There is nothing nicer these cold mornings than a cup of our Java and Mocha Coffee

It is healthful too, as the following extract from "The Spice Mill," written by a coffee expert, proves—"It is our sincere conviction that Coffee, viewed in the broadest sense, is one of the blessings of existence, to millions and millions of people it is as necessary as the bread they eat and as beneficial to them as that of starch."

IS A TERROR

Janette Suffern Is A Fright In Town.

WAS ONCE A BELLE

BUT IS NOW THE FRIGHT OF THE PLACE.

She Keeps a Great Assortment of Animals and Goes Attended By Twenty-Eight Yelping Dogs—Often Carries a Shot Gun.

New York, Feb. 21.—Miss Janette Suffern, Suffern, N.Y., is 50 years, six feet tall, carefree as to dress, but highly educated. She is entirely turned her back on human kind, and lives instead with a collection of domestic animals that she says are cleaner than men and women and infinitely more honest.

Her immediate family consists of twenty-eight dogs, seventeen cats, thirty head of cattle, twenty sheep, eleven swine, sixteen horses and a pony stallion. An eighteen-month-old pup gained her displeasure last week by stealing corn from a stable mate, so she turned him out.

Miss Suffern is a person of wealth and social circumstance in Suffern, being the only surviving child of George Suffern, after whom Suffern is named. As a girl she went to the best schools and an accredited "young ladies' seminary," and finished it all off with two years in Paris at a conservatory of music. She is a fine singer once gorgeously. Suffern folks say, but that was years ago. After her father's death she quarreled with Edward E. Suffern, her brother. After his death she contested his will.

The will was made in 1901 while Edward E. Suffern was a resident of New York, and bequeathed the most of his estate to the Catholic Herpeto-Suffern fund of Christ church, Episcopal in Suffern, and closes with this clause: "To the person known as my sister, Janette Suffern, I bequeath nothing whatever, as we have been dead to each other, except so far as business relations compelled recognition, most of our lives, and it is my intention that this condition shall continue at and after my decease."

Miss Suffern was on hand when the will was read, and her brother's estate was worth $125,000, being half as much as his father left when he died. She still has the other half with interest, and is described by her sister as being "of Suffern" when in reality it was organized in 1899 as Christ's, of "Ramapo." So Miss Suffern started a contest of which she was the champion. Christ church has proven invalid, about $100,000 in farm lands will revert to Miss Suffern, who so expressly excluded.

Her goings and comings, which are in cowhide boots on foot, are invariably heralded and attended by most of the twenty-eight whoppers of snow.

After the last fall of snow a boy one day threw a snowball at one of her dogs. The howl that it howled was a sad affair. The next day all the school boys in Suffern went on the streets prepared to have some fun of it.

But Miss Suffern is something of a strategist. She came up the street about three in the afternoon, her dog, named "Barn," in her hand, and she resembled Diana in that she carried a double-barreled hammerless gun. The street boys dived for cover like rabbits. Janette marched on to the door of her barn, turned and looked at what was left of the crowd, and then "broke" the gun in their faces, blew through the empty barrels and jawed at them.

There are four churches in the village, Christ's Episcopal, a Catholic, a Methodist and a Presbyterian.

She is a member of Christ church because her brother had a pew there and she went with the Catholic church.

One Sunday she came to high mass, middle aisle with the collection waddling after her and installed herself in a front pew that was not hers. The sexton took issue with her by objecting to her skirts, and the dog's tail for a handle. Miss Suffern went away huffy. Her cows got out of her barn that night and in the morning there were the deprecations of her cattle, where the day before had been the flowers that were the glory of the church cross-paths. The sexton and the village sound master rounded her horn up and Miss Suffern had to purchase her freedom.

Navy Yards Will Remain.
New Washington, Feb. 21.—The report that the League Island navy yard along with those at Portsmouth, N.H., Washington, Charleston and New Orleans, were to be abandoned, is utterly without foundation. On the contrary the heads of the navy department, today, announced that they would be thoroughly repaired and made the greatest basis for repairing made facilities obtainable at no other navy yard in the country and is practically immune from any invasion.

