their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their women friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising, and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but still she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—was carefully studied and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistance, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

CUBAN MINISTER TO THE U.S. Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In an article in The Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Mantanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many instances under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement; but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti."

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

Congressman J. H. Bankhead, of Alabama, one of the most influential members of the House of Representatives, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., gives his endorsement to the great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

"Your Peruna is one of the best medicines I ever tried, and no family should be without your remarkable remedy. As a tonic and catarrh cure I know of nothing better."—J. H. Bankhead.

BEST CIVIC ASSET OTTAWA HAS IS WATERWORKS' SYSTEM.

And Permission Will Be Asked to Extend It—Fashionable Wedding—Leading Hotelkeepers Up For Illegal Selling.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Ottawa will apply at the forthcoming session of the Ontario legislature for authority to spend $100,000 in extending the waterworks system. It is the best paying civic asset, and the city is hampered by lack of power to extend.

The first disagreement between the city corporation and the Grand Trunk railway system has arisen in connection with the operation of the company's line near the city waterworks property. The railway line running around the flats to Booth's Mills, goes over certain property which the company claims belongs to it, while the city says it is the real owner, and the railway is there only by consent.

A fashionable wedding took place today, when Miss Isabel Frances Gledes, daughter of C. G. Gledes, Fletcher Creek, N.W.T., and granddaughter of Sheriff Sweetland, became the bride of James L. P. MacLaren, son of Hon. Senator Peter MacLaren of Perth.

Sixteen hotelkeepers are on the carpet, before Magistrate O'Keefe, for illegal selling, as a result of the work of two informers, said to be in the employ of the Ontario government.

BOOTH'S GRANDDAUGHTERS. Girls Trained Up to Work in the Army.

Two of General Booth's granddaughters, Mary and Miriam Bramwell Booth, have just made their debut as religious leaders, and with such success that they have added testimony to the fact that the family of the leader of the Salvation Army is not altogether a remarkable one.

These girls, whose ages are eighteen and seventeen, have for long helped in the Salvation Army's work by holding Sunday school, selling the War Cry in public houses, and the like, but it was only the other day that they were called upon to take advantage of two great meetings in the theatre at Crydon.

The girls are as unlike in appearance and method as could possibly be. Mary is very quiet, self-restrained, and shy, though entirely unafraid.

A Kansas missionary working in Tibet, Asia, has taught some of the pupils the great American habit of cheating gum, even though he has not converted any to Christianity yet.

Well Made. George Howlett of Beacon's Bottoms, England, recently published the following handsome testimonial in a local newspaper: "I beg to say that Williams' Stewarts, of Town End, Radnagh, measured me for a suit of clothes, which was made by his son, Vernon, then a lad. I have worn the same on Sundays and other times for forty-seven years, and they are good now, and not a stitch has given way."

Little Carl Telgmann. Just five years ago to-day, O. F. Telgmann, a well-known telegraph contractor, congratulating him on receiving so beautiful a valentine—the birth of a son—the little Carl Edward, who passed away in the Hotel Dieu on Saturday, February 10th. The little was the brightest, not only of his home, where parents and sisters idolized him, but of the neighborhood, where his home was. His bright "Hello," and his stately manner, and laughing face endeared him to many, who would stop and have a word with him, and hear his childish remarks about his play. He was a great friend of Archbishop Gauger, and was a frequent welcome visitor about the palace grounds. Mr. and Mrs. Telgmann and the little sisters have the deep sympathy of many friends who personally mourn little Carl.

Cured By Fright. An old woman in Germany has been bedridden on account of paralysis for ten years until last August, when a tempest in her neighborhood shook the houses, and so frightened the old paralytic that she leaped from her bed. There has been no relapse, and here may be set down perhaps as the only case of cure by tempest.

There are some details in which "the old country" still leads the world. The British postal service is a notable instance to which the attention of Americans has lately been forcibly directed by an official report. Mr. Wilcox, postmaster for New York, returned from a trip to Europe, tells that of all the services inspected the British postoffice is by a long way the best.

CREWS STARVING UNITED STATES WHALERS IN PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

News Brought to Edmonton—Corporal of Mounted Police From Herschell Island Predicts a Terrible Mortality.

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 14.—Frozen up in the Arctic Sea, several thousand miles from civilization, with scurvy breaking out among the crews, ten American whaling ships are in a bad plight around Herschell Island, Corp. Munro, of the Royal North-West Mounted Police, has just arrived here from that far-off police post, having left there last July.

Four ships had spent the winter at Point Barrow, on Herschell Island. They were the Rowhead, Karluk, Herman, and Honana. Eight other ships arrived last summer and announced their intention of getting out during the fall, but only two of them managed to reach the Pacific. The others are frozen in, and he believes that a large percentage of the crews will lose their lives from starvation and scurvy.

The summer season in those waters gives the whalers only about six weeks to work, and nearly every winter some ships are obliged to stay at Herschell Island on account of their losses.

In 1897 sixteen ships wintered there, and seventy-five per cent. of the crews died, either of starvation or of scurvy.

THEY PROMOTE CELIBACY. Women's College Statistics Go to Prove It.

It would be too sweeping an assertion to state that women's colleges are institutions for the promotion of celibacy, and yet an examination of the percentage of graduates among college-bred women would lead color to the statement. Dr. John Dewey found that 23 per cent. of the graduates of women's colleges marry; 21 per cent. go into the professions; 28 per cent. of co-education girls marry, and 12 per cent. go into the professions.

He makes 26 per cent. of the graduates of twelve American college marry, at an average age of twenty-seven. The marriage took place six years after graduation. He found 74 per cent. single. Miss Shinn concludes, after an examination of 1,803 cases, that only 28 per cent. married. The rate of marriage for the country at large for women more than twenty years of age is nearly 80 per cent. She concludes that, under twenty-five, college women rarely marry, and but a small portion of them have married. Another investigator, Miss Abbott, showed that of 8,956 graduates of sixteen colleges, 23 per cent. were married. It would appear that the rate of marriages of college women is decreasing and that the age at which marriage occurs is becoming steadily later.

TAKING THE OATH. This Procedure is Now Going On.

London, Feb. 14.—Shortly after the assembling of the House of Commons to-day, the speaker, Mr. Balfour, accompanied by a majority of the members, proceeded to the House of Lords, where the speaker's election was confirmed by royal command. On his return the speaker reminded the House of Commons that the first thing to be done was to subscribe to the oath required by law, and standing upon the upper step of the chair, he himself took the oath in the name of the King, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the premier, and the other cabinet ministers took the same oath, and the swearing in of the rank and file began.

HE KILLS EQUESTRIENNE. Former Sweetheart Stabs Her and Escapes.

Barcelona, Feb. 14.—A former equestrienne has just been murdered here by one of her sweethearts. She was a dancer and obtained an engagement at the A. leazar, where she peared as Rosita del Oro. While returning home she met her sweetheart, from whom she had separated, and whom she desired to be received back into the company. She refused his request, whereupon the man stabbed her several times. She was conveyed to a hospital, where she died. The murderer escaped.

THE cost of living is an important thing in most homes. You may have to figure closely in these matters. A little extra on a barrel of flour may look big to you.
