THE OPENING NIGHT OF MARKS DRAMATIC AND COMEDY COMPANY.

The Attendance Was Very Large—The Company Gave Good Satisfaction—The Specialties Are Good.

The Marks Bros. Dramatic and Comedy company opened a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House last evening. The attendance was a record-breaking, being the largest audience that has yet been present on one night. The bill presented was "Possum Ridge," a comedy-drama, a piece abounding in startling situations, as well as laughter and amusement. The company is a good one and up-to-date in every particular. Ernie Marks, as Ligo, a sleepy coon, was the fun maker. His make-up was perfect and his absurdities delighted the audience. J. N. Machin, as Tom Hatfield, a moonshiner, and a desperate lawbreaker, gave a fine delineation of his difficult role. He was ably assisted by H. Little (Edward Fenton), J. H. Pampin (Joe Gregg) and several others as moonshiners and evaders of the revenue. R. H. How, as the revenue officer, displayed nerve and succeeded in bagging the gang. Miss Pampin, as Lena, Joe's wife, was a virago, and displayed ability in her role. Daisy, by Miss Ida Rivers, an accomplished and charming young actress, was a fine conception of her part and won the admiration and applause of the audience by her rendition of "A Little Runch of Daisies."

Miss Kitty Marks as Tatters, old Joe's daughter, won favor by her fine acting and as usual took the leading role. Her movements and work were watched with interest and gained for her applause.

The specialties were first class and were enjoyed. F. A. Ruff sang in good voice, "Lola," and being re-called gave "Lola." Baby Rosie Machan, a pretty child, sang and danced charmingly and was repeatedly applauded. Miss Kitty Marks' contribution several songs which were well received. Her rendition of "A Picnic for Two," "Good-Bye, Cis" and "How Would You Like to Spoon With Me," won applause. The amateur work of Mrs. Bedford was thrilling. Their costumes were rich. They gained well merited plaudits.

To-night the company will produce a society play, entitled "Loet and Won."

A GLOWING TRIBUTE.

"Kit" Knew Late Father O'Gorman Well.

Kit, writing in Saturday's Mail and Empire, refers to the late Father O'Gorman:

"It was with a shock of dismay and grief that one read of the death of Father O'Gorman, a gentleman of few men of more exquisite character ever lived. Kind, wise, witty, genial—a friend of everyone, the dead priest was one of God's gentlest human creatures. Humanity is the great loss of Father O'Gorman's death. It will be peace and happiness for him if good works, charity large enough to cover the whole world, and humility, his passport to God's favor, but those who knew and loved him will think of his blue Irish eye, and will miss the great warm handshake, the genial reverence of his clergy word, the genial reverence of this good man. Goodness and kindness emanated from his very being. May he rest in great peace!

"Ab, Celtic Badger, his you have lost the kind master, my grand Irish terrier. What will you take for him? I was listening to a New York millionaire talking to Father O'Gorman one time at a bench show. The father's blue eye twinkled. 'Faith, he said, 'sure there's not enough money in all New York to buy the Badger.' Good priest, good man, good sportman—farwell!

LOOKING FOR A ROUTE

Through Kingston District For the New C.P.R. Line.

A. G. Arlidge, of the engineering department of the C. P. R., Montreal, will be in Kingston all week, looking over the district for the C.P.R.'s proposed southern route from Montreal to Toronto. He has been over portions of the route, getting an idea of the gradings. In building a railway line, the engineer seeks the lowest possible grades through the most populous country. Mr. Arlidge has not yet decided as to what portion of the city a line could be built on either side of it.

The Grand Trunk railway is also having the district surveyed with a view to running its line further into Kingston. The difficulty of grades arises. When the G. T. R. was built, the company, by an agreement with the city, was bound to run its line into the city, but to do so meant a considerable deviation and the passing over grades east and west. The natural route was, perhaps, a mile or two northwards from Kingston Mills, as this would have been shorter and of lesser grade.

THE WILD STORM.

Sailors Busy Repairing Damages of Last Night.

Last night's storm was the fiercest and largest that struck Kingston for years. The wind blew strongly all afternoon, but in the evening increased to a terrific gale. It was difficult to make one's way along the sidewalk without being blown onto the road. The trees were swayed wildly by the rushing winds, and branches were snapped off with regularity. Some trees were blown down. No damage to wires is recorded. The scene on the harbor was a wild one; the waves washing over the wharves.

Everywhere was quiet about the harbor front this morning. Everywhere the sailors were repairing damage done by Monday night's gale.

The steamer Alexandria parted her stern lines and capsized into the schooner Metzger, breaking three stanchions, and carrying away the rail. The scene around the foundry premises, where the pleasure yachts were moored, was a sorry sight. H. E. Burns' launch was battered to pieces on the rocks; K. Howist's launch was swamped at her moorings, and W. B. Skinner's fine pleasure craft, which was moored at the foot of the wharves, was blown across the wharves and will not be recovered. Little damage was done to the boats. Many animals were blown across the wharves and worked loose, telling of the severe strain upon them during the night.

