Phippen, K.C., is appointed a judge in the court of appeal. J. T. May, Little Current, is appointed a harbor master.

An order-in-council has been passed establishing regulations for the granting of water power rights in the Yukon. These regulations provide that a certain amount be expended upon development within a year and that the work be completed within a certain date.

Joke On Married Couple.
On board the steamer Alexandria, on her up trip, last evening, were a newly married couple upon whom friends played a huge joke, when they embarked at Montreal. On the back of the coat worn by the groom was pinned this inscription: "I have just left my happy home and mother." He was the subject of considerable merriment among the passengers during the first day of the trip, it being some time before his wife made the discovery.

The Limit Reached.

The liberals of Kingston have passed through the shadows of humiliation. Every fighting conservative who met them to-day gave them the merry ha, ha! And if ever there was occasion for it this was the day and the occasion.

Not a year ago the liberals were dragged into court, literally persecuted, by Kingston conservatives more guilty than they, with bitterness such as rarely is harbored even by politicians.

The city has been punished for resenting that ungenerous act when they re-elected Pense by the breaking of the pre-election pledge of gift of a Normal school, and the local conservative party has proclaimed that fact through its organ.

Last year the license inspector was removed without cause; last Monday Alexander Mackie, assistant bursar and storekeeper at the asylum, was dismissed without ground, save that his place was wanted for a story; all liberals but William Hartly and J. B. Carruthers were removed from the list of magistrates.

Several passages have occurred because conservatives resented the buying of goods from liberals by conservative contractors who sought the best advantages. No bitterness or prejudice has latterly been too keen for the party leaders here on the other side to exercise.

What has been the response by the liberal government? Out of about thirty appointments to the militia service here, not three have been from liberal ranks. Even the son of the conservative county organizer, J. B. Walker, was taken into the department, more in a civil than a military capacity, at a good salary. There are defended on the ground that there are no politics in the militia department, but the real meaning is that there shall not be grit politics there, but free run of conservative politics and free pulling in, in which relatives of opposition leader Borden, within the department, take their share. There is no department at Ottawa in which there is so much politics but it is mostly Tory in kind.

The last two appointments in Kingston post-office have been of conservatives who have worked and waged against liberal candidates. The penitentiary and other institutions show equal generosity to unrelenting, persecuting opponents.

The last straw came when L. W. Shannon was taken from a civic position to the permanent paymastership of Kingston district, at $1,900 a year. He was not in anyway connected with the permanent force, was not in the line of promotion, was not a militia paymaster like many other worthy men, but was pitchforked in over them. It was deliberate choice of a conservative when there were liberals in that branch well fitted for recognition.

The appointee has been a bitter assailant of liberals, and still owns the Kingston conservative paper, and will continue to own it, in the city council he was unyielding, always voting for conservatives and against liberals. The feeling excited has been intense, and conservatives may well smile, for the liberals at Ottawa have wrecked the party in Kingston, whose remarkable triumph last January put the first life in a fast-dying provincial cause. Mayor Nowat, immediately upon the announcement of the appointment, resigned his post of president of the Kingston Reform Association, and this was followed by the resignation of every one of the twenty-one members of the executive committee. A meeting will be held in a few days, and the association will be dissolved, leaving the patronage entirely in the hands of the city member, Hon. William Hartly. The liberals of Kingston have fought the noblest of battles and achieved notable victories; they have been dragged through courts and dishonored to save Messrs. Hartly and Pense, for the party interests at critical times; they do not ask any reward but fair play and comradeship, and this has been denied. They have ground for their bitter feeling and more bitter humiliation.

Visiting At Skibo Castle.
A letter received to-day, by G. Y. Chown, registrar of Queen's University, from Principal Gordon, who is in the old country, states that Sir Sandford Fleming, Queen's chancellor, has been visiting Andrew Carnegie, at Skibo Castle, Scotland. Sir Sandford will sail for Canada on the 14th, and Principal Gordon on the 24th.

Non-Political Cry.
The government and department of militia were well aware of the markedly political character of the proposed appointment of paymaster. Protests were sent in and assurances given.

Its A Fact.
The hat values offered by Campbell Bros. are not excelled in Canada.

Dr. Frederick Kingsley spent Saturday and Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Way, at their beautiful summer home, Bass Rocks, Gloucester. Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Way, Jr., Miss Way and Dr. Kingsley visited the United States fleet at Rockport and were entertained on board the battleship Maine.

SENTENCED TO JAIL

FOUR OF ITALIAN RIOTERS PLEADED GUILTY.

