SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-West Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person the sole head of a family, or male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, or 160 acres, more or less.

Application for homestead entry or inspection must be made in person by the applicant at the office of the local Agent or Sub-agent.

An application for entry or inspection made personally at any Sub-agent's office may be wired to the local Agent by the Sub-agent, at the expense of the applicant, and if the land applied for is vacant, and if the local Agent is satisfied that the person making such application is to have priority, such land will be held until the necessary papers to complete the transaction are received by mail.

In case of "personation" the entry will be summarily cancelled and the applicant will forfeit all priority of claim.

An applicant for homestead entry to be eligible for homestead entry, and only one application for inspection will be received from an individual until that application has been disposed of.

A homesteader whose entry is in good standing and not liable to cancellation, may, subject to approval of Department, relinquish it in favor of father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister, if eligible, but to no one else, on filing declaration of abandonment.

Where an entry is absolutely cancelled or voluntarily abandoned, subsequent to institution of cancellation proceedings, the applicant for inspection will be entitled to prior right of entry.

Applicants for inspection must state in what particulars the homesteader is in default, and if subsequently the statement is found to be incorrect in material particulars, the applicant will lose any prior right of re-entry should the land become vacant, or if entry has been granted it may be summarily cancelled.

Duties.—A settler is required to perform the conditions under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon, and cultivation of, the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such homesteader the requirement as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirement may be satisfied by residence upon such land.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with at all is nerve weakness. Just as your hand trembles when the nerves are weak, when your heart nerves are weak your heart flutters and palpitates. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise; fainting spells; pain or tenderness about the heart caused by irregular heart action; choking sensation as if the heart was in the throat; uneasy sensation in the chest, showing that the heart isn't working right. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will do you good from the first dose. Quantity the left side, but the right side is also affected. Therein lies the danger. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring back the strength to the heart nerves always. There is nothing in this remedy to stimulate; nothing that leads to reaction. The strength that it gives is natural and permanent. It is just the same strength as Nature gives to those who are well. Dr. Shoop's Restorative creates strength which extends over the whole inside nerve system—it overcomes the cause of the trouble as well as the result. For sale and recommended by ALL DRUGGISTS.

LIVED ON BOOTS

WHILE THEY CLUNG TO THE SCHOONER'S KEEL.

Terrible Sufferings of Ship Captain and Two Sailors in a Wreck—Adrift on the Ocean.

Memel, Sept. 22.—The captain of the derelict schooner Rebecca tells the following story of the week spent by him and the crew on the keel of the capsized vessel:

"We sailed from Memel on August 27th, with a full cargo, two young men forming the crew. A gale came up the same night, and at four in the morning the schooner, after losing both her masts, slowly capsized.

"We could not get the boat out, and were flung into the sea. We succeeded in climbing on to the schooner's keel, but we had not a crumb of food or a drop of water. The two men were amidships, and I was further aft. Soon they were both washed off, and it was all I could do to rescue them.

"Drenched through, cold and hungry, we lived for the whole week before our rescue by chewing pieces of leather cut from our boots. All the water we had was what we could catch in our hands as the rain fell.

"Steamers passed close to us on August 30th and 31st, but we had nothing to signal with, and could not make them hear us. On September 1st we drifted within sight of land, and next day were within six miles of the shore. My companions wanted to try to swim ashore, but I dissuaded them.

"All through that Sunday the younger of them, only fifteen years old, raved in delirium, and tried to throw himself into the sea. We struggled with him, and held him back. In the evening he fell asleep, and never woke again. We found him dead at dawn. After that my second companion began to cut on the boat a message describing our sufferings, and saying we died after a week's starvation.

"Rescue came two days later, on Tuesday morning, but the fishermen who had sighted us found us in a torpor from exhaustion, and had great difficulty in rousing us. My companion ate too much of the food the rescuers brought, and is still very ill at Schwarzort."

HAVE RECORD SEASON.

Conservative Estimate of Money Spent.

Berne, Sept. 22.—The hotelkeepers of Switzerland who were complaining bitterly early in the season that the severe restrictions upon motoring would drive their best customers from the country, are now compelled to admit that they were mistaken.

