A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life.

Mrs. M. J. Dabrowski

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission on earth...

Told in the Twilight

On Saturday afternoon a little romance was played out in the marriage of Mr. Richard D.A. Mulcahey, of Ottawa, and Miss Charlotte E. Casgrain, daughter of the late H. Casgrain, Esq., and Miss Casgrain, of Abeeheadie Lodge, Cornwall, niece of Senator Casgrain, and sister of Mrs. F. McKelvey Bell, Rev. Father Murphy performed the ceremony...

Miss Adams, our clever Canadian violinist, will be the guest of Mrs. Winthrop Sears, "Heathfield," to-day (Wednesday) morning.

A high tea, followed by bridge, was a novel and most delightful way of spending late afternoon and early evening, devoted, chiefly by Mrs. John Bell Carruthers and Mrs. James Gilchrist...

TELLS HIS STORY

BRIDANT SAYS WIFE ASKED FOR DEVOSS.

How Sentence of Death Was Carried Out on Streets of Hyderabad. The decision as to whether the murderer should be executed or imprisoned for life was, says The Civil and Military Gazette in describing an execution at Hyderabad of a Pathan who had shot his brother-in-law, as usual, left to the murdered man's relatives, and his widow, the sister of the murderer, voted for his death.

On the day for the execution there appeared in the streets a band of sweepers armed with leafy twigs followed by a squad of the city Arab police with fixed bayonets. Then came the criminal, dressed in new white garments, with a new halter around his neck and new ropes attached to his arms. The ends of these ropes were held by policemen. The ordinary thing is for the condemned man to walk to the gallows, but in this case he was so overcome that he had to be conveyed in a jukka.

On arriving at the fatal spot the murderer was led to the gallows, and knelt down, while the policemen handed over charge of the cords to the executioner's attendants, one of whom, seizing the end of the halter, held the cords pinning the arms behind. The executioner, brandishing a broad, heavy sword, keen as a razor, raised it high in the air, and prancing up towards his victim asked three times in a loud voice: "Who authorizes the execution?" The chief of the city police on duty thrice replied: "The Amir."

EXECUTION IN INDIA

How Sentence of Death Was Carried Out on Streets of Hyderabad.

The decision as to whether the murderer should be executed or imprisoned for life was, says The Civil and Military Gazette in describing an execution at Hyderabad of a Pathan who had shot his brother-in-law, as usual, left to the murdered man's relatives, and his widow, the sister of the murderer, voted for his death.

BAD HAND WRITING

JULES JANIN WOULD RATHER REWRITE.

Than Read His Own Manuscript—Carlyle's Temperament Was Apparent in His Writings—Balzac Was an Awful Penman. Charlotte Brontë's handwriting seemed to have been traced with a needle, and the penmanship of Bryant was aggressive, well formed and decidedly pleasing to the eye. Thackeray's writing was marvellously neat and precise, but it was so small that microscopic eyes were needed to read it. Longfellow wrote in bold, open hand which was the delight of printers.

The handwriting of Captain Marryat was so microscopic that when he rested his hand on his letters he was obliged to mark the place where he left off by sticking a pin in the paper. Napoleon's handwriting was worse than illegible. It is said that his letters from Germany to the Empress Josephine were at first taken for rough maps of the world of 1815.

Much of Carlyle's temperament may be read in his handwriting. He wrote a patient, crabbed, oddly emphasized hand. The chronology of Walter Scott, Leigh Hunt, Moore and Gray was easy to read and ran smoothly. It was not expressive of any special individuality, however. The writing of Dickens was minute and neat, and the author's habit of writing with blue ink upon blue paper, with frequent erasures and interlineations, made his copy a burden to his publishers. Byron's handwriting was a mere scribble. His additions in his proofs often exceeded in volume the original copy. To one of his poems which contained only 400 lines in the original, 1,000 lines were added in the proofs. One day a distressed compositor appeared at the house of Jules Janin and besought him to decipher some pages of his own manuscript. Janin replied that he would rather rewrite than attempt to read over what he had once written.

CROSBY TIDINGS.

The Farmers Busy Hauling Wood and Logs. Crosby, Jan. 21.—The cold snap last week took the swamps and the farmers have been given an opportunity to get their wood and logs. They have been busy hauling logs to the saw mill as they don't know the day the swamps will break up. W. Spicer, Newboro, has a gang of men getting out logs from his mill. W. A. Singleton, postmaster, has gone into his swamp to get out logs. He has leased the Soper Bros' saw mill and engaged Joseph Spear, Newboro, to superintend its operations. W. F. Steadman is spending the winter in the North-West, visiting friends. He was accompanied by John Pinkerton, of Elgin, a former blacksmith of this place, who intends locating at Yorkton, where he has secured a lucrative position. Mr. Crowe of Ottawa, has a gang of hay pressers through here, and has shipped from our station several carloads of fine timothy hay secured in this vicinity, paying as high as $10 a ton for some choice lots. Thomas Johnston, who is attending county council in Brockville this week. Mr. and Mrs. Hillyard Leggett and their little baby boy, of Athens, who were visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Whalen of Irehem, Man., are visiting friends here after an absence of thirteen years. He sees a great many changes and many of his old chums didn't know him. He went out west when a mere lad, with scanty means, and is now a prosperous farmer there. His brother, William, who was out about the same time, is also doing well. The sons of Sidney Whalen of this place, L. H.
