INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF MAYOR MOWAT TO THE CITY COUNCIL

Deprecates Class Legislation—Outlines the Work of the Year—Asks That There Be No Political Leanings. At the inaugural meeting of the city council this morning, Mayor Mowat spoke as follows: Gentlemen of the City Council—I bid you welcome to this council board for 1907, but in doing so I cannot but express regret for those who were with us last year and whose faces we now miss. However, of the seven new members, two are ex-aldermen who did good work in the city council in former years, and the others have achieved a success in their private undertakings that warrants us in expecting public advantage from their presence with us.

In my address to you this morning, I intend to leave the path usually followed by the mayor in his inaugural, while I deal for a few minutes with phases of the municipal contest closed on Monday last. In that election a new feature was introduced, and we had, for the first time in our recent municipal history, an attempt by a few interested parties who by no means represented the workingmen as a body, or even the labour unions, to arouse class prejudice, and to secure class representation in this municipality the number of those who are employed greatly predominates over those who are employers, and it says much for the sound and sober judgment of the great majority of those that they resisted the severe pressure brought to bear upon them and refused to allow themselves to be made use of in order to gratify the personal ambition of a few self-seeking individuals. I personally thank the workmen, who formed the great majority of my supporters, for their confidence and support.

Class Representation. I submit that there is no need for class representation in our municipal council at the present time, and I deplore the introduction of any movement tending in that direction. So far as our municipal government is concerned, what we require is honesty, economy and efficiency, and these are needed by all citizens alike and not by one class, trade or calling more than another.

The workmen of Kingston appreciate this fact as shown by the vote in the recent mayoralty election. I also believe that in the various aldermanic contests, the interests of the gentlemen who were elected to the council for the different wards made any special appeal for workmen's votes, but submitted their candidatures to the question of their fitness for a place at this council board and the fact of their election is a clear indication that the workmen of Kingston consider their true representatives to be those who will faithfully and fully administer the municipal affairs of the city. This is as it should be.

Even the foolish division on party lines has more to recommend it than this new movement. A party candidate represents those in the community in all classes, ranks and callings with whom in general politics he is in agreement, while the candidatures of class representatives tend to introduce into our community antagonisms and antipathies that can have nothing but evil results. The interests of Kingston are the interests of all her citizens, and her prosperity will be advanced by the advancement of our good city.

Another point that impressed me very strongly in the late election is the desirability of eliminating the personal canvass of the electors by the candidates. In a political contest, where the affairs of the rival parties are at issue, a personal canvass by a candidate may be justified by the necessity of explaining his policy to the people. But in our municipal elections, where the issues are almost wholly personal, there is no such necessity, and the personal solicitation of votes should be beneath the dignity of the office, the candidate and the elector. It may be some time before canvassing is made a statutory offence, although it seems to me that the trend of legislation is in that direction, but at all events much could be accomplished in our community if the best men in municipal life would enter into an agreement to do no personal solicitation but leave the issue to the unbiased expression of the wishes of the electors.

Work Of The Year. So much for these general questions. Turning to the work before us this year, the most important point to consider is the spirit in which we shall approach that work. Last year at this time I announced my intention to cut entirely adrift from party politics so far as my chief magistracy was concerned, and I appealed to my colleagues in the council to do so also. Difficult as it was I tried to carry out my pledge to the majority of the council, and I think the majority of the council of whatever political stripes, did the same. With the lead given by the council of 1906, progress in this direction should be comparatively easy to you and we should have no hint of next inaugural meeting. So far as I personally am concerned I do not feel

ANNIVERSARY DAY AT BROCK STREET METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY.

The Rev. Eber Crummy, D.D., of Toronto, a Former Pastor, Preaches at Both Services—Large Congregations. Sunday was anniversary day at the Brock Street Methodist church, and the services proved most profitable. A large congregation gathered both morning and evening. At the morning service there were few vacant seats, and in the evening the edifice was filled to overflowing. Rev. Dr. Eber Crummy, D.D., of Toronto, a former pastor, occupied the pulpit morning and evening, and delivered eloquent sermons. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Eby, was present, and assisted at both services. A special programme of music was rendered, and the church choir, under the direction of the choir director, rendered a number of fine selections.

The Light Plant. By the spring the extensions to the light plant, both for power and transmission, will be completed. The plant must be run as a sound business concern and due provision made for it to meet its obligations. But it should be distinctly understood that it was not purchased by the city as a money-making investment, but in order that the citizens should receive its benefits at moderate prices. So, the plant should be managed with due regard to the interests of the consumers, and the present consumers should be charged reasonable rates that the plant may be repaid free from debt to the next generation. It is suggested that time is approaching for a considerable lowering of the rates to consumers of both gas and electricity, and I recommend this to the consideration of the Light, Heat and Power committee.

In my former inaugural, in asking for an increased appropriation for the committee on industries, I suggested that we must be content to see that others might reap. The able and comprehensive report presented by that committee, on December 17th last, indicates that the great deal of good seed was sown and the appropriation very well spent. I hope so much of the committee's remains will be continued in the form of a measure to prosecute further the good work it commenced.

