

The Natural Cure For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-lives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.

Rheumatism means of bowels, kidneys and skin. This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-lives" is the only remedy in the world that completely eradicates the disease from the system.

"Fruit-a-lives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many times increased by the process of combining them.

Then toxins and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets. See a box—4 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

"Fruit-a-lives" will cure almost any case of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia.

One of these body poisons is URRA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—urea stays in the system—urea stays into uric acid—uric acid is carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-lives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action

NEW ARCHBISHOP WHAT IT IS SAID HE STANDS FOR.

Will Help to Bring Different Shades of Opinion More Closely Into Contact With Each Other.

Much interest has been taken in the election of the new Anglican Archbishop. This is not to be wondered at, for the policy of the ruler or rulers of any religious body influences the future of that organization either for evil or for good. In respect of Archbishop Sweetman, it is believed that his occupancy of the high office will distinctly tend towards unity within the Anglican communion in Canada, says The Mail and Empire. It will help to bring the different and opposing opinion more completely into touch, and will thus give strength to the Church in its work among the people.

Once a Divided Body.

It must not be forgotten that the Church of England has contained, and still contains, many varieties of opinion on matters of policy and practice. These have arisen under circumstances and conditions that are a part of the history of the Old Land. Many differences are traceable to local sentiment. Thus there are parts of England and Ireland that are exceedingly "low," while elsewhere the "high" prevails. The Low Church was a protest against what was believed in some quarters to be a tendency towards Romanism. The High Church was one of the fruits of the Oxford movement, which was designed to give life to what in many English parishes was a dead religion. Both shades of opinion came to Canada, and were left to work out their own future. Thus it happened that 25 or 30 years ago there was a great deal of friction. The first Bishop of Toronto, Dr. Strachan, although originally a Freshwaterian, was somewhat "high" in his views.

THE AGED LOVERS.

He has not won the world's applause. She knows he never can; His step is slower than it was. But he's an honest man. She wears the bloom of youth no more.

Yet side by side they fare, Poor, bent old husband and gray wife, Along the humble walks of life, And still are lovers there.

WHERE THE SNOW IS DEEP.

How Nature's Lover Finds Some Interesting Records Therein.

The drifting snow that eddies about the low branched cedars, clears away from the naked trunks, and climbs into inconvenient places where unsuspected hollows lie in wait, reveals the strenuous life of the little inhabitants of the lingering woods, writes S. T. Woods in The Globe. The long, easy, eccentric leap of the cottontail shows from point to point where his bunch of feet sink in the soft snow, and contrasting in sprightly irregularity with the straight trail of the dignified cat in search of a venturesome field mouse or a flock of hurrying snowbirds. There is always something fascinating about a new track in the snow. It is a piece of evidence that no casualty can obscure and no array of facts and circumstances can contradict. It tells that somewhere at one end of the interrupted and winding line is an animal, and at the other is the hole from which it emerged. The uncertainty of whence and whither adds the charm of speculation, and perhaps of the kinship of all the blind wanderers who leave the uncertain marks of their varied pilgrimages. A new track tells that an animal has recently passed, and shows whether he was quiet and leisurely or driven by alarm. It is easy to picture the marking of the trail in the dark, drizzly night, on the crisp snow under the clear stars, or perhaps in the open day, when caution points to the shelter of the drooping branches and gathered shrubbery.

The squirrels have grown active since the snow covered up their stores of winter food, and are freely opening tunnels and excavations. For the little field mice, who work under cover and make only an occasional waddling and short excursion on the yielding surface, the snow is a piece of good fortune, for it leaves them free at least on the soft bark of all the banked-up trees and shrubs. But squirrels find the snow a serious inconvenience. They dig down to their stores of pine cones and bring them to the surface, scattering the gummy scales about on the clean snow while eating the diminutive seeds. Stores of beechnuts are less common, but a few have been preserved. The smooth, round nuts, scattered in the snow, tell of a feast on this rare delicacy. Acorns, too, are brought to the surface. The many evidences of such activity suggest a season of security, for there are already many heavy drafts on the food preserved for the winter. The little fellows have not yet been driven by necessity to turn to the bitter cups of the alders, which are still a lumpy of more agreeable food under the snow. The early frosts on this store suggest a hard winter; but it would be presumptuous to pity the sprightly little animals, whose every move and attitude seems inspired by the joy of abundant life.

A "High" Clergy.

This prelate introduced many of the pioneer clergymen, and these gentlemen were, generally speaking, inclined to be "high." At the same time, the laity favored the "low" side, and the situation led to action in the synod, which was established in 1858. There, after an interesting struggle, the lay element secured the right to share in the choice of the bishop. Hitherto the bishop had made the appointment without reference to the desires of the congregation. Henceforth the appointment was to be made by the bishop after consulting the clergy and the laity delegates, who were to represent the views of the people. This arrangement did not, however, settle everything. The Low Church party still felt that the High Church influence was growing, and that Trinity College, which was presided over by one of the ablest of English clergymen, Provost Whitaker, aided in that process.

The Church Association.