The season has, as a matter of fact, been a record one. A very conservative estimate of the amount of money paid over to hotel and pension keepers by this year's holiday makers is $15,000,000, besides another $5,000,000 to the railway and steamboat companies and proprietors of road vehicles.

The absence of scorching motorists is greatly appreciated by visitors, and is especially commented on by tourists, who have arrived from the Italian lake district, where motor scorching is the rule, and the clouds of dust raised often bring other traffic to a temporary standstill.

Before the season closes it is estimated that about 500,000 tourists, including representatives of every nationality in Europe, will have visited Switzerland. The number of German visitors has been greater than ever before, amounting, in the opinion of hotelkeepers, to about 38 per cent. of the whole. England has supplied the next largest number, about 18 per cent., with Belgium, France, Russia and Norway and Sweden following closely behind.

JOKE ON GRAND DUKE.

Bogus Bomb Placed in Window of House.

Paris, Sept. 22.—A practical joke has been played upon the Grand Duke Paul of Russia. Yesterday morning an object resembling a bomb, and having a fuse attached, was found on the window sill of the grand duke's villa at St. Cloud. The police were called, and with much care and trepidation they placed it in a pail of water. It was afterwards examined by a chemist, and found to contain nothing more harmful than a number of rags and a whip tied together. Some discontented servants are said to be responsible for the joke.

SPOIL WOMAN'S GAME.

They Deprive Her of Lover, Friend and Money.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Tiring of the plebeian name and a state of single blessedness, a woman named Maria Hulot changed her title to the "Countess Maria de la Molle," and set out in search of a husband. She was followed by her closest friend, M. Dubois.

At Cabourg, the "countess" met a wealthy Belgian, M. van Hornaert, who lost no time in paying court to her. But she was of noble blood, she told him, and sole heiress of the Marquis de la Molle, who had left her, in 1886, a fortune of several millions.

M. van Hornaert followed her to Paris, where to allay his doubts, she forged, with her maid's help, the will of the marquis in her favor. The lover, still suspicious, bribed the maid and the cook to watch their mistress, and report to him. The woman told the "countess" of this, and their reports to M. van Hornaert were excellent.

The "countess'" scheme was ruined by a fight in the kitchen, as a result of which the cook was told to go. She went, and the maid went with her; and both together set to work to blackmail the unhappy "countess."

She paid them $600, but in two days they asked for more. She refused, and instantly the pair went to M. van Hornaert and told him the woman's history. They then went to faithful friend Dubois and slandered their mistress to such purpose that he vowed not to see her again.

Deprived of her lover, her friend, and most of her money, the "countess" prosecuted the servants for blackmail. They have been remanded, but will shortly be brought up for sentence.

DUEL TO THE DEATH.

A Bitter Quarrel Ends in Fatal Fight.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Herr Reitzenstein, a wealthy landowner, and Dr. Hessenberg fought a mortal duel yesterday morning in a forest in the vicinity of Salsendorf, a village a dozen miles from Berlin.

They are bachelors, and were formerly friends, but quarrelled over a woman with whom they were both deeply in love. Finally they used terms to each other which were incompatible with the honor of German gentlemen, and the current code of honor necessitated a challenge.

A court of honor heard the case, and decided that the insults exchanged rendered it necessary for the two men to fight until one of them was disabled. A duel with pistols at fifteen paces was thereupon arranged.

Dr. Hessenberg's first shot pierced Reitzenstein's right lung, and inflicted a mortal wound. Herr Reitzenstein fell, bleeding, and was quickly removed to the local infirmary, where he lies in a hopeless condition.

Dr. Hessenberg, his two seconds, and also Herr Reitzenstein's seconds decamped, in order to avoid the consequences of violating the law against dueling.

Caught In The Act.

London, Sept. 22.—Extensive and persistent thefts from an orchard at Penn exercised the local police severely. All likely boys were shadowed without result, and at length a watch was kept. The culprit was caught in the act. His name was given as Tommy, and he was described as a pony of respectable appearance.

Horse Emulates Motor Car.

Liverpool, Sept. 22.—"The defendant your worships, was driving at the rate of between thirty and forty miles an hour," a Leicester policeman told the bench yesterday. The man was not driving a motor car, but a mere horse which drew a tripe cart for a living.

Warships For $100.

