REDUCING LICENSES

TWO PEOPLE WRITE ON THE SUBJECT.

Citizens Should Have Something to Say About the Location of Hotels—Surroundings Have Great Effect on the Question.

Kingston, Dec. 6.—(To the Editor): I have read the various letters in the Whig, for and against the proposal by the Citizens' League, to reduce the number of liquor licenses in Kingston.

These in favor of the reduction, so far seem to have the best of the argument. There is only one reason that a temperance man should give against the reduction, that is, that it would do no good.

An intelligent elector and temperance man, too, says he is going to vote against the reduction, and argues with me thus: "First, if you do reduce the licenses there will be just as much drinking, and the remaining licensed hotels will get a better patronage."

It is the wrong way to do it, the reduction of licenses. This should be done by raising the license fees, then the small or poorer class hotels would be forced to close, and the revenue eliminated and the revenue established.

If reducing the number of licenses would do no good, I cannot understand a temperance man talking about a method of doing it. If he does not want the number reduced he surely doesn't want the number increased, then we must be in an ideal state, but to be fair to this particular individual I think he would go in for a more sweeping reduction than is proposed by the league, thinking that a reduction to twenty licensed hotels is not enough to do any good. I don't agree with him on this point either.

Neither is it clear to me that a high license is a good method to secure the desired results. It would simply be to have many hotels with no certainty as to how many they would be situated, and how or where they would be situated.

The citizens would have something to say about the location of the hotels they license, and whether one or more is required in a certain locality, or I think it is pretty certain that if the licenses were reduced to twenty, drinking would be materially lessened.

Many a man on a Saturday night, with his pay in his pocket, and in his working clothes, would wear his way to his family if the old familiar and handy place was closed, rather than go some distance, perhaps, and get among company, where he would feel out of place and uncomfortable in somewhat different surroundings.

And thus his money and his morals would be saved, and his family a better citizen and his family happier. Let us suppose that by cutting off thirteen licensed places the quantity of liquor consumed was not reduced, still good would result. Why? If men must drink, they are obliged to drink at home or in a better environment. This is a principle that needs to be kept in mind, that surroundings have a great effect upon character. It is less degrading to a man to drink at home or in a first-class hotel, than in some low down dive.

I don't say that we have any of the latter in Kingston, but then it is all a matter of degree, and if men must drink, as I have said, we want them to drink in the best place possible.

Across the border, opposite to some of our Canadian towns, where are drinking places where women are kept and get a "rake off," from every glass of liquor drunk. Now what is the effect upon a man's morals drinking in such a place? Let us get as far away as possible from such environments. If by closing the less desirable hotels, we send more custom to the better class hotels, and if we must have revenue, let us raise the latter's license fees, and make them pay for their increased custom. If the number of licenses were reduced the inspector would have less places to watch, and the law could be better enforced, and, consequently, less secret drinking. This is no question for grit or tory, but a question of greater moral importance for the citizens of Kingston to consider.—S. A. AYLROYD.

The Woman's Standpoint.

Kingston, Dec. 6.—(To the Editor): I noticed in your paper of last evening a paragraph with the heading "A Hot Shot to the Citizens' League."

Let me tell you, dear friends, it is true that this is an educational centre, all the more reason why we should have less licenses and more pledge-cards, or blue ribbons, as you choose to call them. Is it not our young men who are attending our colleges and high schools that we are trying to save from the saloon-keepers' trap as well as other citizens of our fair domain?

Dear friends, it is in your power to save thousands of lives by signing your name to the pledge-card. Do not be guilty of siding in with the saloon-keeper if you are a true lover of God and man. May the time come when every man and woman will wear the blue ribbon, as our little Sunday school scholar, of to-day does. Think of the wretched homes that exist in our little limestone city.

Why is it? Because there are too many saloons. Think of the many lives that are wrecked, the many hearts that are broken. I strongly

Don't Neglect Your Skin!

You have been complaining of a nasty, raw, rough "feel" about your hands, arms, neck or face? It is a common experience just now that the keen, biting winds are upon us. The relief lies in Zam-Buk. Don't neglect your skin. Don't forget that the skin is more than a mere covering for the body. By means of tiny pores it helps to purify the system; and unless cared for, the damp, raw days of winter impair its functions, cause cracking, chaps, and sow the first seeds of skin disease. Don't neglect a cut or a sore, for fear of blood poisoning or inflammation. Zam-Buk is a certain and antiseptic healer. Applied to a cut, a bruise or any skin injury, its antiseptic powers come into operation, and it kills all disease germs which would otherwise cause inflammation and suppuration. Then the herbal essences of which it is composed build up new healthy tissue, cell by cell, till the injury is healed, the disease cured, and all traces of it removed. Skin Disease for Two Years

Mr. Chas. Hill, of 14 Main Street, Brantford, says: "For nearly two years I suffered with a skin disease on my legs, which became so irritable at times that I was confined to my bed and unable to apply bandages of any kind or even to let anything touch my legs."

Mr. Henry Harvey, of Calarquet, says: "Zam-Buk in my case has done all it was recommended to do. I had some sores on the scalp, which at times caused me such acute pain that I could not bear to touch the part. This continued for nearly two years, and defied all remedies I tried. Zam-Buk was recommended to me, and after a fair trial I am glad to report the sores are quite cured. I can strongly recommend Zam-Buk for scalp diseases."

Zam-Buk is invaluable for eczema, alopecia, scap, dandruff, ringworm, psoriasis, bad legs, inflammation, radicle, eruptions, pimples, sores, chaps, chapped hands, cold-sores, chilblains, chills, cold in the head, cuts, burns, lacerations, scalds, sunburn, etc. Of all druggists or post from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 25c. a box, 6 boxes for $2.50.

advised to the citizens of our fair city and in so doing save our loved ones from being dragged down to destruction without one moment's notice.

Two Conflicting Opinions.

Kingston, Dec. 6.—(To the Editor): I notice that Alder Gaskin, who is an old and experienced marine man, advocates the retention of the saloons from Kingston harbor. Not long ago, Capt. J. H. Scott, another experienced mariner, declared that the saloons should be allowed to remain, as they were no menace to navigation, but instead formed a breakwater for the Kingston shore. Now, which of these gentlemen's opinions is the minister of marine to take? Will he not regard one just as valuable as the other?

I notice that Quartermaster Sergeant George H. Hunter is pilot of the latter in Kingston, and then it is all a matter of degree, and if men must drink, as I have said, we want them to drink in the best place possible.
