SHE SEEKS MODEL

REJANE'S DESIRE FOR HER NEW THEATRE.

French Actress Considers Playhouses of London Superior to Those of Paris—Her Color Scheme.

London, July 24.—Mme. Rejane spent Thursday and Friday in making a tour of the London theatres in order to gather hints for the introduction of the latest improvements in theatrical architecture into the magnificent theatre which she is building for herself in Paris...

Rejane, I am not sure," she added, "that theatrical managers in Paris have not rather neglected their public. I could name theatres where there is not even a cupboard, let alone a room, where a lady can leave her hat or her wraps, and if she finds the atmosphere of the auditorium too hot, she is compelled to stand in a dismal passage.

Again, the box-office system is a miserable affair. The numbered ticket system with counterfoils, which is, of course, general in this country, is practically unknown in Paris. In my theatre I mean to alter all that and to introduce the most up-to-date American system.

"Also, I intend to provide the audience with pleasant saloons in which they can either wait for their friends or spend the intervals between the acts.

"In London, too, you understand much better how to make your theatres look beautiful. The little alcoves and the gilded pillars which the London theatres have on either side of their stages are, to my mind, very pretty, and I mean to introduce them into the Theatre Rejane.

"I may say that the color scheme which I have chosen is similar to a favorite gown of mine which I wore in one of my most successful roles. The seats on the ground floor in the stalls will be upholstered in white, those on the first tier in lemon, and those on the second tier in deep orange."

NEWBORN TIDINGS.

Cheese Factory Report for the Past Month.

Newboro, July 23.—William Code, inspector of the Ontario branches of the Union Bank, was in town last week on business. Mr. Dunford Millbrook, who came here last week as a junior clerk in the local branch of the Union Bank, left for home on Friday.

MISS KATE DOUGLASS.

The former holder of the world's tennis championship for women recently again won the championship by defeating Miss May in the final round, which she had won in the championship from her last year.

UNCONSCIOUS FROM SICK.

Lady Operator in Telephone Office Severely Injured.

Almonte, Ont., July 24.—Miss Eva McArthur, day operator of the Bell telephone office here, had a narrow escape from serious injury. It seems that in some way an electric wire became entangled with a telephone wire, with the result that an electric current was sent along the latter wire, the shock of which rendered Miss McArthur unconscious.

How Burros Eat Thistles.

The Rocky Mountain burro, one of the most sagacious of animals, seeks the thistle as a favorite food, and the pungent spines which protect its leaves at every angle are doubtless a recognition on its part of its fondness for grazing animals for it.

A Tedious Sermon.

Bishop McKivnor, of Providence, said on Sunday that a little old church on the outskirts of Philadelphia had had an old clergyman who was noted for the dryness of his sermons.

Father Could Not Swim.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24.—James Craig said fishing on a dock on the Niagara river, yesterday, with his little son, Marvin, ten years old. Suddenly the boy tumbled into the water and was drowned.

MAGNIFICENT CARS

Are on the Grand Trunk Railway System.

The tourist traffic over the "Grand Trunk" railway system to the "Highlands of Ontario" is larger than in any other part of Canada, and each year for several years past the company have been improving their roadbed, relaying the tracks with eighty-pound rails, and augmenting their equipment with modern and luxurious coaches, dining cars and parlor cars, until their present trains are among the finest on the continent.

There was a time when mica, or isinolite, as it was far more commonly called, was familiar in one limited use in every household, in which there was a parlor or a sitting room stove, thin, transparent sheets of this mineral being set to the stove door. Though the "isinolite" was destructible when subjected to heat, as is now would be, the glow of the fire within could be seen.

With long use the mica might become smoked and opaque, or it might become marred and broken. Then the head of the household would get and set into the stove door fresh isinolite, from the stove dealer's, while the fragments of the old mica were very probably turned over to the children, who were likely to be surprised to find into how much thinner sheets still the thin old pieces from the stove door could be divided.

Now there are many who don't know mica at all, not even as it is used in the stoves, people born and raised in houses that are heated by steam, in which not stoves are used for heating purposes, but while the number of these large and useful time-growing, the number of people who use the stoves is larger still, and so while many may have passed unacquainted with mica, the use of many who once knew it in this use and in this use only, the preparation of it for stove use still constitutes a regular branch of the mica trade.

The chief use to which mica is now put is one not dreamed of until within a comparatively few years, namely as an insulating material in the construction of electrical apparatus, for which purpose its use is now general and constantly increasing and far larger than in any use to which it had been put in the past.

Mica is now used also for making chimneys for incandescent gas lamps placed where they would be exposed to drafts, or out of doors, subject to the weather, and for making fire boxes, and in place of glass for covering the labels on drawers, as in a desk. Ground up mica is now used in the manufacture of lubricants and of celluloid, and of dynamite, and in other forms it is used for boiler coverings.

Mica was long used for windows and lanterns, and is still used in lanterns, where such windows would be advantageous. It is used in place of glass in spectacles worn by stone and metal workers, and in miners' lamps, and in other countries it is put to various other, including ornamental uses; but among its various modern uses the chief is in its application to electrical machinery.

For people who neglect to use these different shapes and sizes, the mica is found in more or less striking deposits, or in pockets. Its value depends, with regard to the uses to which it may be put in its color, its fineness, and of dynamite, and the size of the sheets that can be obtained from it.

Now this anciently known mineral, for many years used in various though comparatively limited uses, and more extensive use than ever in applications peculiarly modern.

MUST PAY OR KEEP SILENT.

Alexandria Bay Gets After the Bunkers.

As a means of protecting Alexandria Bay against the competition of outside boats and business interests, the trustees have promulgated a law to the effect that no person shall be allowed to solicit or run for any hotel not located in Alexandria Bay nor for any business similar to that of the hotelkeeper on the streets, docks or public grounds or vessels unless they shall have first secured a license.

