The Hotel Proposition. Very little progress has yet been made in connection with the new hotel scheme, though the committee is at work. The British-American bondholders want $35,000 for their place, but this figure is out of the question, because the present building would be valueless. It would all have to be torn down. When a site is decided up. on and secured, the raising of the money will not be difficult. An out er has offered to put up $25,000 into the scheme, and several local men offer to take $5,000 stock each.
