LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Complaint Against Step Lively Plan.

Kingston, Nov. 19.—(To the Editor): Will you allow me to add my quota to the condemnation of the methods pursued by the street car officials, as represented in your Friday's issue. This "step lively" policy is a poor and unnecessary one for a service that turns up only once in twenty minutes, however necessary it might be for a five-minute service. My wife and I arrived in the city on the Saturday evening train, and boarded car No. 23, going west on King street about eight o'clock. Before my wife could get seated the car started with a rush, throwing her to the floor and spraining her wrist severely.

Upon remonstrating with the conductor he explained that the car started so suddenly that it nearly threw a lady out of her seat the other day, but he did not pretend to say that the car started without his order. The whole thing was a nice process of carelessness on his part, and I am not decided yet as to whether I should sue the company for damages or not.

I have been a good patron of the street cars, but I have concluded that the better way to avoid insults and accidents is in the future to avoid the cars—Yours, N. P. DUBUIS.

Do Not Want Convict Labor.

Kingston, Nov. 19.—(To the Editor): An article, in Saturday's Whig, said: "The Queen's medical college authorities may use brick in the erection of this new building, if the labor unions' opposition to penitentiary stone being granted is successful, and that the stone-cutters would be no further ahead than if they agreed to allow the stone to come from the penitentiary." On behalf of the local stone-cutters allow me to say: We are not particular whether the building is erected of stone, brick, mud or if it is not erected at all, so long as convicts are not employed against free labour. Respectfully, William J. Driscoll, president stone-cutters' union.

A CURIOUS COLLISION.

Forty-One Persons Lost as Result.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 19.—The steamer Dix, bound from Seattle to Port Blakely, with passengers, sank two miles north of Alki Point, shortly after seven o'clock, last night, after having collided with the Jeanie, of the Alaska Coast company. Forty-one passengers and members of the crew of the Dix are missing, and thirty-nine were saved. The Dix is a total wreck. The Jeanie was not injured in the least. The master of the Dix was saved.

The collision occurred while the Sound was smooth, and after the boats had been steaming within sight of each other for a quarter of an hour. There was hardly time to launch life rafts or boats before the Dix was almost entirely submerged.

Nationalists Have Faith in Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's Intentions—No More Killing the Movement With Kindness.

Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—"When Ireland gets home rule, as she surely will soon, a small army of Irish Americans will leave this country and go back home," said Richard Hazleton, member of the English parliament for North Galway, Ireland, in this city today. Mr. Hazleton is visiting the United States in the interest of the home rule movement under the auspices of the United Irish League. He is accompanied by S. M. Kettle, also an Irish member of parliament. Continuing, Mr. Hazleton said: "We have the greatest faith in Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the British premier. He is a splendid man, and a man of his word. He has shown himself favorable to home rule, and we feel that he will help us, England and Ireland, with all his power and influence. The English idea used to be to try to placate Ireland by an occasional sop in the shape of some remedial measure. This policy, which has failed in killing home rule, will not do now. If the six Irish members of parliament wanted to make trouble they could completely tie up the proceedings of that body."

MR. LESSLIE'S FEAT IN FLOATING THE STEAMER BAVARIAN.

Kingston's Wreck Expert Successful—He Released the Bavarian When All Others Had Failed.

William Leslie, of Kingston, has performed an extraordinary feat in floating the steamer Bavarian, which for two years has lain on Wye Hook, below Quebec, and has created the wonder of the whole marine world. Wrecking companies on both sides of the Atlantic ocean attempted to float the Bavarian. Experts were brought from the United States and Great Britain, but all their attempts proved unsuccessful. The Bavarian could not be budged from its position on the rocks, and its owners had at last decided that further attempts would be in vain.

