NATURE SPARES.

The Stricken Rose From Grief. What a fortunate provision of nare it is, that deprives the rose of ntal suffering; for how poignant suld be its grief to discover, in the ight of its blooming glory, that a nker fed at its heart, and that its auty and fragrance were doomed ever. Nature always spares fering; she is a veritable store house pleasing rewards, for those who k her aid. In the years gone by ling hair and grayness have cast a oom over the lives of thousands of upg women, but thanks to the instigations of scientists the use of hair destruction is now own to be a germ or parasite that rrows into the hair follicles, Newo's Herpicide absolutely destroys is germ, thus permitting the hair to ow as nature intended.
