Charles Given Believes He is Entitled to Half the Fortune of His Uncle Captain Given, Who Left Estate of Half Million.

Through a newspaper advertisement Bernard Given, Oswego, N.Y., hopes to prove his claim to the estate of Capt. George Given, a wealthy shipowner of Glasgow, Scotland, who was lost at sea in 1888. The estate, which is valued at over $500,000, is held by the Bank of England awaiting proof of the claim of next of kin to the ceased shipowner and the only legal Given and Charles Given, of Kingston, In the spring of 1888, Capt. Given ailed from London, with a cargo of merchandise and 700 passengers for Australia and was shipwrecked within a few hundred miles of his destina tion. The steamer Ethiopia, bound for Glasgow, picked up the surviving passengers, but the captain and many was believed for many years that Capt. Given had survived the disaster and no effort was made to claim his estate by his heirs, but in the lapse of time it has been proved bewond doubt that the wealthy captain went down with his ill-fated ship. In an effort to obtain the fortune which he believes to be rightfully his, an endeavor will be made to clear away the obstacles to the settlement of the estate. Information has been sought regarding the family of Capt. Search has recently been made by the birthplace of Capt. Given, but no heirs have been found.
