THE SPORT REVIEW

PETERBORO RESPONSIBLE FOR SCHEDULE

Against Which it is Now Protesting—The Attack Systen of the 14th—General Notes on Hockey and Other Sports.

To those who know the circumstances connected with the drawing of the Eastern district senior schedule of the O. H. A., the demand of Peterboro to be given the privilege of playing another match with the 14th of Kingston to decide the district championship after the latter have won it according to schedule, seems peculiar. It appears that Peterboro didn't expect Kingston to enter the senior series, and when F. H. Macnee attended the meeting at Peterboro about the end of December last, to aid in drawing up the schedule, his appearance was a surprise to the hockey men of the "lift-lock town." They said they thought that Kingston wasn't entering, but Mr. Macnee assured them that Kingston was right in the game.

The Peterboro representatives had their schedule all ready for the meeting, and the entrance of the 14th somewhat interfered with their plans. However, they made some changes, and gave Kingston the "short end of the stick," as can be seen when the 14th had to play its last three games away from home. But Kingston never entered a complaint on that score. Peterboro didn't count on Kingston and Midland amounting to anything, in the race, for had not Peterboro several professionals, headed by Whitcroft, who recently jumped to Kenora just in time to save Chris. Graham's aggregation from exposure. They had expected to have "Marty" Walsh, of Queen's, but the latter decided not to accept the cash offer made to him for his services to Peterboro's "amateur" team. "Marty" could make it warm for some people in Peterboro if he told all he knew.

Well, the Peterboro representatives at the schedule meeting whispered among themselves to the effect that Midland and Kingston wouldn't be in the running, and finally decided to allow them to play a sudden-death game at the end of the season in either Peterboro or Toronto, the winner to count two points. It was never thought that this match would be needed to decide the schedule. Peterboro expected to have the district won before that time. Then came Peterboro's most bitter disappointment at the strength developed by Kingston and Midland, and its disgust when Kingston defeated the northerners on neutral ice. The Peterboro people made the schedule, that they are now protesting against, and in view of that, they deserve no consideration whatever from the O.H.A. executive. They should take their medicine and step gracefully out.

The 14th's Playing System.

"It's the Western Ontario Hockey Association clubs' fault," remarked "Jim" Sutherland, yesterday, "if they do not keep pace with the new things in hockey. They have been all season underestimating the Kingston team's ability—simply because they didn't realize that the local team was working on the newest and best system of play, quite unlike that now in vogue with the teams in Toronto and Western Ontario. When Dr. 'Jock' Harty attended the Stanley cup games in Montreal, in January, he was struck with the fact that the 'big clubs' had discarded the old four-men-in-a-row formation, and were working in the tandem play successfully. The cover-point and point players also were almost continually moved forward to attack, in fact every player, with the exception of the goal-keeper, took a try at shooting goals. This system, Dr. Harty has been drilling into the 14th team, until it is now almost perfect in this style of play, and they have a most excellent chance of landing the J. Ross Robertson senior trophy. It is true that the 14th team has taken time to master the new plays, and in the meantime the 'wise' hockey folks on the Toronto press couldn't understand why the 14th should keep winning out. It was a great mystery to them indeed, so they picked Midland, with their old has-been methods, to defeat the Kingston team." "But," remarked James, with a cheery smile, "the poor chaps probably know better by this time, and next year they will adopt the successful methods of the 14th Regiment Hockey Club of Kingston."

Willing To Accept.

The Royals would like a game of hockey with any team averaging nineteen years old, to be played on the Royal rink. The team's line-up is: Goal, Kennedy; point, McKenzie; cover, Nicholson; centre, M. Ainslie; rover, H. Ainslie; wings, Boyd, Muckler. Address challenges to the Royal rink.

Curling Last Night

Two Carruthers' medal games, in the gentlemen's singles, were played at the curling rink, last night. In the first, A. Maclean defeated E. J. Reid and W. F. Webster trimmed Capt. Conger.

Won By Default.

The Wanderers won by default from R.C.H.A., last night. The soldiers would likely have been defeated had they turned up, but took a night off. The junior contest between F.B.C. II and Regiopolis College was postponed.

Brockville Gets Trophy.

Brockville has won the championship of the Central Ontario League by defeating Prescott. Kingston is a close second.

Hockey Notes.

Belleville Intelligencer: That's nice. Belleville boys get all beaten up, and then the Globe calls them "rowdies."

The Montreal papers even figure that Wanderers will be beaten in Ottawa, and are talking about the home-and-home series.

The 14th regiment team had only one good gate this season, and that was when Peterboro played here. Expenses have been heavy and it looks to the final matches to make receipts and expenditures at least balance.

The Ottawa hockey team has sprung a surprise in the declaration of its status. While a lengthy list of salaries was expected to be published, President Darcy McGee puts all the team down as amateurs except Baird.

