

E LIFE

Are Susceptible to Many Intelligent Women Prepare Their Experiences.

Mrs. E. Powless

I took it for five months and then off and on until the critical period had passed, and it restored me to perfect health. My advice to suffering women is to try your Vegetable Compound, and they will not be disappointed.

Another Woman's Case. Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "As I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very pleased to write and tell you my experience with it. I am the mother of three children grown to womanhood, and have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and as strong as I did twenty years ago, and I know that this is all due to your woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain during the change of life. I took it off and on for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness that most women have to endure."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann, it will do for other women at this time of life. It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

FAIL TO OBEY LAW

OFFENDERS CONFINED TO QUEBEC AND ONTARIO,

Mr. Lennox Introduces Bill Forbidding the Practice—Mr. Fitzpatrick Announces He Will Introduce One Also.

Ottawa, March 30.—The failure of some judges to obey the law of last session, forbidding them to engage in outside business, was the subject of some remarks in the House of Commons, last evening. Mr. Lennox, of South Simcoe, is the author of a bill respecting the judges of provincial courts. Its special purpose is to forbid judges acting as arbitrators, except as the justices and on behalf of the crown or for the determination of actions and suits as provided by the statutes or statutory rules of a province. Mr. Lennox spoke of judges who carried on an arbitration business for gain and put themselves in a position to be interested in parties who might come before them as litigants. Mr. Lennox spoke at length on the importance of maintaining the independence of the public respect for the bench. He was followed by Mr. Fitzpatrick, who spoke at times with some warmth. The minister of justice first pointed out that the bill might not work, whether or not it proceeded to say: "I have, up to the present, construed the act that we passed last session very strictly and once or twice judges have applied to me to know whether or not in the construction of the statute it would be permissible for them to act as arbitrators in disputes between private parties. The answer that I invariably have given to them is that it is not competent for them to do so, and tonight I regret that I am obliged to deliberately say that the judges of this country have not observed the law passed by parliament and that they certainly have not given that example of obedience to the law which we are entitled to expect of them."

Mr. Lennox's bill stand for consideration in committee.

COLONEL'S WOODEN LEG.

No Fear of His Slipping on Polished Floors.

"Aunt Louisa" as the late Mrs. Louisa Eldridge, was lovingly called, was well known as an actress, but she was even better known as the organizer of the annual Christmas festival for stage children at Pastor's theatre in Toronto. In her letters to a friend here he praised the excellence of the festival in the German town. James Begg, of St. Thomas, is dangerously ill, and not expected to survive. He is a former Kingstonian, and a brother of Mrs. John Bannally and Mrs. S. W. Seobell. The sisters left today, for his bedside.

A BAD GUESS.

Wonderful How Big a Chump One Can Be.

"Yes," said the barber, as he combed the man's hair, "I can usually tell about what a man's business is by noticing his head. The bumps tell me." "A sort of phrenology, I guess, eh, I ain't claiming to be phrenologist, but still, I guess I am a kind of one. A man bet me the price of a hair cut, shave and shampoo, the other day that I could tell his business in three guesses. I guessed 'cattlemen' the first time. He said that was wrong, so I said 'sheep-raiser.' That time I hit it. That bet cost him ninety cents."

THE HANDKERCHIEF PERIL.

A Dangerous Bacteria Carrier and Preserver.

War is now being waged, according to the New York correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, on linen and cotton handkerchiefs which some people believe are already dooming. Health authorities are always popular here, and the present controversy is one of the most exciting waged in recent times. All the trouble arose because a leading American medical paper declared that the handkerchief is "quite a dangerous bacteria carrier and preserver, chiefly on account of being stored in the depth of the pocket, where the mild temperature, humidity, and exclusion from air and light contribute to increase and spread bacteria."

CIGAR MAN'S PICTURE.

How it Got Into the American Capitol.

A story told in Washington is of a distinguished foreigner who was being shown through the capitol by an American friend, and the two men, having spent some time in the gallery, where the portraits of the two great statesmen, Daniel Webster and Henry Clay, hang opposite to each other. The guide pointed out these paintings, saying, "And here you see the portraits of some of our great statesmen of the past." "Ah, indeed," remarked the distinguished foreigner, admiring Webster's solemn likeness, turning around to Henry Clay, he exclaimed with astonishment in his voice. "But how did you get the picture of this cigar man here?"

PERSONAL MENTION.

Movements of The People—What They Are Saying and Doing.

