PUT M'BRIDE DOWN ELLERBECK WON WRESTLING MATCH.

McBride Threw Him Twice, But Failed the Third Time—Claims That McBride's Shoulders Were Off the Mat.

Russell Ellerbeck, Watertown, N.Y., formerly of Glenvale, was Thursday's champion in the wrestling match with John McBride, of Niagara Falls, at the Grand Opera House, before a good-sized male audience.

McBride got in two throws before he was thrown. When fourteen minutes and thirty seconds had elapsed the man from Niagara Falls got in his first throw by a half Nelson and arm hold. After fifteen minutes rest, the two went into the next round with considerably increased vim and determination, and after nineteen minutes and a half had passed, McBride succeeded in throwing his opponent by a full Nelson body hold.

The excitement was intense when the two men stepped on the mat for the third and final falls. The crowd appeared strongly in favor of "Kid" Ellerbeck, and loudly watched his quick, springy, cat-like motions in eluding his powerful opponent. At one time McBride lifted the "Kid" high in the air, but Ellerbeck seemed to slide to his feet on the ground quick as a flash of lightning.

McBride's head and upper part of shoulders was off the mat. The referee, Michael Hawkey, brother of the well-known wrestler, Joseph Hawkey, ruled for the "Kid," and the crowd cheered itself hoarse with delight over the decision. George W. Bell, was master of ceremonies and time-keeper.

The two preliminary attractions were a failure. The boxing bout with Humphry of "B" battery, and Charles Blakely, of the city, after two rounds ended in a tie. It had been arranged that Samuel Norris and a man from Quebec would wrestle, but the stranger did not put in an appearance. J. Fannon endeavored to fill his place. He resembled a laughing face, more than a wrestling match, and the audience had a good, loud hearty scream of fun during three rounds.

One of the three throws—his allowing Fannon to throw him over his shoulder—was in the referee's decision. He admitted he was in better condition than on February 9th, but declared, he had not only to fight Ellerbeck, but the referee, too. He would not protest, he said, but abide by the decision. He thought however, he could win from Ellerbeck at Niagara Falls, at a future date. He strongly argued that his head and upper part of the shoulders were off the mat when the throw was given and that it was merely a flying fall and not a pin fall.

Ellerbeck did not finish with victory, when seen immediately after the match, but smiled when asked if he had anything to say. To him it seemed sufficient to remark "You have heard the referee's decision." He added that he thought he was in much better condition than on his previous match, a month ago.

A Challenge to Watertown. William Dunigan of Kingston, has sent this challenge to the Watertown, N.Y., wrestling fraternity: "I hear he's wrestling in Watertown, who are willing to meet all comers. Now, I have a 150 pound man here, whom I will back against any man of his weight in New York state. I also have another man, 165 pounds, who is willing to meet all comers. These men are willing to wrestle in Watertown or any place satisfactory to opponent."

Curlers Meet. At a meeting of the curling club last night, little else was done, than the presentation by Lieut. Col. Ogilvie of the point competition, S. R. Bailey. The club is a little hazy as to the prospects for another year, as the Queen's College holds an option on the rink, and the intention of the college is not yet known. If the rink remains for next year, it will likely be enlarged. A committee composed of Lieut. Col. Ogilvie, E. Lyons, L. L. Henderson, A. Strachan, and W. B. Dalton, was appointed to act as soon as a definite arrangement was reached.

Will Rink Be Enlarged. The annual spring talk of enlarging the Kingston skating rink is again heard. The directors are considering whether to lengthen the rink by adding twenty feet at the rear, thus giving a longer ice sheet and also providing for more reserved seating. The extra receipts yearly would more than pay for the capital outlay. If Kingston is next year to have an enlarged rink, it will be a big one.

Value Of "Ozone." The value of "Ozone" (it is really liquid oxygen) is well known to medical science. It kills the germs of internal disorders. If taken in concentrated form (and that means "Solution of Ozone, the coupon kind") it ensures a speedy cure for asthma, bronchitis, Bright's disease, kidney trouble, malaria and rheumatism. This stringent remedy needs with it a tonic laxative to secure the best results. Your druggist will give you sixteen ounces of "Solution of Ozone" for fifty cents, and if you insist on the coupon kind will guarantee a free package of "Celery King." TO SUBMIT BY-LAW FOR THE LIGHT PLANT EXTENSIONS

At City Council's Special Meeting on Monday—The Amount Not to Exceed $85,000—Some Figures Given.

The light, heat and power committee, yesterday afternoon, continued the consideration of the plant extensions. A. Toye (chairman), Gas, Kin, Hoag and Gibbins were in attendance.

The decision arrived at was to accept the plan of extensions outlined by Mr. Campbell and to submit a by-law for the consideration of the city council at its special meeting on Monday evening. The committee, in order to get a better understanding of the extensions at the works, paid a visit there after the meeting, and Mr. Campbell explained the changes and additions that were proposed in his report.

