

"I have no hesitation in saying," he declared, "that, in case of invasion, every Briton should be liable to serve in person against the enemy. That obligation ought to be recognized and enforced by law. But readiness to fight is not the same thing as ability to fight. In order to take any useful part against the highly organized troops of other nations a man must be able to use his rifle with skill, and he must have received a certain amount of training and military discipline."

His proposals did not mean conscription, continued Lord Roberts. "By the system I propose," he said, "no actual service would be demanded of anyone except for home defence in the event of a great national emergency. But every able-bodied man, whatever his birth, or position, would be obliged to acquire a knowledge of military duties sufficient to fit him for taking his part in the defence of his country."

Detailing his proposals, Lord Roberts said they included the deliberate fostering of a spirit of patriotism among school children, the inclusion of military training in the curriculum of all public schools, the formation of cadet corps in connection with all colleges and secondary schools, and the compulsory attachment of all lads under eighteen years of age to the cadet corps, which should be formed throughout the country, under state supervision. The training in the cadet corps should be followed by a further training for adults varying in length according to the result of the preliminary training.

The Ever-Popular Sailor Dress.

There is hardly anything so popular in the catalogue of dress for the wee folk of the nursery as is the sailor design. Not only for the little maid, but for her brother as well, this loose and easy and eminently picturesque blouse meets with enthusiastic acceptance. In the picture it is of white shillie, a material that does not display the shrinking qualities of serge or flannel when it passes through the cleansing tub of the laundress. The blouse follows the regulation line, being of the Peter Thompson persuasion. Collar and shield are attached permanently to the body lining, upon which the skirt is likewise hung; and the blouse itself is drawn on over the head, buttons on the body lining and button-holes concealed beneath the deep collar serving to hold it in place; while the elastic band that is run in the hem serves to adjust the fullness around the waist. The skirt is merely full widths of the shillie shirred to the body lining, and finished with a plain stitched hem. The buttonholes on the shield are in sear as is also the sailor tie that knots below the collar.
