

Told in the Twilight

The "dramatic" tea yesterday afternoon, when Miss Katie Workman made her bow to society, was most pleasant, old and young among Mrs. Workman's friends being there to welcome her. Besides Miss Katie, who wore a pretty white frock, the hostess was assisted in receiving, at the door of the drawing-room, by Miss Ross, of Vancouver, her guest. Further on, as guests moved into the tea-room, Mrs. Workman's eldest daughter, Mrs. W. C. Baker, led a greeting for them, and did the honors cordially. At the tea table were—Mrs. W. S. Ellis and Mrs. W. C. Becher, over the tea, and coffee, with Miss Annie Fowler dispensing tea at a table by herself. A very lovely table, in pretty summer frocks, seated Miss Katie and her friends. These were Miss Jessie McCann, Miss Isabel Polson, Miss Jessie Ellis, Miss Edith Young and Miss Edith Goodwin. The latter had a centre of pale green, with a wreath of fern upon it, and in the middle of this a round mirror holding a silver and crystal vase with pink carnations. Smaller vases filled with carnations flanked the centre.

Cold weather, mud, and threatening skies had no effect on people invited to Mrs. J. O. Crisp's tea, and the pretty old St. John's rectory, Port-mouth, was filled with people on Thursday afternoon. Cool and warm sea breezes from the house, and cordial the welcome from the hostess, Mrs. Crisp received in the drawing-room, and after some time spent there people went on to the dining-room for tea or coffee. Here were Mrs. J. C. Almond and Miss Harriet Crisp with a staff of willing assistants—Miss Constance Cooke, Miss Mildred Cooke, Miss Lily Norton-Taylor, Miss Kathleen Crisp, Miss Katrina Fairclough, and Miss Alice Hogue. The table was decorated with pink carnations, the vase holding them being upon a centre of pink satin covered with chiffon. In the library, where Miss Crisp assisted her guests, the very best of the pleasant tea in every way that has been given for some time.

Mrs. E. T. Taylor gave an informal little tea, yesterday, for a few old friends of Mrs. Bradford, Colonel Taylor's sister, and all enjoyed the chat over old times. Among those present were Mrs. Hugh Fraser, Mrs. C. E. Dwyer, Mrs. Fortes Terrance, the Misses Macpherson, Miss Ferguson, Miss Drummond, the Misses Lyman, Miss Crisp.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY THE NEW COLLEGE ATHLETIC CONSTITUTION.

The Dramatic Club to Study "As You Like It"—Elections at the Medical College.

The athletic organizations of the several universities interested have received from the Canadian Intercollegiate union, through the secretary, Professor C. H. McLeod of McGill, a copy of constitution. In his accompanying letter, Prof. McLeod points out that the union will use its best efforts for the advancement of athletic sports in intercollegiate circles, and looks therein for the support of all the universities and colleges of Canada. In the constitution of this new organization governing body some interesting features are noticeable. The first clause worthy of mention gives the object of the union as "the encouragement of systematic physical education and the supervision and control of all Canadian intercollegiate athletics." The members of the union are to be active and associate, the former being the University of Toronto and McGill, the latter any college or school as may be admitted on an unanimous vote of the active members. As regards intercollegiate contests, some hot and some associate members can compete, and no rule of a playing union shall be valid to which unanimous objection is taken by the new union. It is also noted that the governing body of the union shall be composed of three members, one from each active member, elected annually, and at least one governor from each university or college qualified to represent the membership then the university. Each associate member may have a representative present at any meeting of the governing body of the union, who may make representations thereon. The annual meeting of the union will be held in the month of March for the purpose of electing officers. The usual clauses are also in force regarding the formality of calling meetings, the entrance fees of active and associate members, the payment of the union's expenses, etc. The definition of an amateur as laid down by the new body is somewhat broader than most rules in effect at present in regard to the point. It reads, "An amateur is a person who has not competed in any competition for stakes, bet, money, private or public, or gate receipts, or completed with or against a professional for a prize, or whose gate receipts are charged; who has never taught or assisted in the pursuit of any athletic exercise or sport as a means of livelihood; who has never directly or indirectly received any bonus or a payment in lieu of loss of time, while playing as a member of any club, or any money consideration whatever for any services as an athlete, except his actual travelling expenses and hotel expenses; or who has never entered into competition under any other name than his own, or who has never been guilty of selling or pledging his prize." The above is not held to apply to the professional coach of a cricket team. For the purpose of interpreting the rules of the union and enforcing the same, the governing body will appoint a board of referees consisting of the faculty representative of each active member. To compete in any intercollegiate contest a player must be a bona-fide registered student, regularly in attendance on the regular lectures of the university or school he represents, and further no one is eligible to compete a succeeding year who in the preceding year of attendance failed to write on his final examination except by special permission of the board of referees. The usual formality of exchanging players certificates signed by a professor whose classes the student is attending and counter signed by the academic head of the university, are required at least one week before the opening match in any series of meetings, between university teams. Should the academic standing of any competitor be called in question as not complying with the foregoing conditions then such objection shall be communicated to the member of the board of referees representing the university of which the student is a member, and should such student decide that in his opinion the student is eligible to compete the certificate shall be valid but not otherwise. In the case of a student whose eligibility is to be decided by the board of referees after consultation with the athletic association to which he belongs.

Oliver Ditson's Prayer.

Half a century ago or thereabouts Oliver Ditson, a well-known merchant of Boston, a much respected and highly esteemed citizen, chanced to be a guest at the banquet of a certain religious body composed chiefly of clergymen. He was given the seat of honor and requested to ask a blessing.

He got on lively until hearing the close of his position, when memory failed to suggest a proper form for a graceful ending. In his perplexity he became mentally lost, and not until he had finished with "Veni respectufully, Oliver Ditson," did he awake to his surroundings.

As long as he lived Dr. Ditson was known and greeted by his intimate friends as "Yours Respectfully."

See Bibby's new fancy vests. A great deal is said in advertisements about the quality of goods, but we think nothing is so convincing as the offer of the "Salade" Tea Co., who are always inviting the public to go into their grocer's, get a packet of their tea and try it for a couple of days, and if they do not find it much superior to the tea they are using, it can be returned to the grocer, they getting the full amount paid for the packet in return for the half empty one. This is a more convincing proof of quality than a dozen page advertisements.

Beamed Too Soon. Lippincott's Magazine. It fell to the lot of five-year-old Wallace Stewart, being the third son in rapid succession, to silt the family ashes, as his brothers had done before him. One morning the boy was told by his beaming father that a baby had arrived the night before. Wallace craved to see it, much to his parent's gratification.

"And just think! It is our first little girl!" Wallace's smile vanished and he scowled like a pirate. "A girl!" as if it were the synonym for all that was opprobrious. "Gee! must I always sift ashes?"