As a result of the extensions, it is estimated that next year there would be 100 more consumers of gas and seventy-five more of electricity.

Ald. Gibbins wanted to know what return would be got from the expenditure of $84,000 on the electric plant. Mr. Campbell replied that there would certainly be a return. In the first place the electric service had to be improved, as it was not satisfactory. Complaints were frequent. By the improvements on the electric plant, there would be a yearly saving of $1,238, made up thus: Ten per cent. saving in coal, $690; saving on shaft, $290; on dynamo, $290; on belting, $86; grease, oil and waste saving, $152.

By the extensions to the gas plant there would be a saving each year of $1,717, made up thus: Fuel, $370.74; petroleum, $324.32; labor, $1,022.25.

There is 300 horse-power lying idle at the power plant that could be utilized, Mr. Campbell said, without crippling the plant, and he advocated that steps should be taken to push the sale of this electrical power, as was done in the case of fuel gas. The power would cost the city about 1.25 a kilowatt hour, and there was no reason why it should not be offered for day use to manufacturers at three cents a kilowatt hour. That would encourage the small manufacturers.

The amount required to pay interest and amortization on the proposed extension would be about $4,560 yearly. This amount can be made up as follows: Net earnings for 1906, without allowing for increase in business over 1905, $1,029.60; Increase in Maintenance, 3,800; Savings in Fuel, 1,238.40; Saving in Gas Department, 1,717.51. Total estimated surplus to meet future charges, 7,985.51.

Regarding the estimated net earnings for 1906 being only $1,029.60, it should be explained that in 1905 half the rate on water was the old rate. In 1906, the revenue will be smaller as the reduced rates cover all four quarters, as against only two in 1905. Hence there will be a decrease in the amount of $2,784.00.

When Ald. Gas, Kin, Hoag and Gibbins looked over the ground in Catarauqui ward, he declared that he would oppose the by-law tooth and nail if a fair show was not given the ward. He represented the municipalities, such as Bagot street, from Princess to Charles street. The committee decided to have the localities canvassed at once for the extension. Mr. Campbell was secured to add a main down Montreal street at any rate. This would increase the gas expenditure by several thousand dollars.

On motion of Ald. Hoag, it was decided to accept the plan of extension proposed by Mr. Campbell, and to incorporate it in a by-law, the amount of which is not to exceed $85,000.

Y.W.C.A. ENTERTAINMENT. Little Physical Culturists Delight the Spectators.

The seating capacity of the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium was taxed to its utmost, last evening, and many could scarcely get standing room, to witness the various exercises of Miss Pearson's Saturday morning class. A deep interest in physical culture has certainly been awakened by the untiring efforts of the teacher of that subject, in the Y.W.C.A., and people are beginning to realize the benefit, derived from such a source of a pleasant hour for their girls.

The programme opened with a class of thirty-four little girls, whose ages varied from eight to twelve years. After delighting the audience for some time with their different drills, they retired, and ten little tots took their places. In this junior class some of the children did not seem to be five years old, and yet they marched and performed so well that they won the approbation of those present. Miss Norma Hughes sang a solo, "Kid," and on being recalled, responded with "Dorothy." Then they sang, "Cody Swingin' Wand Drill, Dumb-bell Exercises, etc., by the first mentioned class, all showing how carefully they had been trained. Miss Eleanor Robinson was seen in jumping the highest in that contest. The following took part in the basketball:

Blues—Bessie Ely, Inez Abbott, forwards; Nellie Henderson, Myra Dyde, Florence Elliott, defence.

Princesses—Ethel Baker, Rilda Robinson, forwards; Jennie Phillips, Norma Hughes, Helen Uglov, defence.

The result was four to nothing in favour of the Blues; this brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

WHAT IT WOULD COST FOR KINGSTON SCHOOLS.

Trustees Thompson, Donnelly, Anglin, Kenton, Macgillivray, Laturney, Lambert, Elliott, inspector Kidd and Chairman Kelly, were at the board of trustees last night, to meet Mrs. Hoodless, provincial inspector of domestic science. The chairman introduced Mrs. Hoodless, as she felt that the benefits and advantages to be derived from the domestic science courses were already known to the trustees. She was ready to answer questions, to relate experiences and discuss methods with the trustees. For an hour or more the conversation lasted and the information imparted was a revelation to not a few.

To equip a room where fifteen classes could be instructed every week, one lesson each, would cost in round figures $400; a teacher $600. In return the government would give a grant of $200 per year and would pay 20 per cent. of the cost of equipment. There were courses in Brantford, Stratford, Berlin, Hamilton and Toronto. Brockville was introducing it. The experience was that where once introduced no attempt was made to abolish it, so satisfied were the people with results.

