

RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema—Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura—Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for the most obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Remolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up; so we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905.

OVER THE BORDER THE BEST MEN THEY GOT ARE CANADIANS.

Most of Them Are in New England States—The Church and Journalism Over There Profited By Our Men. To the Political Science Quarterly, S. Morley Wickert, Toronto, contributes a statistical article on Canadians in the United States. Time was when this subject was a painful one to us. Canada felt somewhat ashamed of the fact that so many of her sons had chosen to go abroad, and contribute to the prosperity of a rival, though friendly, nation. Now that the tide has turned and these expatriated Canadians are returning home by the thousand, bringing with them Americans who are to become valuable citizens of Canada, we can afford to be interested in the figures Mr. Wickert presents. In 1900 there were 1,181,255 Canadians in the United States, rather more than eleven per cent of the total foreign-born population. More than 750,000 were of English stock, the remainder being of French extraction. Figuring on a probable 150,000 children being born to these Canadian parents, almost a million and three-quarters of American children who have one Canadian parent there are 813,350 more, but these are not claimed for Canada. Mr. Wickert calculates a grand total of 2,200,000 citizens to Canada represented by $1,650,000 in real money. The Canadian census of 1901 shows 127,599 American-born citizens living here, whose value must be deducted from the bill Canada has against the United States. This leaves about $1,500,000 to be collected, by arbitration or arms, whichever the Americans may choose.

The article goes on to locate the Canadians, most of whom are to be found in the New England States. This is especially true of the French-Canadian-Americans, seventy-seven per cent of whom live along the North Atlantic, three-fourths of this number being found in seven eastern manufacturing cities. This holds good, to a lesser degree, of the English-Canadian-Americans, although there are just about as many of them in the Northern Central States of the Americans. More than half of the Canadian-Americans live in the country and in the smaller towns, less than ten per cent living in the 160 largest cities. Nevertheless, Boston has 65,000, Chicago, 55,000, Detroit, 45,000, and Buffalo, 39,000 citizens of pure Canadian stock.

Mr. Wickert gives nine reasons why the Canadians who go to seek their fortunes in the United States enjoy high reputations. Everyone of them is good, and all might be summed up in a tenth reason, which he fails to mention: because they come from Canada. Their occupations are various; not fewer than 145,000 being generally classified as engaged in trade and transportation. There are only 781 journalists, although at the same time there were only 786 journalists in Canada. There were 2,823 bartenders of Canadian club origin in the United States in 1891 and only 1,533 left to minister to the wants of their fellow-countrymen in Canada. Of lawyers there were 1,891; clergymen, 2,000; wholesale merchants, 500; physicians, 3,800; teachers and college professors, 43,000; literary and scientific people, 528.

"Who's Who" carries a good deal of light upon the careers of Canadians in the United States. It is interesting to find from it that the dominion has given to the United States two archbishops—the Roman Catholic church, six Protestant Episcopal bishops, and three Methodist Episcopal bishops. The archbishops are the Most Rev. James E. Quigley, of Chicago, and the Most Rev. Patrick Riordan of San Francisco. Mr. Quigley was born in Oshawa, Archdiocese of Toronto, and came to New Brunswick. The Protestant Episcopal prelates are Bishop Niles, of New Hampshire, a native of Hatley, Que.; Right Rev. Arthur L. Williams, of Owen Sound; Coadjutor bishop of Nebraska; Right Rev. Charles P. Anderson, of Kempsville, coadjutor bishop of Chicago; Right Rev. Peter T. Howe, of Toronto, a graduate of Trinity University, bishop of Alaska; Bishop Scadding, of Oregon; and Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, of Newcastle, Ont.; bishop of the Philippine Islands. Among the Methodist Episcopal bishops are Rev. Charles E. Smith, of Colborne, Ont., now of Detroit; Rev. Charles H. Fowler, of Barford Township, now of Buffalo; and Rev. Frank W. Ware, missionary bishop of India. Other celebrities of Canadian origin are Rev. Francis E. Clarke, a native of Aylmer, Que., who founded the Christian Endeavor movement, and Rev. John E. Ferguson, of London, Ont., who is president of the Nanking University, and has charge of the Central China mission.

Dr. Bell, the telephone inventor; James J. Hill and S. R. Calloway, the railroad men; President Schurman of Cornell; Montague Chamberlain, the greatest of American ornithologists, are a few Canadians living in the United States, and a score of successful novelists might be mentioned. The Canadians in political life are numerous. One of them is United States Senator J. H. Millard, formerly of Hamilton.

Great Specialties in Stomach Catarrh. Though often they fail to give even temporary relief. W. Seymour, of Huntsville, Ont., was able to cure himself thoroughly with Ferrozone. "My trouble," he says, "was chronic catarrh of the stomach. There was constant bad taste in my mouth. I was constive and usually nauseated before and after meals. I also had a gnawing sensation in the stomach. Ferrozone also gave me great relief, and I also used Catarrhzone, which is good for Catarrh. Although it took a number of boxes of Ferrozone, I got back my health and to-day, am quite well."