But William Leslie, of whom Kingston today is more than proud, had to be heard from. He had released the steamer Scottish King, which was stranded on the Newfoundland shore, and in as difficult a position. He used the compressed air method in that release, and he decided that he could float the Bavarian in like manner. A contract was entered into last August with the owners, by which Mr. Leslie was to receive half the value of the vessel should he release it, and he at once prepared for the task. In three months he has succeeded in floating the Bavarian, and proving himself one of the foremost wrecking experts in the world. Mr. Leslie is expected to clear $100,000 by his successful performance.

Mr. Leslie had a force of about sixty men employed at the Bavarian. The divers were from New York, but were not giving satisfaction, so he sent to Kingston for his old, expert diver, Matthew Murphy, at present a local post-office carrier, and the latter has superintended the diving work during the past two weeks. Ship Carpenter McCarthy, of this city, was also one of the foremen, with Murphy to depend upon for accurate work and reports concerning the conditions under water. Mr. Leslie was able to make the first attempt with Murphy, and the vessel began to move. On Sunday evening at high-tide she was completely afloat.

"Nothing succeeds like success," said Henry Folger this morning. "Mr. Leslie has achieved this in the raising of the steamer Bavarian, after wreckers on both sides of the water had pronounced it impossible."

Mr. Leslie is receiving telegrams of congratulation from all quarters on the success of this most difficult undertaking. He has certainly shown himself a man of pluck and courage. In the opinion of the expert opinion of British and American wreckers that Bavarian could not be rescued, his friends felt that he was undertaking a job that looked hopeless. But he had faith in his plans, and he floated a company which has flooded the ship.

Mr. Leslie was born in Kingston about sixty-five years ago. In boyhood he entered marine life, and won his way to the top. For years he was engaged in wrecking on the great lakes, and in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. At the latter place he established a wrecking station. His last big undertaking was the floating of the steamer Scottish King, which he took to Liverpool and sold.

He is still full of vigor and enthusiasm. During the summers he spent much of his time at the Yacht Club house, where he was one of the most popular members, and enthusiastic over yachting events. No doubt, some kind of formal welcome will be arranged when he returns home.

See Our Flannelettes and Wrapperettes, Etc.

It will be worth any woman's while to visit that section of our store where these materials are shown to-morrow. Flannelettes for every purpose, wrapperettes in the best effects, the new kimono cloths—these, and many other fabrics will be found there in great variety. And none of the prices at which they're marked are at all high or extravagant, be sure of that—indeed, some you'll find, are surprisingly low for such very apparent quality. A summary:

WHITE FLANNELETTES, very pure and fine, closely woven, in different weights, excellent wearing and washing qualities, at 6, 8, 10 and 12 1/2c. a yard.

Striped Flannelettes, of English make, becoming more in favor every year as their merits become known, superior in most ways to a flannel costing half-again as much, at 15 and 20c. a yard.

STRIPED FLANNELETTES, in pretty designs of pleasing colors—mostly dark effects, 36 inches wide, easily worth 15c.—special to-morrow only 12 1/2c. a yard.

Striped Flannelettes for Underwear, neat effects and good weights, at 5, 8, 9, and 10c. a yard.

Striped Flannelettes for Nightgowns and Children's Wear, excellent wearing qualities, at 10, 12 1/2 and 15c. a yard.

Striped Flannelettes for Shirts, pleasing color combinations, extra-good qualities, at 15, 17 and 20c. a yard.

ENGLISH WRAPPERETTES, for house-wrappers, blouse waists, etc., in fancy checks and pretty color designs, at 10, 12 1/2, 20, 25 and 35c. a yard.

NEW ENGLISH KIMONO CLOTHS, in very dainty patterns, all being exact copies of the fine French flannels, 27 inches wide, at 15, 20 and 25c. a yard.

WHITE SWAN'S DOWN CLOTH, of exceptionally good American make, for bath robes, heavy house jackets, kimonos, etc., extra-special prices—20, 25, 35 and 50c. a yard.

ENGLISH CHINTZ for comforter coverings, in many pleasing cashmere designs with colors absolutely fast, extra-good quality at only 12 1/2c. a yard.
