"TAKE MY CURE, WHEN CURED YOU PAY ME"

The fear that you could not be cured may have deterred you from taking honest treatment, or you may have been one of the unfortunates, who have been treated in vain by inexperienced physicians, free treatment, free trial samples, patent medicines, electric belts and other similar devices. Such treatments cannot and will never cure you, nor will these notables cure themselves. When I offer you a cure, and am willing to risk my professional reputation in curing you, and have such faith and confidence in my continued success in treating these diseases that not a dollar need be paid until you are cured, a fairer proposition cannot be offered to the sick and afflicted. This should convince the skeptical that I mean what I say, and do exactly as I advertise, as I am positive of curing you in the shortest possible time, without injurious after-effects. My charges will be as low as possible, for conscientious skilful and successful services, and my guarantee is made and true. Not a dollar need be paid until cured. I have 14 diplomas and certificates from the various colleges and state boards of medical examiners, which should be sufficient guarantee of my standing and abilities. It makes no difference who has failed to cure you, it will be to your advantage to write to me for my opinion of your case, which I give you free of charge. I want to hear from persons who have been unable to get cured. I will guarantee a positive cure for all chronic, nervous blood and skin diseases which I accept for treatment. I not only cure the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, blood poison, physical and nervous debility, lack of vitality, stomach troubles, etc. All medicines for patients are prepared in my own laboratory to meet the requirements of each individual case. All medicines for Canadian patients sent from Windsor, Ont., duty and transportation prepaid. I will send a booklet on the subject which contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address simply

WEDDING DAY.

Miss Alice Roosevelt Is A Happy Bride.

'TWAS BIG EVENT

THE WHITE HOUSE WAS THRONGED TO SEE IT.

The Ceremony Was Performed at High Noon—The Episcopal Service Was Used—The Bridal Gown—Off on a Tour—'Twas a Real Love Match.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 17.—No social event in the history of this country has ever attracted as much interest in all sections of the country and among all classes of the population, as the wedding of Alice Roosevelt, eldest daughter of President Roosevelt, to Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio. The popularity of Miss Roosevelt's father, coupled with the undeniable fact that all the world loves a lover, particularly if that lover is the daughter of the chief executive of the country and has endeared herself by her naturalness and democratic ways, has made the wedding of Miss Roosevelt a national event in the full sense of the world. The wedding came quite near being considered an international event, and, to some extent, has assumed that character, although President Roosevelt, with true democratic spirit, tried his best to prevent it.

The beginning of the ceremony had been set for high noon, but the first carriages with guests began to arrive shortly after eleven o'clock, and when the noon hour approached, there was an uninterrupted line of carriages depositing their occupants at the hospitable door of the White House.

It had been intended to limit the number of guests who were to be present at the wedding in the east room to 850, but it is safe to say that this number was exceeded by several hundred. Notwithstanding their generous proportions the east room, the large main corridor and the adjoining rooms were filled to their capacity by the time the ceremony began. It was a brilliant assemblage which filled the magnificently decorated rooms. Women in beautiful gowns, men of distinguished appearance, in military uniforms, the rich garb of the diplomatic corps or the less picturesque costume prescribed for ordinary civilians at noonday functions of this character, crowded the space reserved for the invited guests who waited patiently the beginning of the ceremony.

Before The Altar—The Bride's Gown.

The Wedding Ceremony.

A few minutes before noon Bishop Satterlee, of Washington, and Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, who were to perform, and respectively assist in the ceremony, arrived in the East room and took their places within the enclosure of white ribbons, forming a barrier around the floral altar. A few minutes later the bridegroom, accompanied by his best man, Thomas Nelson Perkins, entered the room and took their positions at the side of the altar, where they awaited the arrival of the bridal party.

The bridal party proper descended from the upper floor by way of the private stairway, between the state dining-room and the breakfast room and moved through the wide corridor which runs 170 feet from west to east in the mansion, to the East room.