Combed with these facts must be considered the enormous expenditure already made there in the way of machinery and drydock works, which would in themselves preclude any idea of abandonment.

AWFUL DISASTER.

A Steamer Wrecked and 141 Lives Lost.

Rotterdam, Feb. 21.—Disastrous steamship disaster with a great loss of life occurred, today, off the north pier of the Hook of Holland, when the Great Eastern railway company's steamer Berlin, bound from Harwich to the Hook of Holland, was lost. All on board, 141 persons in all, of which ninety-one were passengers were drowned.

The wreck occurred at five o'clock this morning, during a terrific north-westerly gale. The steamer struck the North jetty, while trying to enter the Hook of Holland.

She broke in two, forward, and sank while the passengers and crew gathered aft and vainly attempted to use the life boats. One person was saved and twenty-five bodies have been washed ashore.

The Berlin was a British steamer, commanded by Captain Ahlert, and was built in 1891. Among those drowned are sixteen members of the German opera company, who had just concluded their season at Covent Garden. Arthur Herbert, one of the king's messengers, journeying to the continent was also lost.

Legislation is suggested that any city may appoint the last Monday in November as nomination day, and the first Monday in December as election day.

DEMOCRATS TO WIN.
St. Petersburg, Feb. 21.—The elections to the twenty-first congress, are proceeding energetically and good order, which was maintained. The poll is heavier than that of last year. Despite the government's interpretation of the electoral law, which was directed toward weakening the forces of the left, the victory of the constitutional democrats is regarded as certain.

COURT INSPECTS PHOTOS.
Girls Get-It Today is More Affection.

New York, Feb. 20.—During recess it happened the reason for Jerome's introducing the first thing, today, two photographs of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. One of these pictures showed her in a kimono, the other in an evening gown. Her soft brown hair was combed up on her head. In these pictures Jerome gives her the name of "Evelyn Thaw" in contrast to Evelyn Thaw as she now appears with her hair tied in a bow at the shoulder, and her eyes, which are believed to have been injured by the impression of a woman, not a child. Her girlhood is recognized as a strong factor in her life.

When court resumed, the witness returned quiet, steadily and calmly to her place. Jerome showed her more photographs. Jerome showed her the photograph of the photographer. He wanted her to whisper it to him.

At that Delmas said: "I am tired of whispering of names. If the district attorney wants the names, let them be proclaimed. I don't see any reason for concealing these names. Why is the district attorney so careful to hide them?"

The court decided that if any names hereafter were to be mentioned, they should be openly spoken in the court room.

Thaw's Valet Married.
Boston, Feb. 21.—James Mawley, valet of Harry K. Thaw, who formerly lived with a knife and fired a shot at him from a pistol, was married here on the arrival of the steamer at Saxonia, Friday morning, to Miss Augusta E. Carson. Mawley and his bride have been sighted at their childhood.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.
Kimberly, Feb. 21.—Ferreira, the leader of the raid from German South Africa, in November last, and four of his followers, were, yesterday, sentenced to death. The jury refused to credit the statement of Ferreira that a German captain, named Siebert, in border and stir up sedition in Cape Colony.

WHITNEY'S AXE.
Belleville's Magistrate the Latest Victim.

Belleville, Feb. 21.—Little surprise was expressed in the inner circles of both parties here, when the news was confirmed that Police Magistrate Flint had been requested to hand in his resignation without delay.

The only reason assigned here is the anxiety among at least two prominent conservative lawyers for the position, and Mr. Flint would have been removed from the position, but for the split at the conservative caucus. At present it looks as though A. A. Roberts, of the conservative caucus, would be the best chance. The other aspirant, Mr. Roberts, is a comparatively young man, but has been an active conservative member.

Sir James Dick's bill for the enfranchisement of women, now before the British parliament, provides that every registered woman of full age shall have equal vote with men, and that her marriage nor sex shall disqualify them from voting or being elected to either local or national offices.

IRISH PEER CONDEMNED.
He Visited Ireland Once in Forty Years.

