HE SCENTS DANGER

PRES. CREELMAN TALKS OF MILKING MACHINES.

The Need is Very Great—Machinery Must Make Up For Scarcity of Help.

Guelph, July 21.—"The great, crying need for the Canadian dairy industry is an improved milking machine." This is one of the decided opinions of President Creelman, of the Ontario Agricultural College, situated near this city. In the scarcity of farm labor throughout a large part of the province, the progressive head of the college perhaps foresees a danger to the dairy industry. If manual help cannot be obtained the only recourse is to machinery that will do the work equally as well.

"Anything that will affect the dairy industry adversely is the hardest blow Canada can get," he continued. "Seventy per cent. of the cheese on the English market is Canadian. This amounts to thirty million dollars per annum. Hence anything that would affect this industry would be fatal. The danger is lack of help.

"Dairying is not like grain-growing which only requires that the farmer have help at certain seasons. Dairying must be attended to seven days a week and 365 days a year. Again, many hired men object to milking and many who do not object are not fit to milk, because kindness and careful treatment are absolutely necessary with such a high-strung animal as the dairy cow, if profitable results are to be obtained. A milking machine at a reasonable cost and one not complicated would indeed be a boon to the farmer."

The faculty and others connected with the college are wide-awake to the necessity of such a machine. Brains are busily working and experiments are being made along this line. Incidentally it may be mentioned that the farmer is watching these experiments with the greatest interest, since there are countless others who share exactly the view of President Creelman. At the college at the present time an American milking machine is being tried. Like some other machines, it does the actual milking in a capable manner, but its ultimate success does not depend upon that alone. Will the amount of production be as great with the new way as by manual labor? Such is the question for which an answer is being sought just now. It will perhaps take two years more for an accurate reply to be obtained. College officials are by no means satisfied with mere superficial tests. Facts and figures must be advanced which will be plain to the farmer and upon which the latter can rely with absolute certainty. So far those operating the machine are extremely reticent about giving out any of these results, lest something happen that would prove the instruments to be inefficient. Just now it is thought old cows do not produce the quantity of milk when the machine is used for a length of time, though the calculation does not apply to young cows. With the machine one man is enabled to milk eight cows at once. The actual milking per cow is not done any faster than by hand. An ordinary vacuum pump operated by an engine of even half a horsepower is sufficient to run everything. By vacuum the milk is forced through rubber tubes into a large pail. In favor of the new way it must be said absolute cleanliness is insured, for no dirt can possibly enter the milk.

BILEANS CURE KINGSTON LADY

Of Acute Indigestion, Wind, etc.

Several interesting cures by Bileans have been reported from this district. Mrs. E. Reed, 165 King street, says: "I suffered all last winter with acute indigestion. Soon after eating, an uncomfortable feeling around my heart and in my chest was apparent. I had wind, rifting and belching of gas, my appetite failed and I became very weak and despondent, as nothing I tried seemed to do me any good. I have walked the floor in pain for hours at a time. Bileans did for me what I had hardly expected any medicine to do. In a very short time after I tried them I felt relief and a short course made me quite well again. I am now not like the same person and cannot speak too highly of what Bileans have done for me."

Bileans tone up the whole system, cure headache, lameback, summer lag, debility, that "tired out" feeling and restore full energy. All liver and stomach troubles, are overcome by Bileans. All druggists sell it, 50c. a box.

WHAT ABOUT TELEPATHY?

Does It Mean That Whole Universe Is Alive?

Chicago Chronicle.

It is astonishing how many cases of telepathy are reported at the present day. Hardly a week passes that we are not told of some one who either in a dream or in a vision or in some other way gave a minute description of some event, almost always a calamitous one, which was occurring at that moment at some distant place.

A London cablegram was printed on last Sunday giving a striking case of this kind from Wales. The Rev. Meredith Morris, pastor of the church at Garth, who had often ridiculed visions in his sermons, recanted these opinions in the pulpit before his congregation, and then related a vision of his own. He said he had seen a vision of seven young men, whose names he gave, sitting under a tree gambling, and in some way which the despatch does not describe one of them made known to him that one of them would soon die.

This impression on the pastor's mind was so profound that while he was describing the vision he was convulsed with sobs, and the congregation also was deeply affected. The next day one of the seven young men mentioned in connection with it was killed in a colliery.

At the same time a similar event was occurring in South Dakota. Miss Kendall, a seventeen-year-old pupil of a parochial school in Sturgis, lay dying. With great agony of spirit she described a vision of an accident to her father. She saw him ascending the bluff on which the school is located and saw him slip into a gorge, where she insisted he was still lying in a helpless and suffering condition.

