MINE HORROR

1,200 Instantly Killed By Fire Damp Explosion.

WHOLE VILLAGES
HAVE NOT A SINGLE MAN
LEFT THEM.

Rescuers Save Twelve—Eight Heirish—Mass of Beams, Rubbish, Corpses, Dead Horses and Cinders—All the Dead Carbonized—Two Rescuers Perish.
Paris, March 12.—The explosion of fire damp, which occurred in a colliery at Courrières, near Calais, on Saturday morning, resulted in one of the most appalling mining catastrophes in history.
Eighteen hundred men were at work in the mine at that time, and of these 1,200 have almost instantly perished by fire or asphyxiation.
Shortly before two o'clock, on Saturday morning, there was a terrible explosion in pits 2, 3, and 5. It was so violent that the cages in the shafts were blown out, wrecking the structures at the mouths of the pits. At the same moment an explosion occurred in shaft 3, the man in charge of the windliss at shaft 4, 1,500 yards away, being blown by the rush of gas against a stairway, and killed. Simultaneously, at shaft 2, a mile away from shaft 3, the roof was blown fifty feet into the air. This may give some idea of the awful suddenness and magnitude of the disaster.
The details of the disaster follow the lines of all colliery explosions only it was on a larger scale. Chief Engineer Leon, who headed the first rescue party, in shaft 11, which was the least dangerous, says it was not until five o'clock in the afternoon that it was possible to get down as far as the first gallery. The sight was awful.
There was a confused mass of beams, rubbish, corpses, dead horses and cinders. The rescuers heard feeble groans, and dashed at the obstructions with axes. They released twelve men who were at the last grasp. They then were obliged to return to the surface. Another party of rescuers soon descended and returned with twelve corpses.
All the dead were completely carbonized. One was headless, while an arm, was torn off another. Three men were still alive, quite near the shaft, but the rescuers could not reach them, as the air was so bad.
No one could venture more than a few yards from the shaft.
At eight o'clock on Saturday night, the minister of commerce, the minister of public works, and Col. Kerandran, representing President Fallieres, were at shaft 3. An engineer was left down, but he found it impossible to breathe under the mass of beams. The rescue party was unable to get down. He reported that not a sound could be heard from below.
Between midnight and yesterday afternoon only two men were brought up alive, and by the strange irony of fate, exactly the same number of rescuers lost their lives in the same pit, victims of poisonous gases.
The distress in the district must, of necessity, be lamentable, unless it is speedily relieved. In some villages not a single man is left. Salamines alone lost 500 men.
President Fallieres was the first to send a subscription of 5,000 francs to aid the sufferers. The minister of the interior has placed 10,000 francs at the disposal of the local authorities for pressing necessities.
Exactly how the explosion was caused is not yet known, but it is known that the outbreak of fire in one pit was observed on Wednesday. This is a common occurrence, and the usual precautions were taken to isolate it. It is thought possible, however, that owing to insufficient isolation, or through a fall in the strata, a pocket of gas may have come into contact with the fire, resulting in a terrific explosion, the ignition of suspended coal dust, the collapse here and there of walls and sides of galleries, thus spreading the scope of explosion, and finally the opening of the mine into a vast reservoir of smoke and asphyxiating gases.
The coal fields of Pas de Calais, in the centre of which is Courrières, extend over an area of 180 square miles, the annual output is 5,000,000 tons, about one-sixth the entire product of the country.

Denver, March 12.—Thief, forger, murderer and bigamist, comprise the record of Dr. George Elliott, said to be known in Detroit, Mich., who has again been placed behind the bars, after having spent but four days of liberty, out of the Canon City penitentiary, where he had just concluded a three-and-a-half-year sentence for the murder of Sarah Vance, in Denver, December 19th, 1902.

Elliott is now in the county jail at the instigation of the postoffice inspectors for the fraudulent use of the mails.

In connection with the murder of Sarah Vance, in Elliott's effort to cover up his deed, he frightened the girl's father into suicide and tried to secure interment of the body by signing the burial certificate as one of death resulting from hemorrhage.

When Elliott opened a doctor's office in Denver he had what purported to be an M.D. diploma from the University of Toronto, issued in 1896. It was found to belong rightfully to Dr. Elliott, of Leamington, Ont. However, Elliott, whose real name is Albert Edward Pyzel obtained the diploma, is not known.

Elliott, or Pyzel, operated in Kansas City, where he is said to have married a nurse named Adele Cornely-Cachoud. He deserted her for Mary Etta Imman, whom he is also said to have married, after the nurse had been induced to go to Switzerland. It is reported that Pyzel, who came from Chicago originally, was married to a Mary Kaurin, of that city, in February, 1902.

Chicago, March 12.—The Chicago calling on each of the 200,000 union men in the city to hand his name to the agents of the Chicago Directory company as "John Smith; occupation,

This is done in an effort to make the 1906 directory worthless as work of reference, because it is controlled by the B. H. Donnelly and Sons company, who employ non-union men.

R. H. Donnelly, of that firm, said:
"What do we care for the names of wants to look them up, except constantly, and we don't care whether their names are in our directory or

Utica, N.Y., March 12.—An attempt was made to wreck the Chicago ex-on Saturday morning, as the train was running into the yard limit at Sidney. The engineer, by means of the powerful headlight which he detected something suspicious on the rails ahead of him, and preferring to A moment later he saw that the ob-

ALLEGED FIREBUG.

Robberies and Incendiarism in Huron Township.

Ripley, Ont., March 12.—In the arrest of George Fletcher, near this village, on March 2nd, Inspector John Murray is convinced that he has run to earth a man who has been the head and front of a systematic scheme of wholesale robbery, the traces of which have been covered by incendianism.

The event which led to Fletcher's arrest was the burning of three stores in the village on the night of February 1st last. Valuable articles which had been in the buildings were subsequently found in Fletcher's room at the residence of his father, a farmer residing in the township of Huron, about six miles from here. In the opinion of Inspector Murray this case furnishes the solution to a number of robberies and fires extending back to 1905, which have occurred in the townships of Huron and Ashley, adjoining.