The bride leaned on her father's arm and walked with stately and dignified steps. Mrs. Roosevelt walked with her son Kermit. Miss Ethel with her brother Archibald and the baby of the family, Quentin, was conducted by his cousin, William S. Cowles, Jr., the only son of Capt. and Mrs. William S. Cowles, Mrs. George C. Lee, the venerable grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. William S. Cowles walked together, and were followed by the other members of the Lee, Roosevelt and Longworth families, who had come from all parts of the country to attend the wedding.

BISHOP SATTERLEE

The eight ushers selected by the bridegroom awaited the bridal party at the foot of the stairs and preceded them to the East room, where they arranged themselves, four on each side, forming an aisle. They held white ribbons in such a way that they formed an arch, beneath which the bridal party marched toward the altar. The ushers were: Quincy Adams Shaw, of Boston; Frederick Winthrop, of New York; Francis R. Bangs, of Boston; Guy Norman, of Boston; B. A. Wallingford, of Cincinnati.

The wedding ceremony was conducted in accordance with the ritual of the Episcopal church, Bishop Satterlee officiating and Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith assisting in the ceremony. During the progress of the ceremony the boys' choir of St. John's church sang a number of sacred selections, including Mr. Longworth's favorite, "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," from "Elijah," and a selection from the Song of Solomon, "My Beloved Cometh."

After the ceremony the ushers, who had been guarding the approach to the floral altar, formed in line and preceded the bridal party on their recessional, while the Maine band played an animated march.

The Bridal Dress.

Miss Alice Roosevelt looked lovely in her magnificent bridal costume. The gown was cut in Princess style, which is particularly becoming to the slender and graceful figure of the bride. It was of pearl white satin, showing a design of roses, outlined in silver thread on the plain background. The material was specially woven in one of the Paterson, N.J., silk mills and the design then destroyed to prevent duplication. The skirt was plain and tight fitting around the hips and waist, with no trimming whatever. The bodice was tight fitting as far as the bust, where it draped softly in crosswise folds, the fronts fastening in alternate tabs, showing a vest of soft tulle, which began at the end of the yoke. The transparent yoke was of real rose point lace, an heirloom of the Lee family. The sleeves were of elbow length, being finished with soft ruffles of the same lace. The train, fully three yards long, began at the shoulders, was of heavy white brocke, lined with plain white satin and finished on the sides and at the bottom with ruches of chiffon.

The bridal veil, another family heirloom, was of soft tulle, falling almost to the bottom of the train. It was held by a spray of orange blossoms, falling loosely over the coiffure. The bride carried no flowers, but only a small, ivory bound prayer book, the same which her mother carried at her wedding.

After the wedding party had left the East room the invited guests formed in groups and gradually made their way to the famous blue room where the wedding luncheon was to be served. It was fully one o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth made their appearance.

When Mrs. Longworth returned to the guests, she wore a charming reception gown of the richest white silk, cut low in the neck, trimmed with a bertha of rare lace, sleeves dropping off the shoulder into a puff, finished with a band of lace just about the elbow. The body of the skirt and the bodice, was ornamented with beautiful embroidered butterflies of various sizes. The smaller ones in the upper part of the dress were flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride looked charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Off On The Tour.

The wedding luncheon and reception lasted until three o'clock, when Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth retired to prepare themselves for their departure on their wedding trip. An hour later the newly married couple was driven to the Pennsylvania station, where the special Pullman car "Republic," specially fitted up for the bridal trip, stood ready to receive them. Mrs. Longworth looked charming in her travelling gown of tan cloth, cut in princess style and with a short bolero jacket. The skirt was trimmed with folds of chiffon velvet of the same shade as the cloth. The upper part of the waist and the sleeves were tan chiffon and lace. The little coat was trimmed with bands of velvet. With this costume she wore a tri-cornered hat of tan velvet, with a bird of paradise at the side, fastened with a tortoise-shell and silver buckle.

The final destination of the trip was carefully kept secret, but it is understood that the couple will go south, probably to Georgia and will pay a visit to the home of her mother. Later they intend to spend a week or more at Palm Beach, Fla.

The trip will only last about three weeks, as the session of congress makes it necessary for Mr. Longworth to return to Washington. After their return the young couple will live at the John Davies Jones home on Eighteenth street and I street, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Sr., will take care of the household to relieve the young and inexperienced bride of all household duties.

