A RIGHT WAY and A WRONG WAY

Many people have many ways to bring about the same result. Most of them are mistaken ways, but this is not known until the test of time points plainly to the error. Practically there are but two ways to accomplish anything: a right way and a wrong way. Take, for instance, a man with a bad back, there are lots of them, and of various kinds, some with stitches and twinges, others with cricks and sprains; then there's the dull, heavy, continuous kind that lasts all day and doesn't sleep at night. They're all bad enough, they're all hard enough to get rid of. Some people rub the back with liniment, others cover it with plasters, either or both means often bring relief, but the pair comes back—it's the wrong way to cure the trouble.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have a way to cure backache, a way that all their own—the right way. They're made for the kidneys only. When the kidneys fail in their work of filtering the blood the back aches because they are situated in the small of the back; backache is the kidney's warning of trouble, and every day you let the warning go it brings you nearer to urinary disorders, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, etc.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of kidney ail and that's why they bring such quick relief from backache. Mr. Free Gray, Good Courser, N. B., writes: "I was greatly troubled with pain across my back. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and received so much benefit from them that I consider them the best remedy for kidney trouble there is. I would not be without them in my house."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Needs of Check-Rein.

The Toronto News, which helped Mr. Whitney into power, and has, when possible, been most kindly in its criticism of him, is moved to discourage his pyrotechnics.

"Mr. Whitney seems," says our contemporary, "to be a perpetual rocket. His casing is filled with political explosives from day to day, and all that is needed is for a member of the opposition to light a match. Then, with a whirling crescendo rush he goes up in the air amid a chorus of admiring 'Oh's,' and after a few preliminary sputters bursts with a loud explosion into variegated and starry splendor. The casing drops gracefully, and is immediately loaded again, in preparation for the next grand ascension. The spectacle is magnetic, but is it politics? Spectacular indignation is the privilege of opposition, but usually governments are not given to that sort of thing."

Perhaps the premier will come to see himself as others see him, and so learn to put a check or brake upon his indignation. His frequent scolds are unbecomingly undignified.

Senate And Reform.

Senate reform is not easily accomplished. For many years it has been talked about, but so far no one and no party has advanced a scheme which is accepted as practicable or workable. Mr. McIntyre, M.P., precipitated a discussion on the subject when, in the Commons, he moved, as an expression of opinion, that a change should be attempted by (1), abolishing the system of life tenure of office by the senators; (2) limiting the period within which one may serve in the senate to three parliaments; and (3), requiring the senators to retire when they reach the age of eighty.

Life tenure of office is the great weakness of the average senator. He gets out of touch with the people, because he has no particular reason to keep in it. A second weakness is the advanced age of so many members of the upper chamber. They reach it generally when they have passed the prime of life. They grow mellow with age, but not more energetic and more useful. There is a pathos about the statement, that some one, in parliament, is nearly reached or passed the 100th year. It does not, however, accord with the ideas of the strenuous life which the legislative chamber represents. There is a demand for a change in the senate, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has intimated that the liberals are still in the quest of it. The inference, that it is not desired now that the political cast of the upper chamber be changed, antagonizing the government for political effect, is not correct.

The liberals went into office under lackluster with a desire for reform in the senate. They had the same desire when they resumed power in 1896. The question is what this reform should be. The premier favours the election of senators by the legislature periodically, and because that principle would protect the smaller provinces. Eventually we shall have the issue in a concrete form, and if it is popular it will be adopted. The constitution can be changed.

Farmers Harking Back.

This week's issue of the Weekly Sun applies the evidence of the unpopularity of the Whitney railway legislation. The farmers had been educated to believe that they were being imposed upon in the way of taxation, that if the railways (the great money-makers) were assessed like farm lands they would have a lighter rate. They had been given to understand, too, that the Whitney party had their idea of taxation and that the reform that has been so long desired would be immediately brought to pass.

Now there is a wall of discontent all over the land, and the farmers are putting in their protests. A few citations will interest. J. F. Beam, of Black Creek, calls on the farmers' associations and the Grange committee to frame a bill and demand that it be passed. The weak members who decline to support it check being wedged out in the next election. W. R. Lott, Nanapanee, is surprised that the government will not carry out one of the things they were elected for. J. B. Gouillon, of Penstangishene, thinks the railroads have Mr. Whitney in their toils. R. B. McLean says the Whitney government is under the spell of the great corporations. J. B. Letheridge regards the proposed bill as "better than nothing."

