There's nothing in the world we're so much interested in as Coal at this time of the year. It may sound queer to speak of coal buying, and still so it is, because that's what we've made it. Two important discoveries we have made are that complete satisfaction to our customers pays best, and that the way to win business is to deserve it.

Telephones In The West.

The government of Manitoba is going to the people, after the next session, and the trump card it expects to play is public ownership of telephones. The idea is to drive out the Bell Telephone company, which has now covered the province pretty well with its lines, and to establish a system at the instigation and request of the municipalities, but under the control of the government.

In other words the people will vote—or be asked to vote—for municipal lines, in the villages, towns and townships, and the government will do the rest—erecting the lines and putting in the service at the people's expense.

The government of the province feels that it must have something with which to dazzle the people. It has not a money commission like Ontario, and cannot offer the municipalities cheap power at the council's expense. But the telephone offers an opportunity for a little advertising.

The weakness of the scheme lies in the fact that the farmers are interested, and they have not been given any very definite information upon the subject. They desire telephone communication between each other and the business centres, but they will only support the proposition when they have been given an estimate of the cost, and this has not yet been figured out.

The peculiar feature is the erection of the telephone system in Winnipeg, Brandon, and Portage La Prairie, by the government. This means that the whole province will be taxed for the benefit of the three places named, and it is an arrangement which is neither reasonable or popular, and will not take with the rural voters.

The Farmers On Strike.

The natural sequence has followed the agitation of the manufacturers for higher duties—the demand of the farmers for a consideration of their position. The memorial which has been forwarded to Ottawa, in the name and on behalf of all the great farmers' organizations in Ontario and Manitoba, will challenge attention. The farmers are a patient people to say the least of it. They are not easily roused, but when they are they exert an influence that cannot be ignored.

The first evidence of rebellion on the part of the agriculturists came with the announcement that ten thousand of them had, through Mr. Tolmie, M.P., and Mr. Hyatt, of the Farmers' association, protested against the suggested protection on tin plates. The tin plate men had no expectation of a "kick" of this nature, and the tariff revisors will do well to remember that the farmers really control parliament by the number of their votes.

The protest of the same Farmers' Association, the Grange and the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association; against a high tariff generally, will lead to a further and more aggressive campaign. The farmers point out that they submitted to protection originally under the belief that it would be limited in its scope and application; that it has been going up, piling on the taxes, that it has been drawing the population from the country to the towns and cities, that the excess of agricultural products must be expected; and that while the tariff limits the farmer's purchasing power it does not enhance the value of what he has to sell.

What the farmers ask for will hardly be granted—the total elimination of the protective principle from the tariff—but as an earnest of their position they say they will gladly assent to an abolition of all duties on agricultural products. It is a challenge that cannot be set aside. It represents the voice of the farmers and a voice that is making itself heard all over the land. It will be heard in Ottawa during the tariff revision.

Grab For Territories.

It is hard work to work up a feeling over the boundary question. There is no particular need of excitement, and no particular need of a war of words between contending governments. Keewatin, a vast territory, unoccupied and unexploited, and containing timber and mineral wealth of inestimable value, represents the territory which the provinces would slice and out so as to meet their respective ambitions.

Ontario is a pretty large province, but its government wants to take in all north of it, east of Churchill river and to the Hudson's Bay. Manitoba, a small province, can stand enlargement, and nothing will satisfy its government but a gift of the whole of Keewatin, Saskatchewan, so recently organized, has no reason to talk of expansion, and wants an outlet at Hudson's Bay. It would have that portion of Keewatin which lies north of Nelson river.

For Ontario and in its behalf, it is said that its limits were not fixed by the boundary award, and that there was originally, and when arbitration was had, some calculation upon the very claim which is now asserted on its account. The Manitobans are inclined to be ashamed of Ontario's claims, and the governments of both Ontario and Manitoba regard the government of Saskatchewan as guilty of putting on the airs of a usurper.

The thought advanced by the Toronto Star is one of special significance. It is that Keewatin should not be exploited by the older provinces, but that its wealth should be reserved and held for its actual settlers. Stripped of its timber, bereft of its minerals, or parcelled out to and held by speculators and land grabbers, what would it amount to? Development would be retarded and settlement prevented. New Ontario's experience is to be avoided. Some of its people have cried out for separation. Why?

Editorial Notes.

The machine candidate for the mayoralty of this city is the only one who has made any announcement so far. The people's candidate has yet to be heard from.

The Whitney government is said to have acknowledged that it made a mistake in the prison contract question. When did it do this? Has the confession been published?

The council which is elected by the ward system is declared, by the St. Catharines Star, to be superior to the council which is elected by the people at large. Strange, isn't it?