Manila, Sept. 22.—The remaining three of the Spanish ships captured by Admiral Dewey in the battle of Manila Bay have been sold for about $100 to the shipbreaker. They have been lying where they grounded at Cavite since the fight eight years ago.

His Two Professions.

London, Sept. 22.—It was said of a man who was sued in the city of London court yesterday, that on Sunday he was a Baptist minister in charge of a chapel, and during the week he was a traveller in cloth caps.

SIGNAL BOOK LOST

IMPORTANT VOLUME MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS

From Cruiser Vindictive—Sailor Under Arrest—Naval Code May Have to Be Changed at Enormous Expense.

London, Sept. 21.—According to reliable information, the code signal book of the cruiser Vindictive, now at Sheerness, has been lost. The book contains the private signals of the Channel fleet, and its loss is not only a matter of profound importance to the navy, but to the empire.

The sailor who had charge of the book under the supervision of an officer, has been arrested, and so much importance is attached to the affair that the leave of both officers and crew has been entirely stopped since Saturday last. Divers are now at work searching for the missing book. It is understood that the man under arrest declares that he is tired of the service and that he threw the book overboard when the midshipman was not looking, in order that he might be dismissed from the navy.

These secret signal books of the fleet contain information of the very highest value to any great power with which Great Britain might find herself at war. It is well known that they have a very great commercial value and that the secret service agents of foreign governments, who are always to be found in the neighborhood of naval stations, will pay enormous sums to obtain possession of one.

In evidence given before a royal commission, a few years ago, it was stated that France spent $500,000 a year on her secret service, and it is well known that Germany spends twice this sum annually, and Russia an almost equally large amount.

The signal books are guarded with the greatest care. At the close of each watch the officer of the watch must satisfy himself that the book is safe, and his relief's first duty is to verify this. During the watch the warrant officer is responsible to the lieutenant for its safekeeping.

Should the signal book of the Vindictive not be recovered, it is probable that the whole or most of the secret codes in use throughout the fleet would have to be re-cast at an enormous cost of time and labor and grave inconvenience to the navy.

The sea lords attach great importance to teaching young officers the use of signals and their recognition without recourse to the book. It usually takes a man a very long time to learn to read a conversation by flags at sight. If the signals are altered, it is obvious that an entirely fresh study will be needed and that all will have to be learned anew.

It is a striking testimony to the high efficiency and loyalty of the fleet that thefts of signal books are almost unknown. When they have been taken, it has been, as a rule, to gratify a petty spite on the part of a thoughtless seaman, who believed he could thus annoy his officers. A seaman who tampers with a signal book lays himself open to a long term of imprisonment.

The battleship Prince George lost her signal book, over two years ago. The book was afterwards found floating in the Tagus. A code signal book was lost at Portsmouth some years ago. It was stolen by a sailor, who took it ashore and burned it in a fit of temper over what he considered unnecessarily severe punishment that had been inflicted on him.

The Vindictive, from which the present book has been lost, is a second-class cruiser of 5,750 tons.

Vicar's Reprisal.

London, Sept. 22.—The vicar of St. Peter's, Shaldon, Devonshire, has been annoyed recently by people who made it a rule to leave the church before the sermon, and he has had the following notice affixed to the pillars of the church: "All adults who are unbaptized or possessed by devils should leave the church before the sermon, otherwise they should remain till the conclusion of the Lord's service."

"Haunted" By Rats.

London, Sept. 22.—The mystery of an oak tree in one of the public walks at King's Lynn, which had gained the reputation of being haunted on account of the strange sounds which issued from it, has been solved by a policeman, who discovered that a colony of more than 100 rats had taken up their residence in the hollow trunk.

Hunting In A Motor Car.

London, Sept. 22.—A motor car was entering Coventry yesterday when a hare was started on the roadside. The hare kept well ahead of the car until Coventry was reached, and then the hunt was joined by several policemen. The hare escaped.

Would Shakespeare Assent?

London, Sept. 22.—"What is' his occupation?" asked Paul Taylor at Marylebone police court. "He is a poet," was the reply. "That is a man's amusement, not his occupation," was the magisterial pronouncement.

Illiterate Jurors.

London, Sept. 22.—At the close on an inquest at the Bethnal Green coroner's court yesterday it was discovered that six of the twelve jurors could not sign their names to the verdict. They were all Russian Jews.