Montreal Gazette: There has been a mixture of good and bad in the season up to now. Broadly speaking, the interest has been killed through the so far unquestioned supremacy of the two leading teams. Victorias have occupied a midway position, not having proved strong enough for the leaders, and, on the other hand, altogether too strong for the second division.

The Berlin club has returned the $43.69 received from the St. George's as mileage on Saturday night. The Berlin management refused to play an O.H.A. game, got $100 from the rink management on the undertaking to play an exhibition, and then at half time refused to continue unless the St. George's paid the mileage due for an O.H.A. match.

So far this season the 14th hockey team has travelled nearly 1,250 miles in playing four matches away from home. When it finishes the season it will have travelled 1,580 miles if it plays St. George's in Toronto, or 1,750 miles if it plays Stratford in the final. Some years ago, when Frontenacs won the intermediate O.H.A. championship the team travelled 1776 miles.

General Sport.

Hamilton Times: Lo, the poor Indian! Longboat will have to go back to the woods, now that Hotspur McBride is after him.

Some of the New York and Buffalo papers are calling for an investigation into Tom Longboat's amateur standing. It is charged that his manager demands extortionate amounts for "expenses."

The Maritime Athletic Association was organized as a result of dissatisfaction over the control of sport by the Maritime Province A.A.A. The new organization will affiliate with the International Skating Association. Communications on the matter have already been exchanged. Suspension of Belyea and Logan by the M.P.A.A.A. for skating at the recent Montreal races, was the last straw in this case, and led to the forming of the new organization. Besides skating, it is planned to foster all kinds of amateur sport.

WAS A BIG HOUSE

TO SEE THE SHOW AT THE GRAND.

The Scenery Was Fine, the Acting Quite Good, But the Singing Was Flat—Other Events For the Next Few Nights.

"Beauty And The Beast" company played at the Grand last night to a full house. The show is an old English pantomine in three acts and well staged. The principals are all good actors but poor singers. The costumes looked pretty and the scenery was fine. The story of "The Beauty And The Beast" is taken from the old fairy tale of that name and proved entertaining from the rise to the drop after the third act. As the Princess of Beauty, Belle Williams, made a decided hit. Her acting was funny but her voice was spoiled by a severe cold. The comedians, Harry Devine and Saunders, as the King and Queen, were very laughable. Miss Miller, as Prince Charming, has a fine voice and her make-up was faultless. A feature of the show was the singing of Malevolentia, a witch who works the magic spell on Princess Beauty, Miss Arnold's witch was fine and she is an acquisition to the company.

"Thorns And Orange Blossoms."

One of Rowland & Clifford's newest offerings is the Lem B. Parker dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's famous novel, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms." It is a play that appeals to the masses and the patron of every part of the theatre cannot fail to enjoy its numerous interesting points. The scenes are all comprehensive and superbly set with a scenic environment different and designed in a highly artistic manner. An unusually strong company has been organized to properly depict the important parts and the performances is a delightful success everywhere. "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" will have a presentation at the Grand on Saturday, Feb. 23rd, matinee and night.

Forbes Robertson's Appearance.

The production of Bernard Shaw's "Cæsar and Cleopatra" given by Forbes Robertson and Miss Gertrude Elliott is declared to be historically correct in all its accessories. Since the play was written for Mr. Robertson in 1899, the actor has been active in the matter of historical research in order to verify the correctness of every detail of costume, property and scenery. At the Grand on Wednesday, Feb. 27th.

BOARD OF WORKS

HEARS PROTESTS FROM RIVER STREET

Against Removal of Bridge—Another Remedy Suggested—Queen and O'Kill Street Sewer Pipe Extensions—The Road Question.

In attendance at the board of works meeting, yesterday afternoon, were Alds. Gaskin (chairman), Free, Graham, McCann, Elliott, Hanley, and Kent.

S. Anglin, J. J. Carrington, E. C. Mitchell and David Leslie, property owners on River street, were present in regard to the River street bridge, which the dominion railway commission has condemned and ordered either raised or removed. It is impossible to raise it, as the grade would be too great for vehicle traffic, so the other alternative was to remove the bridge and divert traffic to the highway east. The property owners protested against this, as it would decrease the value of their property.

City Solicitor McIntyre, who was present, said that the residents interested would, no doubt, have a claim against the city for some compensation, on account of the depreciation that would result to their property through the difficulty of reaching their street.

Ald. Elliott asked who built the River street bridge. Ald. Gaskin replied that the G.T.R. company built it. Then Ald. Elliott said it was up to the Grand Trunk company to make all the changes necessary. The city should not be required to do anything in connection with the matter.

Ald. Kent said that he had at first held the same opinion, but, judging from recent events, he was afraid that the city might be called upon to pay part of the cost if it did not follow out the advice of the railway commission and remove the bridge. If the bridge was removed, the commission secretary intimated that the railway company could be required to provide a suitable crossing for traffic further east.

Mr. Anglin said that the whole matter could be "cured" by the building of a draw-bridge. There was a man there night and day, and he could attend to it. The city solicitor said that it was doubtful if the draw-bridge suggestion would be considered by the railway commission.

