A VERY FINE OUTPUT TO THANK SECRETARY ROOT FOR HIS WORK.

Shipbuilding Improvement is Predicted By Admiral-United States May Equal Old Record Made in 1885.

New York, Nov. 21.—A great improvement in shipbuilding in the United States for the coming year was predicted by Rear Admiral Francis P. Bowles, president of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, in an address at the annual meeting.

"During the fiscal year ending June 30th," he said, "the United States built and documented 1,221 vessels, including canal boats and barges, of 418,745 gross tons. Steel steam tonnage increased 118,300 gross tons, while the other forms of construction together show a decrease. On the Great Lakes forty large cargo-carrying vessels were built.

"It is probable that the output of merchant vessels, almost wholly steam, for the year 1907 will exceed the greatest amount ever built in one year in the United States, namely, 1885, when 583,450 tons were constructed."

Rear Admiral Bowles was re-elected president for another term of three years.

A resolution was adopted to name a committee to thank in a series of resolutions, Secretary Elihu Root for his stand for ship subsidies.

Holiday Economy.
When the holiday season approaches, the retail merchants—those who advertise—add to their armies of salespeople and expand all branches of their service proportionately.

But suppose the storekeepers should withdraw their announcements from the newspapers to-day, and suggest their efforts to gain publicity until after the first of the year—don't you think they would save a lot of money on their pay-rolls?

If you want to save money on your pay roll, don't advertise. It costs a lot of money to handle the new business that newspaper publicity brings to the merchant who offers meritorious wares at reasonable prices.

What He Got.
A teacher had been trying to make clear to her class in reading the meaning of the word "hereditary" and its fellow word "inherit," leading up to the word "inherit" and emphasizing that it meant "what we get from parents." Feeling that she had used up enough energy in the effort to clarify the significance of the two words, she asked a boy of moderate brightness to give a sentence containing the proper use of the word "inherit." Quickly he answered: "I inherit hard spankings from my father and easy ones from my mother."

LESLIE URQUHART

Gets the Albert Medal For Gallantry.

Leslie Urquhart (his majesty's vice-consul at Baku) had the honor of being received by King Edward at Buckingham Palace, yesterday, when his majesty conferred upon him the Albert medal for gallantry, which is thus described in last night's Court Circular:

"During the disturbances at Baku, in September, 1905, four Englishmen were surrounded by insurgents at Zabrat, the headquarters in Balachani of the Baku Russian company, and were in imminent danger of losing their lives. The four Englishmen had already been isolated for some time when news of their perilous position reached the British embassy at St. Petersburg, and Mr. Urquhart, accompanied by two Cossacks and several Tartars from the village of Mushagep, started to relieve the beleaguered men.

"The district was full of armed Tartars, and in such a state of unrest that when Mr. Urquhart started upon his expedition it was not expected by the remainder of the British colony in Baku that he would live to return.

"On the night of his departure Mr. Urquhart proceeded to a farm which he possessed in the neighborhood, where he hoped to be able to get help from his own farm hands who were Tartars, and also to collect supplies, but, notwithstanding that the party was stopped and fired on from time to time, the supplies were collected, and a start was made early the next morning for Balachani.

"Mr. Urquhart's courageous and spontaneous action was rewarded with success. He got through and found the four Englishmen in a dreadful condition, especially on account of water, and after feeding them he persuaded them to go with him in carts which he had brought, with as many Armenians as they could take with them. Immediately afterwards the whole of the buildings were carried by storm, and everyone found therein put to death."

FISHERS' DEFENSIVE ARMOR.

Many Ingenious Weapons Protect Them.

Los Angeles—Two fairly well defended creatures now before me to explain that fish are generally seized as prey from above because nature invariably puts the armor where it is most needed. One of these is the horned shark, which has two defensive spears, each high up on a separate dorsal fin, and the other is the trigger fish.

In both cases the bayonets are pointed for the enemy, as when a battalion receives the order to prepare to receive cavalry. But the trigger fish has a sort of pocket knife attachment for his. It folds down into a groove which reaches along his back, exactly as the blade of a penknife may be turned down when its use is not required.

The trigger fish is a huge head propelled by a short, broad tail with no intermediate body to speak of; and in this questionable shape he seems as unlike a true product of nature as the animals of the heraldry office. He received his name when muskets were of an ancient pattern, and when he is at full cock he is not to be trifled with.

Hutch Induces Sleep.

When the body contains a lot of impurities these impurities are absorbed by the blood. The blood in turn carries them to the brain and they produce unsatisfactory conditions which destroy one's peace and rest. One suffers from hallucinations, nightmares, wild dreams in which horrible goblins try to tear you to pieces and all sorts of sleep destroying visions. By cleansing the body of impurities Hutch will remove all foreign matters from the blood and consequently relieve the brain of all these disturbances. Hutch induces sleep in which the organs of the body are built up and strengthened. Hutch is a doctor for ten cents.
