This is no tale of vast fortune to be made in a few weeks, and with the investment of a few dollars. It is a sane, reasonable business proposition, which offers the man with a few hundreds, or a few thousands, just as much certainty and profit as any man ought to expect. The proposition is "not addressed to gamblers nor speculators, but to men who want surety with little risk, and want something tangible and immediate for their investment.

This sound, secured invesiment is one of the safest busi ess propositions in Canada for any inv stor. One of our properties a one - the Chipmin Creek Mine is estimated by J. E. Woods, C.E. to have Twelve Million Tons of high-grade col: ng an I domestic coal.

That m u to coal alone will pay at least Two I del Per Cant. div dends on the par value of our who'e capi alization. We can get our coal to market, and get it there cheaply, and the market is waiting and will pay good prices. You may have been offered coal mining propositions which cannot develop for years because they are far away from railways. Don't class this with them, for every one of our properties is easily tapped by trunk line railroads. Besides our sure-paying coal lands, we own oil fields that in all probability will be producing 530 barrels of oil a day within a year. We own two wells that experts say will deliver 100 barrels of oil a day. A contract has been let for drilling five oil wells to be sunk on the Company's oil lands, which are in the heart of the great crude oil belt of the North-West. For every barrel of oil the Company produces the Government pays 521/2 cents bounty, and the Company still owns the oil. If the wells produce only 100 barrels a day all told the Company will earn $15,750 a year in bounties in addition to the value of the o'l. That value at wholesale will be not les; than seven dollars a barrel, and the whole cost of production and refining deducted, the net profits per barrel will exceed six dollars a barrel.

Think for a moment what our offer really means Certainty to you. For every hundred dollars you invest of Good you receive Ten Shares of Preference Stock, on Interest which you receive six per cent, on the par value. You also receive, free of all cost, ten ordinary shares, which share equally in the Company's profits after the preference shares are naid their divisinds. So that your dividen is fromt e vary start will pay you six per cent. year on your investment, with a strong probability that they will be much larger in a very short time. Savings banks will pay you not more than four per cent. and

We own the only known oil laids in British Columbia that are on a railway. We own two wells that experts tell us will produce a hundred barrels of oil a day. We have let contracts for drilling five more wells that will almost certainly be productive. We believe honestly that within five years we shall have fully one hundred producing wells on our oil lands. Under our charter we have the very valuable right to build pipe lines anywhere, and the railway runs so close to the lands we have already successfully prospected for oil that a gravity pipe-line will deliver the product without any expensive pumping relays. I.W. Warren, of the Winni-you do not share in their profits at all. Now if the Company earns a net profit of only $250,000 per annum, and at that time 10,000 shares of each class have been sold, just 120,000 shares of stock would share in the dividends, which would figure over Twanty Por Cont. on the par value of each share.

That is to say, your hundred-dollar investment would carn you Forty Dollars every year. If you wished to sell at any, time, shares earning 20 per cent, would readily bring four times their par value, or $40 each. Then the stock, which had cost you a hundred dollars, would be worth Eight Hundred Dollars -a net profit to you of $700, basides your dividends.
