"ALL RIGHT"
 Says Buelow—Britain and Germany Are Friends.

ONLY COMMERCIAL
 IS THE RIVALRY BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

Germany No More Thinks of Competing For Mastery of the Seas Than Building Railroad to the Moon.

CHANCELLOR VON BUELOW.
 London, Sept. 4.—The Daily published an interview had by its correspondent, at Norderney, with Chancellor von Buelow. The chancellor contended that although Germany had made strides in building warships the navy was small in proportion to Germany's over-sea commerce. It was pointed out that Germany thinks she is competing with Britain for the mastery of the seas. She might as well be accused of wishing to build a railway to the moon.
 Regarding English suspicions that Germany is trying to blockade England wherever she can, the chancellor declared there was no foundation for them beyond commercial rivalry, which was as legitimate as that of any universal. This was as true in connection with the Baghdad railway and Turkey as anywhere else.
 Referring to the recent meeting of King Edward and Emperor William, the chancellor said: "Acute political questions were not discussed for the reason that no such questions existed. The meeting of the monarchs marked an auspicious stage in the gradual elimination of the misunder- standing between the two countries."

HELD CARTRIDGES.
 Moscow, Sept. 4.—A huge pumpkin, carried by a man garbed as a countryman, attracted the attention of the police by its excessive weight and induced them to make an investigation, which with the result that it was found to contain cartridges.
 The bearer of the pumpkin was identified as revolutionist.

NEW BUNCO GAME.
 Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 4.—A new game of swindle is being introduced among the farmers north of here. A well-dressed stranger stops at a farm- house and announces the loss of a valuable diamond pin in the roadway. All turn out to assist him in his search. The pin is not found, but the man says he will be back within a week and holds out an offer of $100 for the finding of the pin.
 A few days later a tramp turns up at the farmhouse with the pin, say- ing he picked it up on the roadside. The farmer sometimes "hites," buying the pin from the tramp for $20 or $25. After an anxious wait for the return of the stranger the pin is taken to a jeweler and found to be worthless.

THE OVERSEAS MAIL
 Is Reaching the Stations on Schedule Time.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 3.—The latest of autumn days was spent, yesterday, in crossing the great stretches of prairie of the Canadian west. There had been detentions after leaving Fort William, but the few hours were only temporarily lost and the over-seas mail within the day was running sharp on its original schedule. The 133 miles between Kenora and Winni- peg were covered in 159 minutes. The same distance between Winnipeg and Brandon was made in 187 minutes, and the run to Broadview, 132 miles, occupied 179 minutes. From Broadview to Moose Jaw, 134 miles, the over- seas mail pushed in 175 minutes. When Swift Current was reached in the evening the train was exactly on time, and at Calgary the overseas mail ar- rived ahead of its schedule. The 973 miles from Kenora to Calgary were made in twenty-four hours and fifteen minutes, including stops. At the differ- ent divisional points, yesterday, large numbers gathered to welcome the over- seas mail, and even at the smaller stations there were manifestations of the great interest the people took in this epoch-making train of the Cana- dian Pacific, while the passengers were delighted at the sight of bound- less, thickly-stocked fields, which in- dicated the wealth of the region. The large crop, largely harvested, recalled to many of them the words "that an- swered Kipling's poem on hyperborean Canada: "There are fields of grain unbroken, where the wide horizon glows, and the hot sun laughs at the very thought of the 'Lady of the Snows.'" The overseas mail has crossed the Rockies and the Selkirk range and arrived here in the valley of the Colum- bia on schedule time. We have now only the gold range to travel and to run down the Fraser canyon to the rail terminal on the Pacific, where at Vancouver the steamship, the Em- press of China, is awaiting to carry the orientals mails to the far east.

AN EXPOSURE
 Of The Evils In The Deaf Mute School.

CAUSED SENSATION
 EVERY MEMBER OF FACULTY REMOVED.

E. B. Nelson, For Thirty Years Principal, and Every Person on Pay Roll Ordered Removed By Board.

Rome, N.Y., Sept. 4.—A scandal of far-reaching proportions has been dis- covered by the state board of chari- ties in the management of the Cen- tral New York Institution for Deaf Mutes.
 "So appalling were the conditions un- earthed that a clean sweep has been made, not only of the faculty, but of all employees, big and little."
 An investigation made showed that the whole institution was honey-comb- ed with evils which involved not only mismanagement, but immorality.
 Extraordinary drastic measures have been taken by the state board of chari- ties to clean up the institution and rectify the outrageous condition of affairs which apparently has existed for a long period.
 Peremptory orders were issued by the state board to the local manage- ment board regarding the immediate dismissal of every employe on the pay roll of the institution. This or- der has been complied with. Unless his commands in this respect were met, the local board were notified that the state, which is the main sup- port of the institution, would extend it no further aid.
 Prof. E. B. Nelson, who has been principal of the institution ever since it was founded, more than thirty years ago, in March, 1875, is one of those dismissed. His place will be taken by Prof. Edward Clarke, of New York, who will carry out the work of re- form on the drastic lines snapped out by the state board of charities.
 Not satisfied with dismissing all of those connected with the institution from office, the investigators have laid the facts in their possession be- fore District Attorney Wells, who will submit the evidence to the grand jury.
 There are about seventy-five young girls in the institution, most of them about sixteen years old. Approxi- mately an equal number of boys of the same age are also pupils.
 The state provides most liberally for the support of educational institu- tions for the deaf and dumb of the state. The budget for the support of the deaf and dumb school here is in excess of $200,000. Of the 150 pupils, all but a very small number are supported by the whole, which practically maintains the whole institution.