Mr. Mitchell pointed out his firm had much team-drawing from their storage place, and if the bridge was removed, there were times of the year when traffic over other streets in the vicinity was almost impossible.

Mr. Leslie stated that only two men had been killed by the bridge, while four had been killed at the Anglin curve, where there was no bridge.

Ald. Gaskin stated that the law required that the distance from the tracks to an overhead bridge be at least twenty-two feet six inches. At present the height is sixteen feet seven inches.

Ald. Kent suggested that the city solicitor write to the commission secretary, Mr. Cartwright, pointing out that the removal of the bridge would result in serious depreciation of values in certain properties, and asking that some other method be adopted. He moved that in the opinion of the board the bridge cannot be dispensed with, and that the board suggest that a draw-bridge might be practicable, as there is always a signal man at the bridge, who could operate it. This was adopted.

The board discussed the extension of the Queen street sewer pipe in order to abate the nuisance in that slip. The city engineer said he had plans partly prepared for diverting the sewage in that district. His idea was to take the sewage from the Queen street slip entirely, and divert it to below the bridge. The engineer said that the only other method outside of diverting the sewage was to attach an extension pipe to the bottom of the M. T. company pier. Permission to do this would have to be secured from that company. It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the chairman, the solicitor and the engineer for a report.

The board resolved to ask the city council for $500 for preliminary work in connection with the restoration of the King street breakwater.

No decision was reached in regard to the O'Kill street sewer extension, but the board expressed itself as favorable to the city engineer's proposal to build a concrete pier out 150 feet and to lay the pipe through it. The pier would be two and a half feet wide at the top and about eleven feet at the bottom. Both sides would be sloped so that in case of ice shove the ice would run over the pier. It would be protected most of the way out by filling in the bay with stones and street screenings. The cost would not exceed $1,400.

The engineer reported that $15,000 would construct twenty limestone macadam roads, properly built, with concrete water channels. He pointed out that if the roads were to last any time, they must be properly drained, and water channels must be constructed on both sides. The question was discussed at some length, and finally it was decided to adjourn until three o'clock this afternoon, and come to a decision.

On "Canadian Banking."

Prof. Shortt, of Queen's, delivered his popular lecture on "Canadian Banking" in the school room of the Sydenham street Methodist church last night, before a fairly large audience. The speaker went into all the details of the work of a bank in the carrying on of the business of the country, and the address throughout was most interesting. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer.

WHAT MEN CLAIM

AS TO THE CAPABILITIES OF JAMES O'RIELLY.

He Was An Eloquent Lawyer and on One Circuit Had His Bag Full of Briefs—To Advantage of Every Thing.

Toronto Saturday Night.

Old Kingstonians and other Eastern Ontario men still claim that James O'Reilly was the most eloquent, persuasive and witty man that ever pleaded before a Canadian jury. As an evidence of his popularity as a lawyer it is said that on one circuit he had eighty-five civil briefs besides some criminal cases. His great speech while prosecuting Whelan for the assassination of D'Arcy McGee in 1868 is still talked of. O'Reilly and McGee were close friends, and the lawyer made the avenging of his friend's death a personal matter. In fact this note was sounded rather more strongly than should have been allowed. But it was effective. After knitting the various strands of evidence as strongly together as possible the great pleader told the jury that he would go down to his grave satisfied if he could trace the villain who had killed D'Arcy McGee. Answering the assertion that no one had seen Whelan do the deed, O'Reilly dramatically asked:

"Who saw him? God in heaven saw him on that beautiful night when all the heaven was lighted up—on that night when a dastardly deed was perpetrated which will bring down the vengeance of both God and man."

A thrill ran through the jury and the whole court and it was felt that Whelan's doom was sealed.

Mr. O'Reilly also knew how to use to advantage the comedy of a situation. In a breach of promise case he had for his client an elderly cook, fat, rubicund, and with but one eye. There was only one thing to do, and that was to laugh a friendly verdict out of the jury. O'Reilly showed how hospitably his client had treated her lover, and put in two photographs of the "before and after" order to prove his assertion that the jilter had, during his courtship of the cooked, gained in weight some forty pounds.

"To whom does that forty pounds belong if not to my client?" pleaded the wily lawyer, in tones that convinced the dullards and amused the brighter men on the jury.

The appeal proved to be more successful than Shylock's for his single pound of flesh, for the twelve good men and true brought in a verdict for the cook of $200, evidently rating the recreant lover's corporeal increment at five dollars a pound.

A few nights ago it was reported that a muskrat had been killed on an uptown street. It has been brought to notice since that to see the rodents running about in the vicinity of Ruttan's pasture and Rideau street is an every day occurrence. The reason given for the muskrats leaving their quarters is that they are starving. The water at the marshes is frozen to the bottom and the rats cannot forage for food. It seems sad that so many of these animals should be destroyed when their hides are so scarce.
