THE CITY'S AFFAIRS
APPOINTMENT OF A CITY ENGINEER.

Board of Works to Consider the Matter This Evening—City Property Committee Requires More Money to Keep it in Harness.

The city property committee was called to meet yesterday afternoon, when Ald. Angrove, the chairman, was the only member to attend. Evidently the aldermen feel that they are in need of a vacation, like the school children. There was very little business for the committee to transact. The communication of Mr. Carle for the smelter site was virtually refused by the city council when it was referred to committee, in view of the statement made by Ald. Craig that it would be very unwise for the city to allow the chimney to be demolished, when there was every reason to believe that the site would soon be taken by a manufacturing concern which would make good use of the chimney.

The city council six weeks ago asked the property committee to report up on other schemes of renovation of the city buildings, but it is doubtful if the request will be accorded this year, the committee evidently feeling that it reported upon the best scheme and the council having laid it on the table for further consideration. It would be useless to report again, especially on a scheme that would involve a greater cost, and when there is no hope of anything being done this year.

The property committee is very much in need of funds, so much so that appropriation having gone to build the haymarket weigh house which was burned. The finance committee will be asked to make a further appropriation, so that Ald. Angrove's committee will not go into insolvency and be forced to put up the sign of "Nothing Doing."

The Board of Works.

Ald. Carson has called the board of works for 7:30 o'clock this evening, to give its members a chance to show what they will do at a twilight conference. Ald. Bigney, as the chief opponent of afternoon civic committee meetings, will be expected to be in his aldermanic pew sharp on time this evening.

The two important matters before the board of works will be the appointment of a city engineer and the awarding of the tender for the laying of the O'Kill street sewer extension. It is said that the board will definitely decide this evening as to the city engineer's job, for which there are ten applications, including that of the present acting engineer, R. J. McClelland.

As to the O'Kill street sewer extension, it is understood that the tenders for laying the pipe according to specifications, will be far higher than anticipated, and that an increased grant will have to be got from council, or some alterations made to the specifications. The O'Kill street sewer extension matter has been so long delayed that it will be a relief to many to have the pipe finally laid.

CONSUL VAN SANT INJURED.
A Giant Firecracker Damaged His Hand.

The month just passed, June, has been a busy one in steamboat circles, and prospects for the present and coming month of August are highly promising. Freight and passenger traffic have been equally heavy, so far this season, and men interested in river and lake navigation are predicting, from the present outlook, a season, which for rushing business will eclipse all former years.

Many Americans, in the sense of our consuls across the border, do not commence travelling as a rule until after the Fourth, but now that the day of celebration is over, it may be expected to receive an impetus. Already, and for the past week, the river-plying boats have been carrying goodly burdens of human freight.

Edwin E. Horsey, general manager for the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte Steamboat company, has just returned from a trip to all the company's agents on the other side, and he told a Whig reporter to-day the prospects for travel during the sultry months, at present, looked exceedingly bright.

"Our agents can't keep pace with inquiries from all parts of the United States," he said, "in fact we have reservations for staterooms away into August."

June, for the popular steamer North King never better and though the Thousand Islands, is practically gone on her route, she has carried good crowds, so far, despite the rains. The two boats of the L. O. & B. of Q. Steamboat company have routes which are bound to be popular yearly due to the delight of the travel.

An outlook for a bigger business than ever in the coming year is given by George Waterly, in charge of the office of the Folger line boats. He gives these substantial reasons: "There are no late signs in evidence among the tourist agencies, the Thousand Islands has been a popular idea all along the river, and this season will fairly eclipse all others."

He reports that the White Squadron record business for the glorious Fourth.

"Has June this year been busier in steamboat circles than a year ago?" J. P. Hanley repeated the question and replied rather emphatically in the affirmative, speaking on behalf of the Folger line boats. He has the ticket agency, the Richmond and Ontario line boats, the Rideau Lakes Navigation company, and the L. O. & B. of Q. Steamboat company. "In our several statements to these several companies," he said, "we have not yet shown a decrease from last year. There has been a steady increasing business over the season 1905."

