Hints For the Teacher. Leaving aside the abstract question of moral teaching in the schools as commonly discussed, the editor of The Ridgetown Dominion makes the following suggestions, which will be generally concurred in :- "We believe that every Friday afternoon from 3.30 to 4 o'clock the teacher cannot be better employed in the service of the pupil, parent and state than in giving 'talks,' inculcating a proper respect for law, order and property. The older pupils should be taught that 'might is not right,' and that it is unmanly for the larger boys and girls to pick on and torment in any way the smaller ones, and all should be taught to pay due deference to their elders; that they should leave the school in an orderly manner, not like a pack of animals, giving at least they chance to meet. Pupils might also be taught kindness to birds and animals, warned against crossing lawns and boulevards, and a due regard for flower beds. Boys, especially, should be taught respect for prodanger of stone-throwing should be pointed out. The windows of vacant

The secrephone is the whispering but a yard away cannot hear what is being said, while every word is correctly transmitted to the receiver at the other end of the line a mile away or more. For this to be done the message must be actually whispered. If spoken more loudly, of course, the speaker can be heard more than a yard away from the transmitting instrument. Properly used, however, a message can be sent in privacy even with people quite close. As present experience goes, it requires some little practice to pitch the voice correctly so as to get the best results with the faintest whisper. But the lesson is not difficult to learn. People with high pitched voices will undoubtedly make themselves heard more distinctly at the other end order with ordinary use.