Mrs. Hoodless was very clear in her statements that the system was not intended to develop cooks, or to train them to make fancy dishes. The aim was to make the course purely educational to restore the ideals of home and home-making, which have apparently been lost and to generally give young girls that knowledge which will fit them to be wives and mothers, economy in conduct of the house, fit foods for use, sanitation, the use of fuels and their economy, and a hundred other things that would develop their mental and moral powers. There was mathematics, philosophy, biology, hygiene in the course. To her view it was better to give a girl a knowledge of how to provide food for a family of five or six, at $1 to $1.50 per day, than to know how to measure a pile of lumber or the dimensions of a well.

The classes would be for the girls of the junior fourth and senior fourth grades. The cost of material would be about $75 to $100 per year.

The discussion was general. At the close Mrs. Hoodless was thanked for her presence and valuable information and in reply said she would help in any way desired to have a class established in Kingston.

Turning In Well. The 14th P.W.O. Rifle recruit class had its initial turnout at the armouries last night with a fairly large attendance, considering it was the first night. It is expected that there will be some splendid material in the regiment. The recruit class has so far been a study of young fellows. The instruction class taking up the new drill method was also well attended, and the goodly number of men from the several companies who were present manifested much interest.

A Social Evening. A very jolly time was spent, Thursday evening, in the school room of Brock Street Methodist church, when the Young Men's Club entertained the Young Women's Guild. There were about fifty present, and the evening passed off very pleasantly with games and music. Refreshments were served.

COLLEGE PRANKS

SOME CALL IT HAZING; OTHER NAMES.

It All Depends Upon the Moods of the Seniors—The Traditions of the College Well Maintained.

There may be suspicion that Cadet Marshall of London, Ont., was badly hazed at the Royal Military College, but it will be hard to prove the charge. The authorities know nothing beyond the movements of the youth recently. Some time ago he was in hospital with a cold, when a telegram called him home owing to a relative's illness. He was away for weeks, and on his return stayed only a day when he was again called west. A letter received said the cadet had reached his home in a delicious state. Brain fever developed from which he is only now recovering. The senior cadets deny that he was subjected to hazing.

But hazing, either mild or severe as the circumstances warrant, does exist at the college. Some may term it pranks, some getting their college footing, and still some bantering, but it is nevertheless indulged in. The seniors and second class lord it over the juniors, and some have apparently "stunts" are assigned to them. The "cleaning of accoutrements, buttons, boots, etc., is the lightest part of the "duties" sometimes put on the young recruits. The stories filter over among the civilians to stand pummellings, to be hustled out of bed and made to take baths in the ice-cold lake waters but never a complaint can be heard from the boys, because "peaching" would lead to more disastrous assaults upon them and heavier burdens to bear.

But anyone who talks with old cadets, graduates who are filling responsible positions in life, will readily learn that the "swearing" the "night revels" and the "hard road across Jordan" were quite as much in evidence in their day as now. "Discipline and obedience were taught us, and an old graduate. "We had our conceits and high flown ideas, born of the quietude of home town away, and life was made real to us. The roses of the adolescent state were plucked and the thorns were felt; but I possess it gave us new experiences and toughened us for the jolts and jabs that have met us ever since. I believe in rough hard badgering of recruits, though not to the extent as to jeopardize health or limb.

In recalling the past, we have had instances given where brutality and vindictiveness have been displayed, but to the credit of the great roll of cadets who have attended the college, such cases were indeed the exception. The cadets of the college, they do the same old tricks, the same old routine, the same old water stunts and "filling of sweetwaters, etc., sent by friends, and as a rule the fun is not any worse than is found to exist in all schools, seminaries and colleges, connected with the dormitory system.

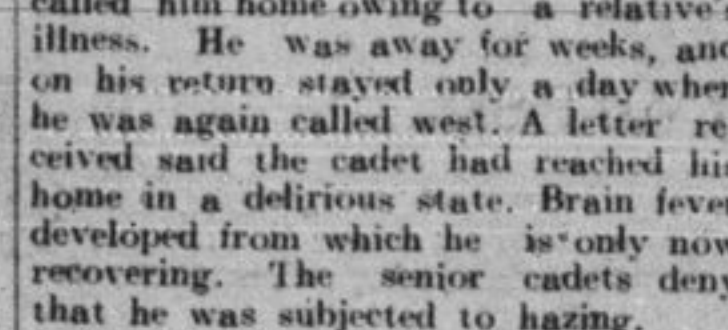

Many novel, amusing and absurd misadventures are placed upon the "freshies," and if they take them good naturedly, cheerily and expectantly, they will soon rank well. The selfish, crabbed, craven, tergivers and feeble led are the hard way, not only at the Royal Military College, but anywhere he may seek knowledge.
