The case in which a local ice dealer was summoned and brought into court this morning, has created so much local interest that we submit the law in the matter. The public health act "The local board of health of an;

municipality or district in which supseessessessesses nlies of ice are obtained, sold stored, shall have power to adopt such reculations regarding the source of supply, and the place of storage, of the same, as shall in their opinion, be best adopted to secure the warity. of the ice, and prevent injury to the public health. The powers and duties local boards in this respect shall extend to the supervision of ice surplies, whether obtained within or outside the municipality in which the board has jurisdiction." R.S.O. 1887.

> A later act of the legislature imposes a fine of $100 on the contemination of a city's water or ict supply The importance of pure ice so impressed the provincial government that it gave all boards the power to regulate the same without a single legal restraint. Canadian Artist Abroad One of the best known of Canadian artists is Mr. Henry Sandham, who, although he has lived for the past six years in England, and previous to that to call himself a son of Canada. Mr. Sandham was born at Montreal in 1842. From his earliest years he was fond of drawing, and did such excellent work in the studio of the late William Notman that he was given owned by the Thousand Island a partnership in the firm. His first artistic tuition was received from Mr. J. A. Fraser, who has since won distinction as an original painter. Vogt, Way and Jacobi also gave personal instruction, and all joined in advising the young man to pursue his studies in Europe. He took their advice, and spent some time in study, returning to Canada in 1880, when he was chosen as one of the eight charter members of the Royal Canadian Academy. In Boston, where he settled, he quickly won a reputation as one of the foremost artists on the continent,