No children of school age are employed in the factories of Woodstock. Are there no children of school age employed in the factories of Kingston? It is a pertinent question.

The great Pullman is dead, but the business he established goes on, making money as fast as a mint. Surplus earnings last year, $10,000,000. And the stock is not in the market.

Ontario can get $15,000,000 for the mineral wealth that can be developed in the Gillies lumber limit in Cobalt. The idea is more than the mind can grasp. It is mentally intoxicating.

Mr. Berrill, the president of the Board of Education, says the educational bill will stand and that the lords must go. But suppose they won't? They cannot be forced to commit political suicide.

The Spectator wants to know why the Whig is so much interested in the East Hamilton bye-election. Why our contemporary so interested in Kingston's bye-election? Should the Whig not return the compliment?

The Manitoba contingent, headed by Hon. Bob Rogers, is persuaded that Keewatin will not be divided up and assigned, in pieces, to the other provinces. It may be converted into a new province, and probably that will be the best thing for Keewatin.

The World favours legislation which would make the man serve in the office to which the people elected him. This scheme, it is thought, would put the party hack and chronic officeholder out of office. But would it? The machine, in Toronto for instance, would work even then.

AGAINST HIGH DUTY

TEN THOUSAND AGAINST ANY RAISE.

Prices to Consumers Would Go Higher—Agriculture Should Be the First Care of the Government.

John Tolmie, M.P., introduced a deputation to the government which presented petitions bearing over 10,000 signatures of farmers extending all the way from Edmonton to Glenora. The petition was as follows:

We, the Dominion, Grange, Farmers' Association of Ontario, and Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, desire in view of the approach of the tariff revision session of the Dominion parliament, to express, through our executive officers, the views of organized agriculture in Canada on the question about to occupy the attention of the parliament of the dominion.

The farmers of Canada have become genuinely alarmed by the aggressive campaign carried on by the Manufacturers' Association during the past few years, with a view of having the tariff made more protective than it is now. When protection was first asked for we were assured that what was then requested would be required but a short time in order to allow our manufacturing industries to secure a fair footing.

The request was granted by the electors, and the rate of taxation levied on dutiable goods, averaging 24 1/2 per cent. in 1878, was increased to an average of 30 per cent. by 1890. Today we have an average tariff on dutiable goods about one and one-half per cent. higher than it was when the protective tariff became effective. And yet, with the infants of that period grown to the mammoth concerns of the twentieth century, we find the cry is still for more. The more there is given, and the less the requirement for giving, the greater are the demands made. If a half of not at once called we shall find conditions in this country similar to those prevailing in parts of Europe, with a small class of wealthy barons at the top and serfs at the bottom—manufacturers being the barons and farmers the serfs.

That agriculture, with a capital investment of four times the investment in manufacturing, should be the first care of our legislators is self-evident. That the effect of the tariff has been to foster and stimulate manufactures at the expense of the primary industry can be easily demonstrated.

In Manitoba, where agriculture is pre-eminently the industry of the people, we find that rural population ending with 1900 of five per cent. less than the increase in urban population. In Ontario rural population decreased in the ten years by 14 1/2 per cent. In Canada as a whole, the rural increase was 1 1/2 per cent., while the increase in cities, towns, and villages was 3 1/2. And the same tendency is observable still, but in a more marked degree. The report of the Bureau of Industries shows a decline of twenty-seven thousand in rural population in Ontario between 1900 and 1904, while city and town population increased from seven hundred and dred and eighty-seven thousand in Manitoba, where population increased by 100,000 between 1900 and July last, about eight-tenths of the increase was in cities and towns.

The agrarianization of the urban at the expense of the rural sections is an effect of protection. The protection accorded by the tariff enables manufacturers of certain classes, manufacturing consumers of agricultural implements to charge Canadian consumers 25 per cent. more than the value of the articles manufactured. The same protective tariff permits an overcharge of 30 to nearly 50 per cent. on the average rate of farm carriages. The average rate of taxation on dutiable goods in 1904 was 27 1/2 per cent., and to that extent, speaking broadly, Canadian manufacturers were enabled to overcharge Canadian consumers on purchases made by those consumers. Farmers do not and cannot secure any compensation in return for all this by an tariff that can be devised. We have today a surplus of one hundred and twenty million dollars of farm produce for export, and so long as these conditions continue the foreign price must control the home price of farm products. While a protective tariff can and does limit our purchasing power, it cannot and does not enhance the price of articles we have to sell.

We, therefore, ask, in the coming revision of the tariff, that the protective principle be wholly eliminated; that the principle of tariff for revenue only, and that revenue based on an honest and economical expenditure of the public funds, be adopted; and, as proof of our sincerity, we will, if this position is adopted by the government, assent to the entire abolition of the whole list of duties on agricultural imports.
