The brothers came originally from London, and, although eccentric in their habits dressed and behaved like gentlemen when they went out walking, as they frequently did until advancing in firmity prevented this. On a Sunday morning they would appear clad, frock coat, clean linen, neatly polish ed boots, and silk hats, and carrying small portmanteau, as if bound somewhere to spend the day. In house they preserved profound quiet, no sound ever being heard to issue from the dwelling. The house itself is a two-storey one f substantial appearance, with leasant garden at the back. TO PREVENT USURY.

Reflections and Reminiscences Called Up on Scanning the Hon. Chas.

The efforts to put an end to usury or the loaning of money at exorbitant rates of interest, are to be commended. It is therefore to be hoped that Mr. at the the Age of 79 and His , Fitzpatrick's bill dealing with this ques-Brother, Ten Years Younger, I tion will be made practicable, and that it will become the law of the land. Thus, there can be no secrecy and no misunderstood agreement. There is a fine of $500 for the first violation of this part of the law and imprisonment for three months for a second offence.

Precautions Against Fraud.

While the money-lender can be fined or imprisoned for failing to register or for neglecting to give the borrower the papers that are called for, he is subject to heavier penalties for misrepresentation. If by any false promise or statement he induces any person to borrow money he is guilty of a misdemeanor and is liable to two years' imprisonment or to a fine of $2,500. This clause renders the offering of false inducements to borrow a very hazardous business. Another provision renders the collection of usurious rates from an infant or from a person who is under age impossible. The moneylender has to prove that he had reason to believe that his customer was of age when the money was loaned in order to collect. This provision makes difficult the drawing of young people into the meshes of the loan shark. But the strongest protection the public have lies in the authority given to the judge. when a debtor is sued, to reduce the ladies of, good social position, and charges and the interest, if he thinks