The girl died and soon afterward her father was found in the gorge dreadfully injured, and gave an account of the way he came there which tallied exactly with all that his daughter had seen in her vision.

Things of this kind are happening all the time and those that have occurred in Chicago alone would fill a large book. The most sensational and mysterious murder ever committed here was unraveled by a woman's dream. So terrified was she that she made her husband get up in the middle of the night and go with her story to the police station. She was ridiculed and denounced at first, but her theory proved to be absolutely correct.

It is hard to see how any one can doubt the reality of telepathy. It is every whit as well proved as wireless telegraphy. The only ground on which it can be questioned is that of accidental coincidences, and that argument would upset wireless telegraphy and one-half of all the convictions of the human family.

The fact that we cannot explain this phenomenon is nothing against its reality. Our knowledge of phenomena is always far in advance of our explanations. Thunder and lightning were familiar occurrences long before Franklin explained them. The human family may have to wait several centuries before it can understand telepathy, but in the meanwhile it should not be stupidly incredulous in regard to the facts.

The tendency of this class of phenomena, is in the direction of pantheism. If the universe, including all animal life, is God, it follows that there is communication of intelligence among all living beings. It may be true that this community is affected, not by distance, but by conditions unknown to us, among which may be intensity of feeling. For almost all telepathy is connected with dreadful events which produces paroxysms of emotion.

The mind cannot avoid speculating on this subject. What sort of world will we have when the conditions of telepathy and clairvoyance are understood and when these strange powers become a practical merchantable commodity. This is not all speculation, either, for scientists have just discovered germ life in rock crystals, and every day adds probability to the theory that the whole universe is alive.

TREATMENT OF APPENDICITIS

Physicians Seriously Doubt Value of Operation.

Berlin, July 24.—The doubts agitating French physicians regarding the correctness of the accepted treatment of appendicitis are shared in Germany. A special meeting of the Berlin Medical Association was summoned to discuss the subject.

Dr. Bergmann presided, and equally eminent physicians and surgeons took part in the discussion. All agreed that a clinical diagnosis of the disease seldom permitted accurate anatomical judgment of the case. Prof. Orth said that in fully ten per cent. of the cases in his experience the appendix, when removed showed serious divergences from the diagnosis, while another ten per cent. showed no disease whatever. He knew of many of the most serious cases that had been cured without an operation.

On the other hand, Prof. Krauss contended that death resulted more frequently when an operation was not performed. This was especially the case with children, with whom conservative treatment resulted in from forty to fifty per cent. of deaths.

The meeting agreed that appendicitis had reached such grave dimensions that it was desirable to have official statistics compiled to furnish pathologists with definite data of the disease.

Charleston Lake News.

Charleston, July 23.—Mrs. W. H. Hanson and son, Henry, visited their home in Brooklyn last week. Edward Webster got hurt quite badly by being struck by a hay fork pulley. Most of the family of Rev. Mr. Hughes are rusticating at the Wilson cottage, also Mr. and Mrs. Deitritch and children, Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop, Athens, are enjoying themselves at the lake. J. McDonald, New Rochelle, N.Y., was the guest of his brother-in-law, H. C. Phillips, last week. Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Redmond enjoyed the breezes of our lake last week. William Johnson, I.P.S., and family are spending a few weeks at the lake, occupants of Dr. Lillie's cottage. Rev. Mr. Patterson, Miss Patterson and Miss Brodie spent a few days recently at Breezy Point.

A VAMPIRE! THAT'S WHAT.

The Newspaper Delinquent Aptly Described.

The professional newspaper Delinquent is a Vampire! Many publishers will testify to this. He has less soul than a corporation, more gall than a loan shark and could give Ananias pointers on the art of lying. He is as versatile with excuses as a boarding house landlady, and if broken promises are considered as admissable evidence on the day when the sheep and the goats come to the parting of the ways, he will find so many stored up against him that ten thousand angels will not be able to dig him out of the infernal regions in a million of years. He will shatter the commandments in his criticism of the paper he refuses to pay for. If his own paper is stopped he will go over and borrow from neighbor Jones. He is like unto a sponge in that he absorbs everything and gives up nothing save under pressure.

The Editor's Dream.