One Sentenced to Thirty Days and Three to Sixty Days-The Prisoners Protested Against Further Confinement.

Four of the Italians finally retained as having taken an active part in the riot which took place on the morning before Judge Price, this morning, charged with rioting. The prisoners were: Pasquale Ferrari, Nicol Donofrio, Donati Donofrio, Marrain Ricci, R. Whitting, Kati, appeared as crown prosecuting attorney and T. J. Rigney in the interests of the Italian. G. V. Tommie, Montreal, was the interpreter.

They were asked if they would elect to be tried by judge and jury in October, and replied that they were willing to be tried at once.

The four were inclined to plead not guilty, when the charge was read, saying that they were being retained for doing nothing, while those who had rioted had been let go. They were quite unwilling to plead guilty through their counsel, through the interpreter, strongly advised them to do so.

Asked individually, they all pleaded guilty, after considerable explanation in their native tongue.

Mr. Rigney, on behalf of the men, asked for a light sentence. He considered the evidence very meagre, and had only been making a noise on the platform, previous to the attempt at rioting by Police Sergeant Nesbitt. The men were foreigners and, naturally, under the circumstances, were "boiled down" by liberal ranks. There was only a disturbance and considered only six days already spent in jail, quite sufficient as a punishment.

Mr. Whitting thought much of the blame of the riot fell on the prisoners. The two more serious offenders, now retained, he did not think would have acted as they did had not the prisoners with their clamoring backed them up. Evidence showed the prisoners were foreigners, and their agitators. He considered the event had been a very grave one. They had undertaken to run the law and should set an example of it.

He considered the foreigners and ignorant of the law, and their conduct to some extent excusable. Had Canadians so acted, he would be more severe in his penalty. One thing he felt should be taught these men, that they must not use knives in this country as freely as they do in their own.

Marrain Ricci was sentenced to thirty days in the city jail, at hard labor, and the other three sixty days each.

The two Donofrios did not take at all kindly to their sentence and freed up into a considerable row. They asked that the thirty-six days already served be counted in on the sixty-day sentence, but his honor replied: "I could not possibly make the sentence any lighter."

Ricci quite visibly showed his pleasure that the sentence was to be hard work and not confinement. They have checked because of being kept locked up.

A TORY APPOINTED.

Made the Paymaster of Eastern Command.

The announcement is made, to-day, of the appointment of Major L. W. Shannon as senior paymaster of the Eastern Ontario command, effective July 19th. The new appointee is Kingston's city clerk, a leading conservative and former proprietor of the Kingston News.

Mr. Shannon takes up his duties at the armouries on Monday, and will at once resign the position of city clerk. His civic duties he will continue to perform after Mr. Shannon enters the permanent force with the rank of captain.

The Member Interviewed.
Hon. William Hartly, M.P., was interviewed, regarding the appointment of Capt. Shannon as paymaster for the Eastern Ontario command. He stated the appointment had passed through the militia department in the usual manner.

"I had not endorse the recommendation of the local executive," asked the Whig.

"I have never failed to since being elected to the house. All their recommendations have passed through my hands to be placed before the government. Of course all applications to the executive must be on an even keel, as far as I am concerned, and the one which is endorsed by the majority of the executive receives my support. However, my experience, and that of every other member of the house who has had business with the department of militia, has been that they follow a regular routine order, on lines laid down in the constitution. The applicant first is recommended by the district officer commanding. It is then passed on to the general commanding the forces. Political considerations for nothing with this department of the government, and I am not at all unprepared to state, at this moment, that the minister of militia is not aware of Major Shannon's political inclinations."

HIS HEAD BLOWN OFF.

Baltic Mutiny is a Thing of the Past.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—The head of the governor of Samara was blown off by the explosion of a bomb that was thrown at the official, last evening. The assassin was arrested.

The Baltic mutiny is already a thing of the past. Seven of the ringleaders, who murdered Capt. Alexandroff and Vernadsky in the mutiny at Cronstadt, perished after a drumhead court-martial. They tried: "Yes, we killed them. You kill us. Shoot us away." This mood of sullen, black despair overpowered, to-day, all the naval forces of the czar. The barracks at Revel, Cronstadt and Helmsingfors are crowded with disarmed sailors, sappers and artillerymen, over whom are standing guard.

A battalion of infantry is guarding the docks at Cronstadt night and day to prevent any attempt to destroy the warships there. Crews of these remain calm. The mutineers' casualties at Cronstadt are stated to have been 500, a majority of them being killed. Forty of the rebels are awaiting execution.
