tween Britain, France and London, Sept. 7.—Despite vigorous reports to the contrary, it may be accepted as certain that no steps have been taken toward the negotiation of a formal alliance between Great Britain and Spain, and it is very doubtful if anything of the kind is in contemplation. The relations between the two coun tries are very cordial, and the newly created kinship between their roy houses adds another close and mate bond to their cordiality. It very probable that King Alfonso will now look to London with greater equency for his higher political asirations, and that under his leader ship the Spanish government would be brought into closer working relations with the British government. But nothing in the nature of a written alliance is looked for with Europe peace. Spain co-operated with France and Great Britain at Algiers, and under most circumstances will probably be similarly allied in future. France would view the close approach of meat, JUST OPENED of Spain and Great Britain other than with approval, or that France would it rich object to making the partnership a tri- burton. angular one. There exists certain differences between France and Spain, but well-informed circles here regard them all imperialists. as susceptible of easy adjustment.