As they proceed the farmers become more decided in their opinions. John Steel, Monkirk, wants Mr. Whitney to "stand up to it once more," and see something better "than a milk and water affair." James Armstrong, Alvington, says the government is not living up to its high privilege, and it will receive its reward in time. W. C. Good, Bradford, calls on the premier to do justice and equalize taxation or frankly admit that he is afraid of the railway companies. E. K. Bury, Marpleth, says the Farmers' Association of that district warns the government not to deceive the farmers who helped to put it where it is. I. Hollingsworth says there will be no peace for the government until justice is done, and if there is no action soon "there will be a political earthquake," without a parallel. J. W. Hyatt sees who are "our real masters," when he examines the bill. And more to the same effect.

The Sun marks the significance of the correspondence by saying: "These opinions are expressed by men, the majority of whom supported Whitney candidates in the last election, and who did this mainly because of dissatisfaction with the manner in which the previous government had dealt with corporations."

The Whig does not wonder at their anger. They have been grossly deceived. They have been shamefully imposed upon.

Editorial Notes.

The legislature will adjourn in ten days and a lot of things which the people were promised will be left undone.

Most of the things about the Ross government which the Whitney party condemned, while in opposition, they have approved in office. What is the conclusion?

When Mr. Whitney storms in the house—leaving a passion to tatters—Mr. Hanna smiles and holds out the olive branch. Without Hanna the premier would destroy himself.

When in opposition the conservatives used to call for the economy which John Sandfield Macdonald practiced. They have demonstrated their hypocrisy by adding enormously to the expense of government.

The second conservative government in Ontario has succeeded in raising the annual expenditure to three quarters of a million dollars, above the Sandford Macdonald mark. And the figures are still soaring. Several more commissions have to be appointed.

The worries of the local government are multiplying. There is not a measure going through the house without consultation. Only when the bills come before the house do the government seem to learn anything about them, and the opposition do the educating.

Sending to Johns Hopkins and other great American colleges for medical graduates to act as house surgeons of the new Toronto hospital, the first year? Why? Cannot competent men be had in Canada? Is one year going to make any difference in the quality of the Canadians?

Mr. Whitney's predecessor, a man of greater ability, as leader of the opposition once swung his right arm above his head and swore that he would have the political life of a certain liberal minister! The dramatic effect was fine. And that is all there was about it. Mr. Whitney is a copyist, but he has no dramatic taste. In theatricals he is a dead failure.

A GOOD CITIZEN

PASSED AWAY AT CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y.

Had Been Ill Some Time—Deceased Was a Former Speaker of House of Commons and Was Prominent in Business Circles.

Pembroke, May 3.—Hon. Peter White, M.P., ex-speaker of the House of Commons, died, this morning, at Clifton Springs, New York, whither he had gone in search of health. He was in poor health for some time, and did not take his seat in the house during the present session.

Hon. Peter White was born August 30th, 1838, in the town of Pembroke, where he lived until his death. He was the son of Lieut.-Col. White, an Edinburgh gentleman who had founded the town of Pembroke in the later twenties and had entered the Canadian lumber business as a pioneer. Educated in the Pembroke schools and afterwards trained in an Ottawa mercantile house, Mr. White early entered the lumber business in partnership with his brother, the late Andrew T. White.

For some years Mr. White took an active part in municipal politics, and was several times elected reeve of the town and township of Pembroke. His entry into dominion politics was in the general election of 1872, when he suffered defeat as the conservative candidate for North Renfrew. Undaunted by his failure he ran again in the general election of 1874. He was successful this time, but was unseated the same year, and in the ensuing re-election suffered defeat. In 1875 he was elected and took his seat as one of Sir John A. Macdonald's old guard. In the general elections in 1878 he was again elected and held his seat until the return of the Laurier government in 1896, when he was defeated by Thomas Mackie. He played an active part in this election, and denounced Sir Charles Tupper's attitude toward the Manitoba school question.

During his parliamentary career Mr. White held many offices of honor and trust. During the seventh parliament, from 1891 to 1896, he was speaker of the House of Commons, and for several years was chairman of the house's standing committee on agriculture and immigration. In 1896 he was appointed a member of the advisory board of the Liberal-Conservative Union of Ontario, and in March of the same year was called to the privy council of Canada.

In business circles he was long known as one of the most prominent lumber dealers of the Ottawa Valley. He was one of the chief promoters of the Kingston & Pembroke railway, and was prominently connected at the time of its construction with the Pembroke Lumber company, the Pembroke Lumber company, and the Crystal Gold Mining company, and the Pembroke Water Works company.

A man of most unassuming manner, with a straightforward, fearless way of looking at things, a keen grasp of public affairs and undoubted business ability, in public and commercial life he was widely known, and wherever known was respected. He was considered one of the best speakers the commons ever had.

Mr. White was married in 1877 to Miss Thompson, of Napanee, Ont., and leaves a family of three sons and a daughter, Herbert P., a student at Queen's University; G. V. White, a mining engineer in Nova Scotia, and A. White, and Miss Marjell at home.