To Have A Longer Trip.

After the adjournment of congress, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth intend to go to Europe and spend some time in the capitals of the principal countries. It is expected that they will be presented at the various courts visited, although the death of King Oscar of Denmark will somewhat interfere with the original plans of the trip. The European courts being in mourning, there will be little opportunity for the travelers to attend large court functions. They propose to spend considerable time in London and Paris, where both have many friends and relations.

The lease of their house in Washington runs two years and then Mr. and Mrs. Longworth will go to Cincinnati, where they will reside at the old Longworth mansion "Rookwood," which is a veritable museum, filled with the most beautiful and costly art treasures.

Everybody realized that it was a love match pure and simple and that neither considerations of money nor state reasons had anything to do with the relations between Miss Roosevelt and her western admirer. It was this fact more than anything else that made the engagement and today's wedding events of such national interest.

Gifts Were Beautiful.

It is extremely doubtful whether any bride who was not a princess of royal blood was ever so overwhelmed with wedding presents as Mrs. Longworth.

For weeks wedding gifts of every description have been flowing into the White House, until the library was actually filled with the gifts. They came from every part of the United States, from every corner of the world and varied in value from a few dollars to a king's ransom.

Nothing gives strong proof of the popularity of the bride than the fact that the wedding presents sent to her from all parts of the world were by no means all sent by wealthy people or the heads of governments. Many of the gifts came from comparatively poor people, farmers in some of the western states, artisans and others not richly endowed with worldly goods. From those sources the bride has received enough victuals to feed a good sized family for a year. Among the gifts were potatoes, all kinds of vegetables and fruit, pumpkins, eggs, and even coal in generous quantities.

THE HOW AND WHY OF IT.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the parts of the fruit that do you good. Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes are pressed—the juices separated from the tough, woody fibre—and concentrated. Then—(and this is the secret of "Fruit-a-tives")—one more atom of bitter principle from the orange peels is forced into the concentrated fruit juices. By this process—one of the most remarkable achievements of the age—the juices are made stronger, and many times more active medicinally. Finest tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole evaporated and pressed into tablets. "Fruit-a-tives" are the greatest tonic, laxative and blood purifying medicine ever discovered.

GOLD IN ALASKA.

Discovered by Russian Trader on Anauk River.

Ketchikan Mining Journal.

Gold was first discovered in Alaska on the Anauk river, a tributary of the Kuskowim river, which joins the latter stream about twenty-five miles below the trading post of Kalamakoffsky. The Anauk river was discovered by Ivan Simenson Lukeen in 1832, at which time he built a fort, called Lukeen's Fort, on the Kuskowim river, twenty-five miles above the mouth of the Anauk. It was partly destroyed by natives in 1841, and, rebuilt by Kalamakoff, a Russian trader, was afterwards called Kalamakoff redoubt.

In 1832 the headquarters of the Russian-American Trading company were at Sitka and supplies were transported thence to Lukeen's Fort by way of Nushagak river, Tic-chic river lake and down the Anauk river to the Kuskowim river, and thence up stream twenty-five miles to the fort. In 1837 the yearly supplies were sent by way of the mouth of the Kuskowim river and the old way abandoned as a summer route and used only for the purpose of sending out the mails during the winter by dog teams. It was the only winter route the Russians ever used from any point on the Yukon to the outside (Sitka), and was only abandoned for the purpose after they left the country.

It was while one one of these trips in 1832 that the Russians discovered gold on the Anauk, and it is known to-day as the Yellow river of the Russians. It is not known whether they ever attempted mining on any large scale or whether they found gold in paying quantities but it is thought to be the first time on record of gold being found in this country.

Lukeen was born of Russian and Spanish-American Creole parents in the Ross colony in California. He was well educated at the Sitka school and proved to be an active, energetic and intelligent officer. In 1863 Lukeen ascended the Yukon river from St. Michael to Fort Gibbon, then a Hudson's Bay company trading post, which was built by McMurray, who descended the Porcupin river in 1847. Lukeen was the first man who connected the Pelly river of Campbell and the sea. He returned to St. Michael that fall. In 1866 the Russian garrison at Kalamakoff redoubt, in charge of Dementoff was withdrawn, the United States having purchased Alaska from the Russians.

