Telephone Box. London, Sept. 8 .- The latest pattern of telephone box is a genuine Sedan chair. A telephone in a boudoir or drawing-room is unsightly, but one woman has solved the problem of combining the useful with the ornamental. She had in her possession a genuine Sedan chair, the panels, of which are decorated with delicate paintings, and the inside lined with pink satin. Opposite the cushioned seat she has had her telephone fixed, and an electric light inclosed in a rosy shade. "We have executed several orders for Sedan chair telephone boxes," the manager of a West End firm said yesterday. "One of the prettiest was designed in white and silver, the lining being of pale green silk. But Sedan chairs are not the only novel form of telephone boxes. A lady has had a miniature tent of
