New York, Jan. 4 .- Many of the new Armstrong amendments to insurance law have gone into effect to-day. Hereafter none of the "Big Three' can write more than $150,000. Although the New York Life, until recently at least, had an agency force capable of writing as much as $300. 000,000, the company has not written half that amount this year, according to the statement made by an official of the company. All advances to agents, the cause of losses amounting to many hundred thousands of dollars yearly, now must cease. The Equitable discontinued this practice last summer. The New York Life and the Mutual did not do so, however but, according to "opposition" terests, employed the advances in certgin instances to pay the alleged electioneering expenses of accents.
