No Press Censor Here. It is a mercy that all our aldermen are not as thin-skinned as some of them appear to be. The Whig, of a recent date, was handed to the city clerk, so that he might publicly read a paragraph referring to the qualifications of certain aldermen.

Talk About The Churches. Services are being held in Toronto for the benefit of those who are not church-goers, and the papers give a report of the effect of a sermon by Dr. Potts, in Nassau hall, on Sunday evening. A dozen men signified their desire to lead a better life. One of them had not been in church for fifteen years. Another had not been inside a sacred edifice since he came to Canada.

Editorial Notes. Mr. Haycock is carving his salary. He is making the binder twice men play fair with the farmers. And it is a pretty big contract.

Should named goods be dated? That is the question of the hour. Some things improve with age. Wine, for instance. But meat and corn and peas are the healthier when fresh, and the date upon the tins will make for wholesome feeding.

Kingston And Cape Ferry. Until further notice steamer will leave for Cape Vincent at 11:30 a.m. Bay Zan-Buk at Gibson's Red Cross drug store. It's fresh the steamer.

Honours To Mr. Ross. The call of honourable gentlemen to the senate does not usually excite much comment, but the summoning of the last four has changed the current of events. This is because one of the senators is Hon. Mr. Ross, whose title to the prefix is now beyond question.

German Gets Fortune. Woodstock, Ont., Jan. 16.—Ernest Slosser, for some time in the employ of an organ-building firm here, has left for France, to take up a fortune which awaits him. He is a young German, who said he escaped from service in the German army, and after years of wandering arrived in Woodstock on a freight train.

HOUSE OF COMMONS. A Pension Fund Under Review. From Our Own Correspondent. Ottawa, Jan. 16.—An outcome of the department of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress to the Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, was the introduction of a bill for the purpose of providing for the pensioning of laborers and other considerations, Canada was not a proper place for Hindoo emigration.

Railway Taxation. The Ontario government is about to put $172,844 of railway taxation this year to public use. The revenue under the old system was under $35,000. The enlarged tax is not so serious as railway managers have alleged, and yet it is a notable increase of provincial benefits, designed for beneficent purposes. The tendency to make railways bear a fair share of public burdens advanced slowly in Canada. But it has its apostle in the former member for East Lambton, H. J. Petty.

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1814, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and man is to get each month one and one-half per cent. of his average monthly pay, during the last ten years' service he has received a total of $39,000.

and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature. In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the various ailments peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them. All this so far was done freely, without money and without price as a labor of love.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world. The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkhams sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased. In 1871, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not all she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself. During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice, and there were thousands—received careful study and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ailments, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equalled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence. To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.