Mr. Hanley referred to 1908, the record season of the Thousand Islands, and until last year. He predicted an and greater summer, this year, and gave as his reason that there were no great attractions to, to serve as counter attractions. He said that the camera Torontonian and Kingston had turned over daily during last month from 200 to 500 passengers.

Freight out of Picton this year has been exceedingly heavy and with the steamboat Waterloo and the steamer Alexandria both in commission, this week, the Heburn Bros. were unable to carry all their cargoes.

THE FELLOW WHO DID IT.

Howard D. VanSant, United States consul at this port, took a trip to Cape Vincent, yesterday, to celebrate the glorious Fourth on his native soil. The genial consul is fond of fireworks, as was evidenced on both the Canadian national days celebrated here during the past few weeks. Just to show that he still holds a warm regard for Uncle Sam, Mr. VanSant, when he reached Cape Vincent, purchased some cannon crackers, and started in to wake up the sleepy little village on the Yankee northern border. One of the crackers exploded before the consul's hand, and the hand got damaged, to the extent of a burning and a severe shaking. Last evening, Mr. VanSant stepped off the Cape Vincent boat with his hand bound up, and looking as if he had certainly gone through a Fourth of July battle, but he declared that he was not a bit the worse.

"Well, who does the honor?" "The honor," said the banker, "was again on Independence day, this morning, to inquire about his injury. To-morrow, the usual Fifth of July celebration, the usual firing of guns, and he developed, and it is expected that Consul VanSant will be able to sing his hymn book next Sunday."

BANKS' BLACK LIST

Headed by Femininity With the Clergy Second.

A shining light of the advanced branches of the pedagogical profession met a luminary of the banking business.

"Have you a black list?" said he.

"We have," said the banker.

"And who heads your list?" pursued the teacher.

"Women," said the money-banker. "Women have absolutely no commercial sense. Give them a bank account and leave them alone, and they'll qualify for states prison inside of six months. Of course there are some business women, but they're a few."

A shrewd eloquently suggested that they were on a black list of another variety than the one under discussion.

"On your list?" asked the instructor of youth.

"Clergymen," came promptly. "Commercially they're pretty nearly on a par with the women. Were it not for a kind providence and the benevolent banker your average cleric would get himself so tangled up in his money affairs that he'd have to exchange his pulpit for a vacant residence in Portland, or if I had the training of candidates for the ministry I'd see that they learnt the multiplication table, and some of the rudiments of arithmetic."

"Lawyers—the bank man had his facts ready. "Unlike the other two black lists from intent. They spend their lives trying to 'do' the trick, and it becomes second nature and they try it."

"The professor did not pursue his enquiries further—he might have heard some unpleasant things about his calling."

BRANCH POST OFFICE.

Citizen Advocates One Being Established.

Kingston, July 5.—(To the Editor): Do you not think the time has come when Kingston should have a branch post office? It is the centre of the city, the heart of a branch would not be so great, but as it is, many citizens are put to considerable trouble when they have business in the office. The necessity for a post office for small amounts are so common that it would be a great convenience if they could be purchased or cashed within a few blocks of one's home.

The citizen who has to walk a dozen blocks to get a twenty-five cent postal note cashed feels that "the times are out of joint," and that this fair city is lagging behind. Doubtless the business in money orders and postal notes would develop rapidly, provided there was a convenient up-town centre, say about the corner of Barrie and Princess streets.

BUSY WATER SEASON
ALL THE STEAMBOATS DOING BIG BUSINESS.

Indications for July and August Point to Record Travel—What the Steam Boat Representatives Have to Say.

The month just passed, June, has been a busy one in steamboat circles, and prospects for the present and coming month of August are highly promising. A RETIRED CLERGYMAN.

Died at His Home, on Division Street.

Rev. James Melroy, aged sixty years, died on Wednesday night, after a lengthened illness from paralysis. Two years ago he was stricken with apoplexy while engaged in mission work. He retired and came to Kingston to live. He was a faithful, earnest Christian worker. Deceased was born in Londonderry, Ireland, was educated there and was a fellow-student with the late Rev. S. Houston, M.A. He was ordained in Ireland and served the church for some years, but a quarrel of a century ago he came to Canada, spending six years at Heckston, in Brockville, in the ministry, and seventeen years at Portland and associate points in Kingston presbytery. Two years ago he came to this city, taking up residence on Division street, and connecting himself with Cooke's church. A widow, three sons and four daughters survive. One daughter is in charge of an hospital at Parry Sound.