This belief led to the formation of the Church Association, a Low Church society, in which Hon. Edward Blake and Hon. S. H. Blake took a lively interest. The association established a Low Church primary school, now known as Wycliffe College, to train for the Church clergymen of Evangelical views. The then bishop, Dr. Bethune, declined at first to recognize the young clergymen could not be called to the Diocese of Toronto. In consequence of this state of affairs, the Low Church body withdrew its support from the mission fund and left that fund to the High Church. The matter came up for discussion in the synod in 1877, and, after a powerful debate, in which Provost Whitaker and Hon. Edward Blake took the lead, a compromise was reached, whereby Wycliffe College was to be recognized, and the subscriptions to the mission work were to be restored.

A Great Clash.

In 1878 Bishop Bethune died, whereupon the battle between "high" and "low" became very bitter in connection with the election of his successor. Each side wanted to have a representative of its own view in the episcopal chair. The High churchmen nominated Provost Whitaker, the Low churchmen, Dr. Sullivan, who afterwards became Bishop of Algoma. Both were very able men. Dr. Whitaker was a polished and a profound scholar, and a necessary forerunner of Dr. Sullivan. It happened that at that very time a dispute on the subject of a clerical appointment was at its height. Provost Whitaker had been acting as commissary for Bishop Bethune during the last illness of that prelate. A vacancy had occurred in the parish of Oshawa. The people wanted Rev. Mr. Fortin, and Provost Whitaker insisted upon appointing instead Rev. Mr. Johnson. The case went into the courts, and, while there, Dr. Whitaker figured as the exponent of absolutism for the bishop.

An Inopportune Candidate.

Both shades of thought united under him, and each agreed to view the other not merely with toleration, but with the warmest feelings. There has been no trouble since. The Anglican Church appears really to have changed its tone. Instead of representing antagonistic views arising elsewhere, it has taken upon itself a character agreeable to the Canadian people. Dr. Sweetman, as Bishop of Toronto, worked towards a happy solution of the long standing difficulties, and no doubt, as Archbishop, his influence will be even still more strongly in the direction of union.

How the Railway of Canada

Copyrighted by the C.P.R.

If Canada, to-day, is known as the land of the railway, it is because the construction of this knowledge is a large extent due to the work of the great Canadian railways, the G.T.R., the C.P.R., and the N.W.R., the resources and beauties of the nation. For the past few years enormous sums have been spent on work, more and more with each passing year, and today between two roads not much less than $1,000,000 is annually spent in the thousand methods of publicity which their experts have adopted.

In fact, these two railways, probably alone a good deal more effective work in advertising Canada than the government itself has been able to do. They have spent vast sums of money—and it is no known that railway corporations do not spend their money unless the results, though governments have suspected of this business and, for the fact that both railways to-day spending more money for advertising of the resources of Canada than they ever did before. There is today "An American Mission" in the west. That is very due to the work of the C.P.R. every summer the beauty spots of the west, especially Ontario and Alberta, are flooded with American tourists. That is the work of the Grand Trunk. The aims of the two railways are very different, and their methods accordingly. Their ultimate aim is the same—to bring people and goods to Canada, that they may prosper and gain their money.

The work of the C.P.R. is to draw settlers to the country, settle them on railway lands, settle, but at any event to bring

EXPERT'S REPORT

S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is "a strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim, he submits, is "on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." "The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt."

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER and COBALT.

Migration of Women.

Men and youths are not the only ones to migrate from the older countries to the new. Says The St. John Sun: "A considerable migration of girls from the Maritime Provinces to the United States goes on constantly. It does not attract as much attention as the emigration of young men. At the present time the larger number of the girls who leave their homes to move to the Canadian Northwest. But young women go in considerable numbers to the New England or Middle States. They seek various forms of employment. The most popular form is that of hospital work. The migration is not confined to the Provinces. Apparently those who go from these Provinces displace others from the Eastern States. The Kamrober depth of the country man winter in numbers it is but natural that women will not remain where their probabilities of obtaining husbands are consequently reduced."

Sleep Sickness Germ Isolated.

A discovery of great importance has been made by Dr. A. Watson, Dominion bacteriologist, at the quarantine station at Lethbridge, Alberta, no less than the isolation of the germ known as "sleeping sickness," one of the scourges of Africa. Dr. Watson imparted to some of his friends the interesting information.

The dread germ was obtained from the blood of a cottontail rabbit, which the scientist captured for purposes of experimentation, and which had the disease of which the rabbits have been dying in great numbers throughout the country this winter.

Every seventh year a scourge sweeps the rabbits almost out of existence. During the succeeding seven years the virus gradually accumulates in the rabbits, till another scourge again decimates them. This happened this year.

Modern Egypt.

A progressive Arab of Cairo is sinking wells and installing irrigation pumps at the foot of the pyramid of Cheops and the sphinx after gazing thousands of years on sand wastes that will be looking out on green fields. This is one of the many demonstrations of the change from the old to the new Egypt.

Hutch For the Blood.

When one eats a lot and crams a lot of food in the stomach the process of digestion is not complete. The food remains in chunks and ferments. This fermentation produces poisonous acid, which, when it enters the blood causes impurities and produces the humiliating evidences so well known. It is necessary before one attempts to clean the blood to clean those organs of the body on which the blood depends for its purity and healthiness. Hutch will clean the body, assist the digestion so that it will be complete and it will purify the blood and skin. Hutch is a doctor for ten cents.