For stomach catarrh, indigestion and kindred disorders, nothing excels Ferrozone. In a thousand cases it has proved a wonderful success. Try it yourself. 50c per box, at all dealers or N. C. Poulson, Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn.

BUSY EXPLORERS SEEK $500,000,000 BURIED IN A SACRED LAKE.

Rain Alone Needed to Unveil the Marvelous Treasures, the Notable Tributes to an Indian Deity—The Lake to Be Drained. London, July 21.—In a small city office situated in London-wall news is anxiously awaited from a man who is sitting on the edge of a mountain lake in Colombia, Central America, waiting for rain. Hoarse rain may mean for him and for those in the city office in London-wall, the recovery of treasure worth, so experts say, at least $500,000,000. The hero of the story is H. Knowles, managing director in Bogota of Contractors, Limited. The story of the company is one of the most amazing romances of treasure-seeking in history.

Tucks, laces and embroideries play an important part in the summer dress for small children. Much of the child embroidery is used because of its good wearing qualities, the fact that the repeated launderings which these little dresses need making it necessary to consider this point. One pretty model is a tucked ruffle edged upper part of the oval or hip-shaped yoke. Three rows of the embroidery are sewn on the skirt just above the deep ruffle, the same embroidery finishing the short, full sleeves and the upper part of the oval or hip-shaped yoke. These little frocks are very easily made at home, as practically no fitting is required except in the yoke, and a design similar to the illustration can be either elaborately or simply trimmed. The short elbow length sleeves are desirable for summer wear, but when the long sleeves are worn the ruffles are usually omitted from the hands, and either the plain material or a band of the embroidery is used as a finish.

At the Top of the Road, by Charles Buxton Goings. "That road," she said, "practically I have been used to pass the road so long!" "And, see, the hill is near, and smooth the road—'yield me now thy road'." Gently he took it from her, and she stood straight and lithe in the sun-faded maidhood.

An Unfortunate Suggestion. Hamburg, July 21.—The municipal council room in the town of Hagen, in Westphalia, was the scene of an amusing occurrence a few days ago. Vice-Burgomaster Wilde, in an enthusiastic speech, proposed that three new streets should be named after celebrated physicians, Dr. Koch, Dr. Behring and Dr. Roentgen, in recognition of their brilliant services in the cause of suffering humanity. A storm of applause greeted the proposal, but an ominous silence fell upon the meeting, when Councillor Reichhaus rose and pointed out that the three streets in question led to the cemetery, and that for this reason the eminent scientists named might not feel unequalled gratification at the honor it was proposed to confer upon them. It is hardly surprising to read that after this the matter was dropped by unanimous consent.

Scholarships in Cookery. The London county council is prepared to award in July, 1906, not more than eighteen free scholarships in cookery, to be held at the National Training School of Cookery, Buckingham Palace road, Canada, must be resident within the administrative county of London, must be not less than seventeen nor more than twenty-five years old on July 31st, 1906, and must have been in some branch of domestic service for not less than one year.

Farmers Plow Up Money. Farmers down in Richmond county, on Dry Creek, North Carolina, are ploughing up coins. On the south side of the creek, copper pieces bearing the name of George Washington are being found, and on the north side the coins unearthed bear the names of kings of England.

After fifteen years' service as child constable in Renfrew, R. J. McEbernet has decided to sever his connection with the town and go to Sudbury where a larger salary and probably fewer duties await him.

Some of the Strong Features Brought Out at the Recent Investigation of The Mutual Life of Canada. This Company has been Examined by the Royal Commission and the investigation proved thoroughly honest management. The company is sound to the core, and its affairs are conducted along scientific and popular lines, solely and economically in the best interests of its policyholders.

Gilt-edged Assets, Dec. 31st, 1905—$9,296,092. Not a dollar of stocks. Not a dollar of unauthorized securities. Not a dollar of speculative investments. Not a dollar with subsidiary Companies. Not a dollar "written up" in its list of securities. Not a dollar for stockholders; every dollar for policyholders. The Company is in the enviable position that it can convert on demand its entire assets into gold, and at the same time largely increase its surplus.

The Real Estate held by the Company (outside of Head Office Building) IS LESS than $1,000. Expense Rate Unusually Low being the LOWEST OF ALL Canadian Companies for the year 1905, notwithstanding that the LARGEST VOLUME OF NEW BUSINESS in the history of the Company was written in that year.

Remarkably Favorable Mortality Experience. The losses by death in 1905 were only 49% of the losses that were normally expected to occur. The fine quality of this Company's business is shown by the notable fact that during the past 15 years the death losses AVERAGED ONLY 53% OF THE EXPECTED.

The Rapid Growth of the Company's Income. The income for 1895 was $735,079, while in 1905—ten years after—it reached the large sum of $1,956,519. The interest income exceeded the death losses during the same period by $568,945.

The Mutual Life of Canada (Head Office, Waterloo, Ont.) is an Ideal Company, Furnishing Absolutely Perfect Protection to its Policyholders at the Lowest Possible Cost.