London, Feb. 21.—In the House of Commons, today, William Duffy, member for South Galway, again introduced his bill to provide for the reprobation of the Marquis of Clanricarde, an Irish peer, who had visited Ireland, but once in his life, more than in forty years ago, at the funeral of his father, Mr. Flavin described the nobleman as a curse to the country, a callous and brutal landlord, with a career with men, and bloodshed. Over nine hundred families had been evicted from his estate of fifty-six thousand acres, and the county of Galway was blighted by his wanton cruelty. Some action should be taken in the matter, said John Redmond, for the people of Galway were in his debt. The prime minister also condemned the action of Lord Clanricarde, but said the government had no time to deal with the measure. He promised that it would be considered if brought on again. The bill was withdrawn for the present. Lord Clanricarde's ancestors were the kings of the Connaught, whose women intermarried with the kings of Meath, of Thomond and Taghmon, and gave ancestors to Edward IV of England.

MANY QUESTIONS TO ASK

He Has Not Touched on Important Matters.

New York, Feb. 21.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw resumed the stand in the Thaw trial, this morning. Evidently Mr. Jerome has many more questions to ask her, for, as yet, he has hardly touched on the more important features of her story. With the exception of the oft-repeated admission "I don't remember," the girl's story, so far, has not been shaken.

Mrs. Thaw said that, after her first experience with Stanford White, her relations continued against her will. Tremors came into Mrs. Thaw's voice as Mr. Jerome continued to question her about her relations with White. She cried bitterly. These led his face in his hands as Mr. Jerome bitterly attacked his wife. Mrs. Thaw said she could not remember ever having gone to a doctor with Jack Barrymore.

Prosecution's Plan.
New York, Feb. 21.—In the Thaw case, Jerome, the people's lawyer, seeking to destroy Mrs. Thaw's reputation, and proving that she was not an innocent victim of White, but an adventurer, who, after the divorce, had a regular weekly allowance of $25 from him, payable when she was not active and who in her own handwriting applied for this money without repugnance. The inference from all this, of course, is quite obvious.

DEBATE IN COMMONS.
Old-Age Pension Scheme Proposed.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Proceedings in the House of Commons today suggested the calm after a storm. It was private members' day, the last probably they will have this session, and the four hours' session was spent in the discussion of two motions, one by Mr. Pringle urging the government to give consideration to the question of old-age pensions, and the other by Mr. Lawrence relating to the adjudication of claims for compensation for injury, loss or damage sustained on the intercolonial railway.

Replying to Mr. Pringle's plea for the adoption of a system of old-age pensions, the prime minister said he would be disposed to favor a scheme based upon some contribution by those who would participate in the fund, but he would not do so unless it could be wise for the country to commit itself to such a scheme without further consideration. The motion was eventually withdrawn.

The object of Mr. Lawrence's motion which was carried, was to obtain information indicating the policy that had been pursued by the government in dealing with claims for compensation for injury or loss suffered on the Intercolonial.

SOME FOR SHAREHOLDERS.
Ontario Bank Assets Will "Go Round."

Montreal, Feb. 21.—It is understood that there will be a considerable percentage left for the shareholders of the Ontario Bank when the assets of that institution are finally liquidated. So far no estimate can be reached as to what will really be saved from the wreck, but it can be stated that there will be something left after all depositors and other claims are paid in full.

Excitement in England.
London, Feb. 21.—Owing to the prophecies of Hugh Clemens, the meteorologist, to the effect that there would be both tremors in the eastern counties of England and along the Anglo-Scottish border, today, great excitement prevails all over the country. Many persons have taken to the hills. In Durham and Cumberland all work in the coal mines is suspended, and the city of London is in a state of alarm. Clemens states that the tremors would spring from solar and lunar effects exactly like those which caused the devastating volcanic eruptions in the West Indies in August, 1883. After carefully studying Clemens' calculations and investigations some time ago Lord Kelvin, Professor Milne and Dr. Lockyer expressed opinions that terrestrial disturbances were not at all improbable today.

Suing For Damages.
Essex, Ont., Feb. 21.—William Goodison has issued a writ against the town for $5,000 damages for the death of his son, Benjamin Goodison, which occurred on October 21st, of last year, as the result of young Goodison being thrown from a buggy while driving along a street in Essex. The father claims the town is responsible as the road was not in proper condition.
