Municipal Enterprises. (Article III). The discussion of the public utilities ended in Article II.

The financial statement in 1905 runs in a most condensed form, as follows: Revenue: From Gas $30,898.48

From Electricity 32,287.35 From Rentals 781.05 Total $63,966.88

Separating the gas and electricity accounts the Whig finds that the balance to the credit of one is $9,221.52, and to the credit of the other, $7,076.70.

The Whig has been asked if the consumers are to get a refund, directly or indirectly, of the money spent in 1904 and 1905.

ented to $562, and for electricity $1,181.17, or a total of $1,743.17, and this is important when it is recalled that in the first quarter of last year the old rates prevailed.

The chairman of the light, heat and power committee, at the last meeting of the city council, remarked that before the snow again flies there may be a drop in the price of gas and electricity.

There is a constant demand for more meters, and it must be met in some manner. The present plan is to buy more meters.

Wily James J. Hill. Canadian capitalists have great reason to suspect the intentions of James J. Hill.

The Whig has been asked if the consumers are to get a refund, directly or indirectly, of the money spent in 1904 and 1905.

The idea of a refund or a rebate, therefore, for the benefit of the consumers, is out of the question.
