This distressing and unfortunately very common malady easily takes rank among the very "meanest" of the diseases to which people living in this climate are liable.

La Grippe is no respector of persons; it attacks the oung and the old, the rich and the poor with the utmost

Except in the cases where Pneumonia develops, La ippe is seldom directly fatal; the real danger lies in the after effects. Even when the patient has fairly well recovered from an attack (and it is very hard to tell just when he has fully recovered) the muscles are relaxed, the nerves unstrung, the heart and lungs weak, the throat and bronchial table and tender and the whole system depressed run-down and in no condition to resist the attack of any other disease to which it may be exposed.

This condition is fraught with danger and demands instant and intelligent attention, the system must be built up and restored to a normal and healthy condition—advice easy to give, often very hard to follow.

The appetite is liable to be poor and the digestion im-paired so that it is almost impossible to consume and digest icient ordinary food to do the work quickly and effectively. What is required is a concentrated food, palatable, casy to digest and containing the elements necessary to repair the waste which La Grippe has committed.

Just such a food is found in a scientifically prepared emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, palatable, digestible and effective. FERROL contains just what the run down system needs and all it requires. Cod Liver Oil to restore the lost flesh and make what is left firm and healthy, Iron to enrich the impoverished blood and restore elasticity and firmness to the relaxed muscles, Phosphorus to tone the nerve and brain as nothing else will.

Two or three bottles of FERROL, taken after the acute stage of La Grippe has passed, will do more to repair mages than can possibly be accomplished in any other way. Try it and see.

BOTH FOOD AND MEDICINE.

We like best to call Scott's Emulsion a food-medicine. It is a term that aptly describes the character and action of our Emulsion. More than a medicine-more than a food, yet combining the vital principles of both. It is for this reason that Scott's Emulsion has a distinct and special value in all wasting diseases. There is nothing better to remedy the troubles of imperfect growth and delicate health in children. The action of Scott's Emulsion is just as effective in treating weakness and wasting in adults. DEATH IN PECULIAR WAY.

London, May 8.- A remarkable oc currence which resulted in the death of a hairdresser named Sadler, happened in Greenwich Park, yesterday. Sadler was sitting on a seat in the park, near the ground where the deer roam about. He was reading a newspaper when a deer rushed at him and butted him in the stomach.

The man was terribly injured, and he was removed an an unconscious condition to the Seamen's Hospital where he died a few hours later. Persons who frequent the park are in the habit of feeding the deer, al though that is contrary to regula tions, and it is believed that the animal which butted Sadler thought there was some food behind the paper he was reading, and thrust its horns forward in order toget at it.

There is reason to believe that biliousness and indigestion may to some extent be inherited; and the following case will be interesting to the many people who suffer frequently from these troublesome allments. Mr. Geo. Wilson, a turner of Failsworth, was a constant sufferer. He says:—"One of my earliest recollections is of being sent home from school with a sick headache, and finding my mother down with the same complaint. The bilious attacks were frequent and severe, and were always accompanied by dizziness, mists, swimming before my eyes, bad headaches, and loss of sieep."

"My little boy. Bernard Henry Jessop Wilson, though only five years old, also inherited bilious attacks. He was constantly sick, very restless in his sleep, and had no appetite. He lay in bed at nights moaning and groaning for hours. His tongue was constantly coated with a thick fur, and while the attacks were on he could not retain any food on his stomach.