Once upon a night serenely,
While I watched the copy keenly,
O'er many a sheet of fact and fiction bore,
Suddenly there came a story
Of carnal, blood and gory;
Gory, red and bloody to the core,
All the staff I marshaled stately,
To the scene of blood so lately,
And charged them with the mission of a scoop.
In an hour in came the details
Of the crimes of males and females,
Blacker, fiercer than I thought a man could stoop.
Then in paragraphs intensely,
The whole crime we wove immensely,
Till "sensation" would not well our tale describe.
And with headlines deep nine inches,
Scooped the whole newspaper cringhes;
Scoped them all and then—Woke up the scribe.

Minerals At Vennachar.

Vennachar, July 23.—Rev. D. J. Gunter holds regular Sabbath service in the Miller schoolhouse, Matawachan, and reports large congregations. Miss Minnie Ball is spending part of her holidays visiting friends at Verona and Sharbot Lake. Abraham Hoppins, Verona, has been here prospecting for mineral. He has found some good samples, and says that if there was a railroad here to take the ore out, there would be evidently lots of mines opened and worked. Road Inspector W. W. Pringle, Arden, was here on the 18th and says he is well satisfied with the work done by William Sallans on the road between here and Mallory Hill.

Kites From Keelerville.

Keelerville, July 21.—The weather has been very favorable for haying and farmers are taking advantage of it. Berry picking is the order of the day. Mrs. F. McCaw and daughters, Gertrude and Helen, of Montreal, who have been visiting at C. Hanley's, have returned to their home. Mrs. W. Patterson visited at her daughter's this week. The patrons of our cheese factory held a meeting this week and everyone is pleased to know that there is perfect satisfaction in every way. There is a report that J. Robb will be appointed manager of our factory for the ensuing year. Our village is growing rapidly.

Have It In The House.

There is nothing else you can have in your house worth so much that costs so little as a bottle of Smith's White Liniment. It will enable you to escape the discomfort of sprains, bruises, swellings, neuralgia, rheumatism, and the various aches and pains apt to come to anyone. Cost but 25c. for a big bottle at Wade's. Money back if not satisfactory.

Junetown Jottings.

Junetown, July 23.—Miss Loney, Gananoque, is the guest of Luella Herbison. Misses Quinsey and Ferguson, Brockville, are guests at J. A. Herbison's. Mrs. G. R. Taylor leaves on Tuesday for her home in Crystal City, Man., after a pleasant visit here with her parents, Eli Tennant. has purchased a new hay loader. Buell Dickey, Rockport, spent Sunday at Adam Herbison's. Mr. and Miss Davis, Glen Buell, and Nora Kincaid, Caintown, spent Sunday with friends here. Wedding bells are soon to ring in our midst. Raspberries are very plentiful in this section.

A QUEER POSTOFFICE.

Floats on Wide Atlantic Till Picked Up.

There is a post office in the world that has neither a postmaster or a letter carrier attached to it. Indeed, no human being guards it. Not only that—it has no foundation and does not stay in the same place for a minute, but goes with the wind and the tide.

This post office, surely the queerest one in the world, is the post office that has been established by the people of St. Kilda, the most westerly of the Hebrides Islands. Ships touch there so rarely that the inhabitants have devised an original, though perhaps not very reliable, way to send letters to the outer world. The mail is inclosed in a tin box, which is covered with water-proof canvas. To it is attached a bladder of sheepskin and a board that is tied to the bag bears the inscription "St. Kilda Mail. Please Open."

This contrivance is thrown into the sea and the currents carry it off, whither to be picked up by a fishing vessel or other craft or, finally, to drift ashore somewhere. One bag recently drifted to the Scotch mainland, after having been at sea for sixty-two days. Two letters and eight postal cards were in it.

England's Old Ships.

From the Scientific American.

The extent to which British shipowners dispose of old vessels to foreigners is shown in statistical tables published in Lloyd's Register of Shipping. The tonnage cleared off in this way, last year, was 512,701 tons, comprising steamships of 422,395 tons and sailing vessels amounting to 90,306 tons. By these sales, which are the largest since 1900, Germany acquired 101,903 tons, Italy 78,671 tons, Japan, 66,328 tons and Norway 59,702 tons. It must be a very considerable advantage, from a British point of view, to have a market like this for "second hand" vessels. Tables which are included in the registrar-general's returns indicate that about 18 per cent. of the tonnage removed from the register because of foreign transfer was built before 1880, nearly 43 per cent. before 1885, 62 per cent. before 1890, 78 per cent. before 1895 and more than 90.6 per cent. before 1900. In addition to the second hand tonnage transferred to foreigners 52,464 tons were transferred to British colonies during 1906, as compared with 37,464 tons in 1904, 62,907 in 1903 and 32,603 in 1902.
