

Nature's Own Great Skin Healer

Ancient Greece and Rome will always be remembered for the fine types of manhood found on their battlefields and in their arenas, but perhaps these manly men themselves will be most remembered because of the valuable custom they bequeathed to later ages of healing sore and injured places on their bodies by the external application of secret balms or salves. The charioteers, gladiators and wrestlers seldom emerged from their contests without some severe bruise or gaping wound; and to anoint each injury carefully with their favorite balm was an indispensable part of the day's programme. If we go back in history we find that this external rubbing has prevailed right from the earliest times, and the only explanation of its survival, amidst so many changes in science, seems to lie in the fact that the external use of salves and balms is dictated to us by Nature herself. Our own instinct tells us to rub a part that hurts; and in Zam-Buk the ideal substance to apply to an injured or diseased surface is universally believed to have been found at last. The objection to ointments, salves, liniments and embrocations has hitherto been that they are imperfect in their action, and frequently contain quantities of rancid animal fat and mineral products of a harmful nature. A simple yet novel theory provided the way out of the difficulty. This was that Nature, having given to man the instinct to rub, might well be supposed to have secreted somewhere the proper substance to rub with, and a search amongst certain rare medicinal herbs showed how some of them could be made to yield gums and juices possessing healing, soothing and antiseptic properties of a wonderful order. Many experiments were made with mixtures or blendings of these juices, and Zam-Buk, a combination with astonishing powers as a healer and antiseptic, was eventually secured.

Whoever watches the healing of a wound or sore with Zam-Buk is face to face with one of Nature's greatest wonders. The healing process thus set in motion is nothing but phenomenon of regeneration—a natural process of replacing destroyed tissues by new ones. The antiseptic substances contained in Zam-Buk first attack and kill of the microbes or germs that are the cause of inflammation or disease, and then the healing ingredients proceed to build up new tissue to replace that which has been damaged or lost. New cells appear like a builder extending a new row of houses; the whole of the wounded area is gradually overlapped, and soon it is difficult to tell where the injury has been, so perfect and complete is the growth of the new skin.

Zam-Buk is a household necessity. For skin disease, or injuries in home, factory, field or workshop, Zam-Buk can be confidently recommended as well for its general efficiency as for its wholesomeness, its power and purity. To the woman in the home Zam-Buk is the "good fairy." Are her hands raw—she rubs in Zam-Buk. Are her feet sore with being on them all day—Zam-Buk cools and eases. An eruption breaks out on her face—Zam-Buk removes all skin disfigurements like magic. Baby's skin is chafed and hot—Zam-Buk is the purest and most wholesome emollient known. Her little boy cuts his finger, or her daughter burns her hand—Zam-Buk again is the healer. The father, at the factory, or on the farm, gets a nasty cut or bruise—Zam-Buk stops bleedings, stops the smarting, allays inflammation and heals.

So it comes about that Zam-Buk is the greatest and most universally used balm in all the countries where it has been introduced. Now, for the first time, offered the opportunity of purchasing it in Canada.

ECZEMA CURED A TORONTO MAN'S EXPERIENCE

George Rhinehart, of 210 Wilton avenue, Toronto, says: "Eczema broke out on my arm, the calf of my leg, and on the back of both hands. I had sore and inflamed patches on these parts, which caused me great pain and which, despite all the ointments and salves I tried, showed no signs of getting better. My wife advised me to try Zam-Buk, which, being purely herbal, we thought would be better than anything else we had tried. I bought a box, and it proved to be so. Zam-Buk from the first improved my condition, and in a short time rid me of all trace of eczema. The sores are now completely healed, Zam-Buk having succeeded in effecting a cure when all else had failed."

SALE OF A HOTEL.

Much-Reduced Claim in Connection With Albion.
Montreal Witness.
In April, 1905, the plaintiff, Adolphe Duperrault, bought from James Devlin, the business of the Albion Hotel, in this city, with the furniture and effects, for $22,000, and by the present action, he sought to recover, under seizure, goods of a value of about one thousand dollars, alleged to have been unduly removed from the premises by the vendor.

In rendering judgment, the court held that defendant's contention that most of the effects referred to did not form part of the hotel, was well founded, and the seizure was held good and valid only as regards a cash register, already returned, a lounge and a rocking chair. The judgment, therefore, merely condemned the defendant to return the two last-mentioned articles, or, in default, pay the sum of $13.50 value thereof, and also to pay the costs of an action, $48.

AN EXPENSIVE JOKE.

The Woman Had to Pay For Her Fun.

Berlin, April 27.—The documents in an interesting case, which occupied the attention of the imperial postal authorities, and of the Bochum postal authorities, have just been filed. They divulge an interesting story of a practical joke, which sadly failed. A lady in Bochum wishing to give her young nephew, domiciled in a neighboring town, a pleasant surprise, bought a tablet of chocolate, and posted it to him in an envelope, marked, "Value $25,000." The packet, on account of its high declared value, attracted the notice of the postal authorities, who demanded about $3 extra fee on delivery. The nephew, seeing a hoax, refused the letter, which was duly returned to Bochum and the sender advised. The lady, half ashamed, declared that the envelope contained nothing of real value but it was pointed out to her that the contents, whatever they might be, were declared to be worth $25,000, and she must pay. With a sigh, the poor lady signed the receipt, but then was told, to her dismay, that a double fee had been incurred, owing to the return of the letter to Bochum. The total charge amounted to nearly $7. The lady paid up, at the same time vowing that she would never again try to play pranks with the postal authorities again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Law Required Hotel Dieu to Refuse Contagious Cases.

Kingston, April 26.—(To the Editor): Relative to an article appearing in city papers about 18th inst., that there is a likelihood that the isolation department for contagious diseases at the Hotel Dieu, will cease to exist in the near future. I am in a position to say that it is only on account of the law compelling hospitals to have isolated buildings for that class of patients, that the sisters are forced to refuse admittance, and not on account of the loss of revenue or labor, in caring for those particular cases. Let us hope that the friends of the Hotel Dieu, will come to their assistance, and in the near future erect an isolation building that the good work may be carried on to completion.—OBSERVER.

A Field Of Poles.

Kingston, April 26.—(To the Editor): Has Miss Chown's Civic Improvement society passed judgment upon the array of poles that are being erected around the cricket field? The city ordered them up, but could they not have been placed in a less conspicuous position? They will not add to the beauty of the cricket field and court house grounds: It is to be hoped the council will at least spend a few dollars in painting them.—KNOCKER.