A Sudden Shock.

A sad death occurred at Bath, Wednesday. Mrs. Isaac Cogdon passed away from the effects of a stroke of paralysis with which she was visited on Tuesday morning, not having regained consciousness. She is survived by a husband, seven sons and a daughter. The funeral was held at the Methodist church and the body was placed in the family plot in the church cemetery. The funeral was attended by all the family, as some of them have not been home for some time. However, A. B. Cogdon, of Boston, Mass., and W. E. Cogdon, of Bridgeport, Conn., were able to attend. The sudden death was a great shock to the family, as the deceased had been enjoying unusual health for years.

REGIMENT IS HOME
FROM A PLEASANT TRIP TO ALBANY, N. Y.

The People of the New York State Capital Treated the Visitors Splendidly—The Regiment Won the Honors in the Street Parade.

The volunteers have returned. This morning, about half past three o'clock the steamer St. Lawrence landed them at Folger's wharf, the return trip from Albany having occupied about nine hours.

The 14th Regiment left home, Monday morning, and arrived in Albany the same afternoon at four o'clock. The trip over was a very enjoyable one, better time being made than was expected. On their arrival the soldiers were welcomed by the mayor and members of the celebration committee and officers of the 10th Regiment. Headed by the brass band, which again acquitted itself well, regiment marched to the state armories, one of the finest, if not the finest, the Kingston boys have ever seen. There the men left their arms and great coats, and were quartered during their stay, taking their meals in a large dining-room attached, and not forgetting to make good use of the fine baths that were at their disposal. Spring everything up, many men have remarked that they couldn't possibly ask for better treatment than they received on all sides. They enjoyed the full freedom of the city and they rode free on every street car in Albany. The staff sergeants were at the Borthwick and the officers at the Ten-Yeak.

At a banquet given in honor of the 14th Monday night, Lieut.-Col. Kent was presented with a magnificent basket of roses by his comrades-in-arms of Albany, and at this function the Kingston Rifles were formally welcomed to the capital by the mayor and other dignitaries.

Capt. Mowat, Kingston's mayor, made the speech of the evening.

Tuesday was spent in sight-seeing, and the officers were treated to a magnificent drive about the city, after which they were entertained at luncheon. In the evening boxes were provided for them at the theatre. Every man in uniform was at liberty to go where he pleased and take in all the amusements without it costing a cent. It was a case of "your money is no good." Wednesday, was the parade day, and on this occasion the members of the 14th sustained their good reputation. The march was the shortest the regiment has yet gone through in a United States city. The Kingston boys were the feature, and carried off all the honors. They marched with great precision, and were easily superior to any troops in the parade. The consensus of opinion among spectators was that the men were young, but perfectly drilled. The brass and bugle bands were quite the thing and tickled the Yankees immensely. They left behind a most enviable reputation.

At the conclusion of the parade the regiment was photographed on the steps of the legislative buildings. In the afternoon, and until the time of departure the boys finished doing the city. When they reached home again, the regiment was lined up and marched to the armories to be dismissed, after one of the finest outings in its history and one that will long be remembered with pleasure by all who took part in it.

Wolfe Island Social.

35 Per Cent. Die From Indigestion

From insurance records it has been found that about thirty-five per cent. of the deaths of policy-holders was attributed to diseases of the digestive system.

To persons who have been accustomed to think lightly of indigestion, biliousness, and liver derangements this statement will be rather startling, but it cannot be refuted.

To a large extent the liver controls the digestive system by supplying the bile to insure the prompt passage of the food along the intestines, where the difficult part of digestion takes place.

Because of their immediate and direct influence on the liver, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills insure a good flow of bile, and by so doing positively overcome constipation and intestinal indigestion.

Wind on the stomach, rising of sour taste in the mouth, smothering sensations in the chest, pains about the head, headaches and dizziness, drowsiness and discomfort after meals, and sluggish action of the liver, kidneys, and bowels are the symptoms of indigestion.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will promptly overcome these symptoms. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