A. Elliott, Brantford, is in town. J. H. Scott, Brockville, is in town today. W. H. Knapp, Montreal, is in town today. Wallace Munroe, New York city, is a city visitor. H. A. Calvin is in Montreal on a business trip. C. Abbott, Boston, is a guest at the Randolph hotel. C. A. Hart, Belleville, was a city visitor yesterday. George Grover went up to Norwood, today, on business. Edgar Baiden, of Portsmouth, is visiting his uncle at Hay Bay. Miss J. Glasgow, "Thisedown," spent yesterday in Gananoque. D. B. Lake, Parham, spent yesterday and today in town on business. Mr. Gibson has returned to New Haven, Mich., after a short stay in town. The civic committee will have a meeting this evening to complete the budget. Miss Annie Anderson is confined to her home, on King street, through sickness. Prof. Shortt will be at a dinner of Queen's College Alumni in Hamilton tonight. Prof. Shortt, spoke before the Canadian Club of St. Catharines on Thursday evening. The board of works will not likely have much more money than last year for the streets. J. McCamp, leaves for his home in Perth next week, after spending the winter in town. Bannell has not yet been set to work in the penitentiary. It is likely he will be given clerical work in one of the offices. G. Aylmer, the Princess street barber, who has been laid up for some days, the result of a fall a few days ago, is much improved. At Upland, California, on Wednesday, March 14th, Mr. and Mrs. James Birch, well known in Kingston, celebrated the twenty-third anniversary of their marriage. Rev. H. M. Manning, Clinton, who will be pastor of Charlotte Street Methodist church, Peterboro, after July 1st, is a brother of Rev. C. E. Manning, of this city. Justice Britton is improving in the Berlin hospital. He hoped to leave tomorrow, for Toronto. In letters to a friend here he praised the excellence of the hospital in the German town. James Begg, of St. Thomas, is dangerously ill, and not expected to survive. He is a former Kingstonian, and a brother of Mrs. John Bannally and Mrs. S. W. Seobell. The sisters left today, for his bedside.

On Monday evening the members of Stanley Lodge, I.O.O.F., Lanark, invited Brother Ward to their rooms and present him with a gold locket. John Mallory, has purchased from James Guilds his farm on the east end of the village of Mallorytown. The purchase price paid was $4,500. Mr. Mallory will stock the farm and work it in conjunction with his other place. Mr. Guilds has about completed arrangements to buy the Giffin farm down at Hallecks, near Lyn. Egrie and Blake, Cranall, East Lake, shot three wild geese. By taking a wide circuit and doing a lot of tedious crawling they got to within one hundred and fifty yards of a flock of eleven, when a well directed bullet from the former rifle laid out the old gander. The geese then rose, and began to fly against the wind brought them within a long shotgun range with the result that two more were brought to earth.

MISSIE'S ETON BLOUSE.

The Eton blouse is a most becoming model to the immature schoolgirl. It gives better lines to her figure than do those short boleros which stand out so jauntily from the figure of the mere matron. The blouse has a high collar, which the French are using so extensively on their best tailoring-made productions, is the new feature of this blouse. The back fits the figure not too snugly, and has a suspender-like band of the material are stitched and set in the shoulder seam, buttoning one over the other at the waistline, in the centre back, and extending several inches below the waistline, ending in points. The double-breasted front blouse slightly, all edges heavily-stitched, the rounding shawl collar trimmed with three rows of narrow soutache braid, while a cuff is simulated on the leg of mitten sleeve by curved stitched bands. A narrow stitched belt of the cloth confines this blouse to the waistline, the pointed ends overlapping in the front.

Never Kissed Her Husband.

New York Herald. "I never kissed a man in my life, and I never kissed a man, not even my husband," said Mrs. Elvira Liebe during the trial of her husband's suit for divorce before Vice-Chancellor Emery in Newark yesterday. "You say you never kissed?" she was asked. "That's a fact. Even during your courtship I never kissed my husband and he never kissed me."

EIGHT-NINTH BIRTHDAY

Celebrated by Samuel Cork of Picton.

On Monday last the residence of Samuel Cork, Mary street west, one of Picton's oldest citizens, was the scene of a happy and most interesting gathering, in the form of a surprise party, to celebrate his eighty-ninth birthday. Shortly before noon several of his children and grandchildren arrived, leading with them all kinds of good stuff which made a spread dainty enough "to set before a king." Full justice having been done to the tempting viands, the afternoon was spent in social family intercourse. With eighty-nine years passed over Mr. Cork is still possessed of considerable activity and mental vigor, and seems good for some years longer. Mrs. Cork, who is in her seventy-ninth year, still is active and smart. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cork possess family records which are difficult to beat. In Mr. Cork's own family, out of thirteen children, only two are dead. Mrs. Cork was a daughter of Bernard Dainard, and out of a family of fourteen brothers and sisters, only one is dead.

Tears Are Precious.

Charles W. Stevenson, Warrensburg, Mo. I call to my soul in the distance. The cry of my heart's faint resistance to loves that are old. Yet over the world grows in beauty. And the truth is made plain. That out of devotion to duty I gather sweet gain. And I hear in the silence a singing. A nature of sound. As the tears to my soul are swift bringing. The joys that abound. Yet my life keeps the old ways of pleasure. The old pain and fear. Though I still have, in justice, to The peace that is near. Thus 'tis only a song and a sighing. An echo of shout. The sun and the shadow fast flying. The faith and the doubt. Yet the tears are as precious as a daughter's smile. The toll on the road. And the life that will surely come after Will surely be sweet.

Speak Well Of Him.

Professor Dyde, of Queen's University, who occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's and Moor Street churches, Toronto, last Sunday, made a distinctly favorable impression. Professor Dyde is a member of the arts faculty, and if he may be taken as a fair type of the Queen's men, the influence of the institution upon its classes, must be far-reaching. He cherishes the high ideals of Christian manhood and of the part that each true man has in the making of his country, and cannot fail to talk upon the future of the country's leaders.