During the past year, on the initiative of the ladies, a very commendable movement was started, suggested which was to stimulate and cultivate the aesthetic taste of our citizens and to make Kingston beautiful. In this, I think, the city has secured all of us that our town, our parks has been far from satisfactory. There has been no continuity of policy with reference to them and the parks committee, given the matter through the year without accomplishing much in the way of improvement. Other places are at present giving attention to such matters and the most successful way of dealing with them seems to be to place them entirely under the control of a commission. I think a commission of three or five representatives of citizens of artistic taste, whose term of office would extend over a considerable period of time, would soon re-organize the parks and give them places and places of recreation. Such a commission would not only make better use of the appropriation given by the city council, but would, unless the conditions are given different from those that held in other places, accomplish as much again by way of private enterprise. Possibly it is too much to ask of the Park committee that it should propose to legislate itself out of existence. But I think this idea should receive the serious consideration of the council. I am by no means a public utility, and my recommendation by the thought that its adoption might ultimately lead to the management by a commission of all our public utilities.

I will conclude by expressing the hope that that harmony and good fellowship, that unselfish devotion to the public good, which prevailed in the council of 1906, will characterize in an even more marked degree the council of 1907, and that at the close of our year we may have the consciousness of honest, conscientious effort and fair achievement.

Several Presentations.

On the evening of December 21st the prominent members of the Methodist church, including the pastor, gathered together and presented A. Ritchie and wife with two beautiful upholstered chairs. Mr. Ritchie has sold his general store and moved to 335 Brock street, Kingston, until spring when he intends going west. Another presentation was made at the I. O. F. hall, on December 31st, when Mr. Ritchie, financial secretary, was presented with a handsome gold-headed cane. The family has always resided in Inverary, and will be greatly missed.

Another Concern Interested.

There is a possibility of a new electric road between Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, and western points. N. W. Leffer, has secured the Leffer Electric company of Chicago, is in Ottawa, inquiring into the feasibility of the project, and also about a charter.

THREE WANDERERS TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL

After the Match With Ottawa in Montreal—Victorias Won in Quebec—General Notes About Sports. Frontenacs and Belleville meet to-night, at the covered rink, in a junior O.H.A. contest, which promises to be strong. Belleville defeated Pictou in Belleville by six goals, and the Frontenacs defeated Pictou by five goals. The local team expects to win, though it expects a hard fight. So far this season each team has won only their home games, which looks as if there would be a close finish in the eastern division. Frontenacs' lineup for to-night will be: Goal, Lumb; point, Lemmon; cover, Dowley; centre, Ainsley; rover, Crawford; wings, Cooke and Gravelle.

ROUGH HOCKEY AT MONTREAL.

The hockey match in Montreal, on Saturday night, between Wanderers and Ottawa, resulted in a win for the former by 4 to 2. All the goals were scored in the first half. Palford and All Smith were ruled off for the rest of the game. At times Ottawa had only three men on the ice, and Harry Smith, who had been ruled off, was the chief casualty caused by Ottawa's play. Hod Stuart, knocked out by Alf Smith; Blatchford, knocked out by Spittal; Johnson, knocked out by Harry Smith. These three players had afterwards to be taken to hospital to be patched up.

HOCKEY NOTES.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review: The Toronto senior hockey team are after the record set by the Woodstock seniors last season—that of getting away with the season without winning a game. The Barrie professional team has melted away. Vair and Rowe are said to have headed for the east this time. Having been turned down at Port Arthur they are due to play at Renfrew. The New Glasgow professional hockey team is a joke at home as well as abroad. Having returned from the Montreal trip without a win, the club has made an application to the Maritime Provinces Amateur Athletic Association for reinstatement. The London Free Press never tires of kidding Toronto about the hockey teams down there. Says an exchange: That is hardly a square deal. Toronto has no chance to get back at London's teams for the reason that there are none in the Coburn village. London can't even raise a fourth-class septette and is hiding behind the excuse that no team is better than a fourth-rate outfit.

General Sport.

Steve Cusack, the new Eastern League umpire, is six feet four inches tall and built in proportion. Cusack came from the New York State League. American league umpires may be instructed to umpire by the deaf and dumb method next year, signalling their decisions. The reform has been advocated for many reasons. Terry McGovern and Young Corbett are two shining examples of the fact that men "can't go the pace" and keep in good physical condition. Terry is in an athletic and Corbett is now practically down and out after the ail that beating Murphy gave him.

Napanee Curlers Defeated.

The Ontario Curling Association, senior series, opened here on Saturday night when two Napanee rinks met the Kingston curlers at the curling rink. Both Kingston rinks won, after close and interesting games. The ice was in fine condition. The players were: Napanee, No. 1—W. Templeton, W. C. Smith, J. W. Robinson, Dr. Leonard, skip—11. Kingston, No. 1—Dr. Etherington, E. Lyons, S. N. Bailey, W. B. Dalton, skip—20. Napanee, No. 2—W. F. Hall, J. Boyd, J. S. Ham, C. J. Maybee, skip—11. Kingston, No. 2—W. H. Montgomerie, Dr. Watson, L. L. Henderson, W. Leslie, skip—18.

Too Much Food.

Every time you eat too fast, cram too much food into the stomach, you suffer from indigestion, which is a law of nature and will prove itself in a moment. Now if you will assist nature a little in an agreeable manner with such a pleasant and efficient medicine as Hutch you need not suffer from these troubles. Hutch will give you instant relief. Hutch is a doctor for ten cents. 25c. and 50c. at all drug stores.

Let Us Have Light.

Citizens who have occasion to be down street, at nights, want to know how electricity will be put in the gas and proved unobtainable this winter and the proposal to replace the old fixtures with electricity should be pushed ahead.
