The Outlook In Klondike. There is a note of real cheerfulnes in the paragraph given below, from The Dawson News. The means of communication with Klondike are such that it is now a good while past Thanksgiving, but the paragraph is worth reading, as showing that, in the opinion of those on the spot, Klon-dike is far from being a played out mining camp. The note reads:—"To-day is Thanksgiving Day. Klondike is among the districts which can return thanks with no straining of the imagination. We can be thankful for the most perfect public health of any sec-tion of the Dominion; for the most glorious weather; for uninterrupted navigation; for a past season of activity and profit; for the doubling up of the value of claims; for an entire season of full employment for our workers; for a cessation of political wrangling; for many beneficial laws enacted; for the absolute promise of greater prosperity next year; for the close of a season more profitable to Berlin, Dec. 1.—A railroad murder of a kind impossible on an American that the country than last; for a year of no idleness in the camp which was not voluntary; for the restful certainty

The Order Changeth. There is a touch of sadness in the nnouncement that the Barnardo Farm Home at Russell, Manitoba, 's to be permanently closed. For twenty years the home has been a training school to teach farming to the boys sent out from England. Conditions have so changed, however, that the boys can be sent direct to the homes of farmers, and the institution is no longer necessary. Mr. E. A. Struth-ers, who has been in charge of the home since its erection, will now man-age the distribution of Barnardo boys from the receiving home in Winnipeg.
