A CLASH OF DATES.

A Double Header at the rink.

This question has been asked how it is that the Frontenac-Brockville and Napanee-Cadogan games clash? A double header has been arranged for Friday night, but as the C.H.U. schedule was drawn up, last fall, the O.H.A. convenor must be responsible for the clash of dates.

MAJOR H. BURSTALL

TO COMMAND THE HORSE ARTILLERY.

Lieut.-Col. Fages to be transferred to the Garrison Artillery at Halifax—A Review of Both Officers.

Lieut.-Col. J. A. Fages, who has commanded the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, since Col. Drury's removal to Halifax, has received notice of his transfer to the Garrison Artillery at Halifax, and will shortly leave for the Gibraltar of Canada.

Col. Fages has been with both the Garrison Artillery at Quebec, and the Horse Artillery at Kingston. He has been in command of "A" Battery when appointed to command the R. C. H. A. He has proven an excellent officer, and his transfer to Halifax is regretted by his many friends here.

Col. Fages holds the highest qualifications from the English School of Artillery. It is due to him that the horse artillery possesses the fine hand now attached to it.

He will be succeeded in the command of the horse artillery by Major H. E. Burstall, who has just returned to Canada from England, where he passed his qualifying examinations.

Major Burstall has been attached to the Canadian Artillery both at Quebec and Kingston, for the past twelve years. His rank of major dates from May 1st, 1905. Major Burstall saw much service during the Boer war, being at Paardeberg, Poplar Grove, Dracuten, Host Nek, Zand River, Johannesburg, and Pretoria.

For the past two years he has been at operations in Orange River Colony and Eastern and Western Transvaal, receiving medal with four clasps. From April, 1901 to May, 1902, he was present at operations in the Transvaal and received the king's medal with two clasps.

Major Burstall resumed duty with the artillery at Kingston. For the past two years he has been in England.

The Late Miss Susan Greely.

Colborne, Ont., Jan. 23.—A movement is on foot in this village to provide a public fund for the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of the late Miss Susan Greely, a centenarian, who passed away in Haldimand township a short time ago, and whose record of having taught in a Sunday school for over eighty years is considered unique in Canadian educational history.

For years the Sunday school was held in Miss Greely's own home, and it is her former pupils and friends who are actively engaged in the matter. Miss Greely is a daughter of the late Aaron Greely, who came to Northumberland county in 1795, and at that time entered into a contract with Governor Simcoe to bring thirty settlers into a practically uninhabited district.

He built the first saw and grist mill here. His wife was a daughter of Major Rogers, commander of the Queen's Rangers. In order to join her husband in Michigan, Mrs. Greely, with her daughter, the Miss Greelys, before mentioned, made the journey from Presque Isle Point, Northumberland county, to Niagara, in a boat, which was navigated by her brother-in-law and a comrade. They encamped on the shore at night.

SAD, SAD STORY.

Children Neglected in a Kingston Home.

A sad story, with strong drink as its foundation, was "unearthed" last night, when a call was sent to the police to visit a home on Barris street, near Princess street. The hour was about ten o'clock, and some neighbors had given the alarm.

Constables Driscoll and Craig visited the home. The mother was found lying on the floor, under the influence of liquor, there was no fire in the place, and three children, the oldest being six years of age, were found suffering from the cold.

The father, so it was stated, had gone out early in the evening. The constables had a fire started in the stove, and the children were well cared for during the night.

It may be possible that steps will be taken to have the children placed in some home, unless they are looked after as they should be, by the parents.

"CANNOT SUPPRESS GOD."

Threat of Fighting if Basiliacs Are Closed.

Paris, Jan. 23.—M. Delahaye, conservative, in the senate, declared that the Catholics were ready to die for their faith and that if attempts were made to close the basilicas of Notre Dame de Montmartre and Montserrat they would defend them with arms.

The senator added: "M.M. Combes, Clemenceau and Briand cannot suppress God!"

The cabinet approved the bill suppressing the formality of requiring a declaration before holding a public meeting, as required by the law of 1881, thus creating a media viam under which the churches can remain open for public worship, even though the vatican authorities persevere in their present attitude.

DR. FOOT'S VENTILATED ARCH SUPPORT

AN EXCELLENT APPARATUS FOR A BROKEN DOWN ARCH.

Flat-foot is a source of misery. When the natural arch is lost, progress becomes difficult and painful, and the sufferer is more or less crippled. The tendency of the defect is, unfortunately, to go from bad to worse as the afflicted person grows in years. In serious cases an actual deformity is produced. The affection is not infrequently brought to the attention of the general practitioner. Both physicians and patients will be glad to learn that in the Ventilated Arch Support mechanical principles have been successfully applied to correct the depression of the arch and to restore an important member to usefulness.

By this device, the sole of the foot is firmly supported, and the arch of bones is gradually raised.

WHY TAXES

Corporation
Put Millions
Into Its Treasury

Wisconsin is building a new capital to cost from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000; expenses of maintaining its government are heavy, and its people are not to be called for one penny of state tax this year. Under the law a school tax mill must be levied, annually, a phrebotic is Wisconsin's pocket that half the amount required for schools will be paid from the treasury, leaving half a mill tax the only state burden imposed property owners.

Civil war claims to the amount over $1,000,000 have been collected together with back taxes from roads. But Wisconsin's financial peril is due principally to the requiring corporations to be greater share of the general tax than they have done in the past. With a generous balance in treasury at the beginning of the year and a revenue expected from cotton more than equal to meeting running expenses of government, not relieve the people of a state.

Were it not for the building of new capital, the entire school would have been paid from the treasury, and the people would not enjoying the unique distinction remaining absolutely untaxed state purposes.

With all bills paid, Wisconsin's treasury on January 1st, contained $500,000, and it is estimated that the year's receipts, with state tax added, will be $4,000,000. As total disbursements are expected to exceed $4,200,000, seems no need of troubling the people with a state tax, and so none was levied.

In fact, a tax for the maintenance of the state government has not imposed since 1902, although the mill tax for schools was regularized.

Now, however, even half the fund required by law to be raised for the purposes will be paid from the flowing state treasury.

Generally speaking, the people quite satisfied with the remission general state taxes. They didn't consider it a hardship to pay the mill tax for school purposes.

Rich Helped The Poor.
This was not a tax for the tenance of state government. It simply an arrangement whereby richer, more densely populated ties aided the poorer ones in fishing and maintaining schools, money all came back to the taxpayer they were satisfied.

But when the ample pockets of consin expanded so that she means of exhaust for her coin, she looked around for some to ease the burden of her chest still further, and could find none to cut this one-mill tax in.

What could be done about it? Law said specifically that the tax must be levied. After considering plans, the state board of ment—the governor, secretary of and state treasurer—hit upon which worked admirably.

They would satisfy the law by lecting the tax; but, instead of all from the poor taxpayers, would simply collect half, and
