The committee in charge of the comfort bags reported having forwarded a a good supply to Miss Sproule, at Fort William, to take with her to the lamber camps, when her work begins in the autumn. Literature will be sent later. The lady who has charge of the railway boxes was desirous to have them well supplied during the summer, as there is a plentiful supply of suitable literature obtainable whenever Liquor law enforcement was discussed, and several members noted some improvement in regard to Sunday selling, as some of those who were in the habit of cetting their usual supply on values ever offered at anythat day were very angry at having to do without it. In regard to the by-law passed lately, with reference to expectorating on the streets, the question was asked if the public were fully aware of it, as no notice has been seen to warn them against it?
