Battle Of Importance.

There is a battle royal on between the commission appointed by the Whitney government, or the king, as the Toronto World puts it-and managing director of the Ontario Electrical Development company, who happens to be Frederick Nicholls.

The difficulty is easily stated. The commission is interested in the power question, and is collecting information as to what it can be generated for at Niagura Falls and delivered at оодооровороворовор presentatives think they have a right | what? In essence that of Ruth guide to them in their plans, and or to turn from following after thee; they have been declined it.

Next he failed ent, cited the case of Albert Harper, to appear before the adjourned meet of the labour department, Ottawa, as ing of the commission, and this gave worthy of their imitation. Harper lost its members a terrible shock.

The World is very severe upon Mr. Blair from drowning, and as a result Nicholls because he does not surrender of that devotion his biographer termed himself without hesitation. ecause it elected a political mayor For many years there has been con flict between the city and the street railway company respecting the terms of the agreement between them. The greement was most carefully drawn and yet the company has been inter preting it in its own way.

There has been appeal after appeal to the courts, and judgments in favour of the city, and the improvements in the service do not come. Just when the questions at issue were about to be referred to the privy council, to be finally settled, the company becomes promise. It gets a hold of the nev him believe that if the city agrees to certain things the company will make certain concessions and he accepts, Now it is discovered that there nothing in the new agreement which favours the city. The old agreement covered everything, and the final deliv erance of the court would have made it binding upon the company. As a result the press "roasts" Mr. Coats

The city engineer and the board of affection-this, this is false friendof control are proving themselves to be very pliant material in the hands of the astate Mr. Fleming and the president of the company. "We have not witnessed in all th term of the contract such a complete abandonment of civic rights under the agreement with the Toronto Railway company, as that which has been sub of civic statesmanship. If it is ratified the city council there will be such an outcry from the citizens when these oops are constructed and the routes Mr. Contsworth and his collegener will awake to the tremendous mistake hat they have made." And all this comes from running the municipal elections on political lines. and electing a mayor whose chie qualification is that he is a conserv tive and a part of the machine. A Very Fine Address.

The address of Sir Wilfrid Laurier the students' function in Toronto, was imply magnificent. It was free from throughout the spirit of patriotism, this position, Properly enough the address was classical in its character. It was, in fact, in large part, a comparison of the Roman empire with the British "refrain from doing their duty from empire. The pressier traced the causes political reasons." What about the which led to the disintegration of the Wellows who, as politicians, cannot be one, and the causes which led to the expansion of the other. With one was despotism, concentration, absorption, and in time failure. With the other was freedom, decentralization and au onomy, and it has lived and wil live forever. The sentiment was loudly

Sir Wilfrid traced the history of Canada before the confederation of the provinces and since. The time was when it looked as if there would be eparation from the mother country, out it was not sought nor desired by Canada. The choice was hers to de what she liked, and if England did anything it hinted, through Sir John has Young, that no objections would operations, and the government's re- bound them together. The Election In London.

There will be a fierce fight in tha division of London in which Mr. Bal four, the late leader of the govern Does the law allow anyone, even ment, is seeking a seat in parliament When defeated in his old constituency would do. Several members-elect were cluding Sir Gilbert Parker, and all of them declined until Alton Gibbs was

The vacating of the seat is one thing, however, and the filling of it is another. An election by acclamation for Mr. Balfour was desired, and a desperate conflict is in prospect. The nothing to be criticized. liberal candidate is T. Gibson Bowles, who was a conservative free trader. and defeated in King's Lynn through the interference of Mr. Chamberlain. The erstwhile liberal and free trader, now tory and protectionist, had occasion to write to the conservative whip during the general election and he referred to Mr. Bowles as "a nondescript who from the formation of Lord Salisbury's government, in 1895, to the present time, has never lost the opportunity of stabbing in the back the party to which he professes

This demanded a reply in kind, and Bowles was equal to the emergency. He wrote to the press :

Inspector King, of St. Catharines, said he went to the last political meeting in order to resign from the association. But he acted as chairman and ran the business as usual, It looks as if King is trimming.

The local government is touchy upon the office question, Mr. Whitney intimates that he is having a rather say age time of it, and the censure of his friends is sufficient without hearing from his opponents. Perhaps it is.

The minister of railways expects to make the Intercolonial railway pay earnings will amount to millions. That is cheering news. The railway has been a drag on the country long enough.

The Spectator hopes Mr. Ross will remain in the legislature and in position, but in the spirit to help the government in its legislation. This is not an intimation, of course, that the government cannot get along without

The Montreal Gazette observes some differences among the liberals, Reason -the party is too strong in the legislature. The same experience is being had in Ontario. There are too many conservatives in the local house for the good of the government.

The leader of the opposition has said nothing about several things which its members advocated in opposition. These included the peal of the taxes on corporations, reduction of the succession duties. and the abolition of the office of missioner of public works. Mr. Whitney has not replied.
