THE POWER OF THE MUSTACHE.

The dictum with regard to the wearing of mustaches in the army is not confined to the Royal Military College, Kingston. A recent order from the northern command in far-away India, says: "The lieutenant general commanding, having noticed that, contrary to regulations, many officers are in the habit of shaving the upper lip, has directed that the practice must be stopped, and holds all commanding officers personally responsible that the order is obeyed by all under their commands."

THE UNIONIST MACHINE.

Whip Danes Story of Two Appointments. London, Feb. 5.—Sir Alexander Acland-Hood, chief whip of the conservative party, has issued a denial that Messrs. Muller and Sanders have been appointed to the chief posts in the conservative machine. It is impossible to give implicit credence to such a denial, but it is equally impossible to recognize that the announcement of their appointment was significant of an attempt on the part of the supporters of ex-Premier Balfour to collar the unionist machine, probably with Mr. Balfour's consent. It is believed in London that the premature announcement of the appointments spoiled the plan of those desiring to see it accomplished.