At 11 o'clock last night it was impossible to unload vessels. No boat dared leave the harbor. Last night the steamer Alexandria came down last evening, in the midst of the storm. The Island Wanderer arrived from Cape Vincent about 8:30 o'clock, and had to land at Swift's wharf, being unable to get to Folger's.

Marine Notes.

Richardson: The Nettie Reid, up on Lake Huron and to New York; schooner Idylwild, from Howe Island, with pressed hay.

It is rumored that the steamer Turbine, of Hamilton, will be thoroughly overhauled this winter, and returned to the owners and officials, while admitting some change would be made, decline to state anything definite. One, however, hinted that the vessel might be sent to England for the alterations.

NO COUNCIL MEETING

QUORUM OF ALDERMEN DID NOT ATTEND.

There Were Enough in the Building, But Too Few in Council Chamber—A Special Meeting Will Have to Be Called.

The city council was to have resumed its sessions, last evening, after a three-month vacation, but a quorum of aldermen failed to take chairs around the horseshoe in the chamber, although there were more than the quorum number in the city buildings. Why the others didn't take their places is not very clear.

Evidently, some of the aldermen think they haven't had enough holiday, and the Mayor, who was engaged over the horseshoe and counted the members of his flock in attendance.

When the roll-call was answered the following names were present: Mayor, Mayor Mowat, and Aldermen Carson, Gaskin, Givens, Hoag, McCann, Rigney and Ross—nine in all. Ald. Toye, Harkness, Kent and Nickle and Millan came in just after the mayor declared no quorum, but still there lacked one to enable the council to transact business. The mayor stated that he would call a special meeting to get on with the civic affairs.

There was a long list of communications for reference to committees. Two of these were from W. S. Gordon and B. F. Armstrong, applying for the position of city clerk, which will be vacated this week by the present incumbent, Mr. Samuel Cannon in giving notice that she intended entering an action for damages for injuries received through a defective sidewalk on Bagot street.

On behalf of the plaintiff for injuries received by Mrs. Shann, notice is also given of a defective sidewalk on Queen street.

TRoubles of Young Folks.

Helpers in Cigar Factory Have Lively Time.

Joseph Sharp, a lad, was accused in the police court this morning of using abusive language to Gertrude Miller, a young woman. He pleaded not guilty, and about twelve minutes was taken up in hearing the case.

"I was working in a cigar factory," said the plaintiff to the court. "Sharp is employed there also. While I was talking to another girl he began tantalizing me and called me all sorts of names. He hit me and then he swore at me."

The language I used was all right," said Sharp, when placed in the box. "She called me a Chinaman."

"And did you hit back at her?" asked his worship.

"No, I did not," said Sharp, "I could not do so as I was carrying some cigars."

The magistrate disposed of the case by fining the accused $2, and ordering the plaintiff to pay the costs.

His worship told the plaintiff that she was partly to blame.

"There is no doubt but what you aggravated the lad," said the court, "and I will ask you to pay the costs."

Unwritten Word Slipped In.

In some unaccountable way the word "tory" appeared in a sentence in the Newburgh correspondence published October 5th, which should read: "The government had the whole medical profession to choose from."

The medical profession did not write the "tory" in the sentence, but his sentence stood as above.

A HURRY CALL

Danger of Fire at the Collegiate Institute.

At 8:30 o'clock, last night, the firemen were called to the Collegiate Institute. Timbits had left a charcoal pot and a bag of cement in the corner of the tower and though they claim to have thrown water on the flames, the fire was not extinguished. The charcoal pot was a blaze, setting fire to the cement sack. As the charcoal was damp, to some extent, volumes of smoke were thrown off. The residents of the vicinity telephoned a hurry call which was responded to by both stations. A fire on such a night would have proved disastrous to the fine structure as the wind had a full sweep of nearly two miles across the commons. The firemen responded quickly and soon all danger of the building being destroyed was at an end. Workmen should take this as a warning and be very careful with anything as easily combustible as charcoal.

The W. A. Board.

The board of the W.A. of Ontario discussed with future have a devotion of reading in connection with the opening services. At Monday's meeting Mrs. Lennox Mills read a thoughtful and helpful paper on the Lord's Prayer. Her hearers were reminded that the prayer always comes answer to earnest prayer, even if it be a refusal, sent in love and true knowledge of what is best for us. The business affairs of the board are proceeding well, and under the able leadership of Rev. W. Williams he was expected to be very bright religious exercise. He at once united with the Methodist Episcopal church of the city, and his faithful and consistent member until his death a period of nearly sixty years.

Mr. Powley was known and respected by a very wide circle of friends. All his life he was marked by Christian example and upright character. He was a true and devoted husband, and indulgent father, a kind and sympathetic neighbor. In politics he was a liberal.

His latter years were spent under much suffering and affliction. In April, 1903, he suffered a stroke of paralysis which left him almost helpless. But his suffering was borne with much patience, and through it all loving hands and kind hearts were ever minister to his comfort. May heavenly riches bless his rest upon the wife and daughter who so tenderly and faithfully cared for him. He leaves to mourn his wife, a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Smith, and two grandchildren, Eida and Wakeford, besides a wide circle of relatives and friends. The obsequies which were held on Monday, at 4 p.m., at his late home were largely attended, and were conducted by his pastor, Rev. R.