At Chaffey's Locks.

Chaffey's Locks, Feb. 16.—The ice harvest is now over as nearly every one who required ice has secured a supply. Ice is about fifteen inches thick. A new wharf has been built at Terry Moore Island here, which will enable steamers to land with safety in the future. E. Edgers has been kept quite busy with his sawing machine in this vicinity and nearly all the residents have a good supply of fuel for the coming year. Mrs. E. Edgers and Mrs. W. H. Fleming are both able to be around again after several weeks of severe illness. Miss Rose Simmons has gone to Cleveland, Ohio, to visit her sister, Mrs. R. J. Burns. A pleasant time was spent last night at a party given by Mrs. A. W. Dwyre. A petition has been forwarded to the minister of railways and canals through Mr. Gibson, of Gananoque, asking to have a bridge erected over the canal at Davis' station, two miles from here. Members of the Opinicon club are about to build two boat houses and a large addition to the club house. There will be two more gasoline launches and a number of skiffs added to the fleet next spring.

Startling Weakness In Her Kidneys

Undermind Strength, Caused Nervous Exhauston, Langour, and Melancholia — Strange Case Cured by

DR. HAMILTON'S Mandrake and Butternut Pills

The treatment of sick kidneys has been reduced to an exact science by Dr. Hamilton.

His pills relieve from the first dose and promptly effect a cure that is permanent and satisfactory in every particular. Mrs. M. P. Kenney, of Souris, writes:

"Last summer I became weak and nervous and seemed to lose my grip. My health ran down steadily. I became morose and languid and had no ambition to do even the slightest housework. It was very fortunate I found out that weak kidneys were at the bottom of my trouble. I took Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In a few days I felt better and used them steadily for some time. They effected a complete cure and made me well after many doctors had failed."

Your ill-temper, low spirits and despondency will soon be a thing of the past if you use Dr. Hamiltonjs Pills. They cure the backache and urinal disorders, stop headaches and nervousness—change sickness into joyous health. Price 25c. per box, or five for $1 at all dealers.

A Satisfactory Growth.

The ninth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Trusts and Guarantee company, limited, was held at the company's office, 14 King street west, Toronto, on January 31st, 1906. The report of the directors was submitted, showing that after the payment of the two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, amounting to $49,975.41, a balance was carried forward to profit and loss of $18,029.21, making a total of $118,342.80 at the credit of profit and loss account on December 31st, 1905. This amount is over ten per cent. of the company's paid-up capital. The paid-up capital of the company at the end of the year amounted to $1,037,883.71. The president, the Hon. Mr. Stratton, pointed out that the gross earnings amounted to about $20,000 over the preceding year and that the growth of the company was exceedingly satisfactory. The report was unanimously adopted, many of the shareholders expressing their confidence in the management and continued success of the company. The shareholders expressed regret at the death of the late manager, T. P. Coffee, and approved of the action of the directors in the appointment of James J. Warren as director and manager in succession to Mr. Coffee. At a subsequent meeting of the board of directors Hon. Mr. Stratton was re-elected president and D. W. Karn, of Woodstock, and C. Kloepfer, of Guelph, vice-president.

Pardon Our Blushes.

A letter received by the passenger department of the Grand Trunk from a gentleman living in one of the large cities on the Atlantic coast, who had taken a trip via the Grand Trunk and its western connections to California, is filled with praise for the admirable service experienced on the journey. He says: "I have been a traveller for forty-two years and have visited the principal parts of this continent, as well as journeyed through foreign countries, and will candidly say that I have never received such good treatment as I experienced on the Grand Trunk. Your roadbed is perfection, cars beautiful and scrupulously clean and the service on the dining cars equal to the most exclusive hotels in the country. I am not prone to flatter but when one can enjoy travel as comfortably as on your line, I think everybody should be made aware of it."

Don't You Grieve!

Don't you think because it's winter, that we'll never have a spring.
You shall reach the greater gardens
where the lovelier voices sing!