Each season's license is to cost $100, with a $200 penalty for violation, and the license shall expire on October 1st.

The new village law is aimed at the solicitors for the Montreal and Quebec hotels, who work in conjunction with the Hibernian and Ontario Navigation company. Mr. Canva, representing St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, and W. H. Ranley, representing the Place Viger, of Montreal, were informed, yesterday, that the trustees were ready, but neither have made up their minds whether to pay or to pull up stakes.

President A. C. Connell, in commenting upon the new law, said: "These solicitors are a nuisance. No season does a person start here than they found him to go to Montreal, thereby taking much business from us and in view of this the trustees considered a license no more than right."

To Make Tough Steak Tender.

To make a tough piece of steak tender, put it in a glass dish and add oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar on a large flat dish. Lay the steak on the mixture, and let it rest in this way for half an hour. Then turn it over and let it rest another half hour in the same quantity of vinegar and oil. It is said that the toughest steak will yield to this treatment and be tender when served.

ALASKA'S CAPITAL MOVED.

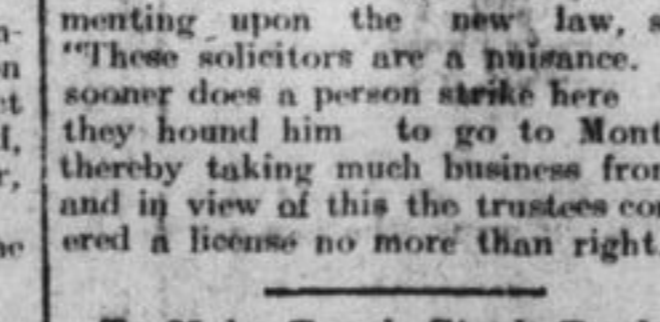

Seat of Territorial Government is Now Juneau.

Washington, July 23.—Alaska's capital is hereafter to be Juneau, instead of Sitka. Congress passed a law, several years ago, giving permission for the removal to Juneau, but no appropriation was made for the purpose. One of the appropriation bills passed at the last session of congress carried an item of $5,000 to enable the governor of Alaska to move the government offices from Sitka to Juneau.

The acting attorney-general has decided that this law really changes the capital to Juneau.

Sitka has been the capital since an American territorial government was organized for Alaska. The population of Juneau is 2,000, only a few hundreds more than Sitka, but Juneau has far more white people, proportionately, than Sitka.

Smart Coat Shift.

One of the most popular waist designs for sporting and outing wear this summer will be the coat shirts, made of heavy outing linen or mairin or thin lawn as the occasion demands. Miladi's wardrobe will be incomplete if at least two or three of these shirts are not included, particularly if summer sports are to be engaged in to any extent. They are easily laundered, and as the sleeves are elbow length, finished with turnback cuffs, there is no cry of "dirty cuffs" long before the waist is really ready for laundering. The waists are fashioned after the man's coat, with a stitched turnover collar and lapels, the double-breasted front being finished with six large buttons. A point not to be forgotten, and which gives the desired mannish effect, is the stitched pocket slit on the left side of the front. For cool days an embryo cry or lace chemise is worn with these shirts, but there strenuous sports are engaged in they are generally worn without the neck covering, the waist alone sufficiently high. The shirt is plain, with but a very little fineness appearing at the waistline. The fact that these are becoming to the slender and stout girl alike makes for their popularity.

COURTING IS RISKY.

Jap Doctor Says it is Perilous in America.

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—American men, in their judgment by American women, have the deep sympathy of Dr. Toyokish Iyengar, of Chicago. "I don't wonder there are so many bachelors in this country," he said, "in Minnesota University. 'Courtship in America' is such a risky undertaking. One little word, 'No,' and the labor of months and, maybe, years is lost.

"People hold the view that the Japanese woman is a poor, spiritless creature because she fans her husband while he eats, howling at his going and coming. The American man carries his hat, and she, her shoes, slaves from dawn to midnight that she may have a new bonnet; but do you call him a poor, spiritless creature? The Japanese women of this generation are trying as hard to redeem their lost rights and privileges as the American man to recover those rights and privileges so graciously surrendered to his womankind."

A Hen Laid Big Egg.

Ventnor, July 23.—The farmers are busy with their haying and report a good crop. J. Davison made a trip to Prescott on Saturday. Miss M. McCauley has returned from Rochester, N.Y., where she spent a pleasant week with friends. W. Davison, Kemptonville, spent Sunday in the village. Mrs. P. Sloan is visiting at Groveton this week. Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook spent Sunday with friends at Iroquois. E. Vanderburg, one of the egg buyers of this village, got a hen's egg recently from Mrs. M. Mason that measured eight and a half inches in diameter, six and three-quarter inches in circumference and weighed five ounces. Wallace Davison has returned from New York after a stay of a few weeks. Mr. W. G. Vanderburg and little daughter, Vera, Warburton, spent last week with relatives here. The revival services held in the Methodist church for the past three weeks, closed on Friday evening; fifty converts enrolled their names on Mr. Whiteside's book and it is very evident that much good had been done. Mr. Whiteside opened revival services in the Methodist church, South Mountain, on Sunday, where he will labor with Rev. Mr. Burke.

Cardinal Gibbons' Birthday.

Southampton, L.I., July 24.—Cardinal Gibbons, who, as usual, is spending the summer here, is quietly celebrating his seventy-second birthday to-day. In accordance with his wish, there was no formal celebration. However, congratulations poured in by mail and telegram from all parts of the globe. The summer colonists, with whom the cardinal is very popular, and many friends of the cardinal from other cities, called, during the day, and for every one the venerable jubilar had a friendly word.
