All Done and Ready for Business

During the past four weeks, our store has been in the hands of the carpenters, painters and paper hangers, who have been making some needful alterations, and giving the place a thorough renovation. They finished Monday, and this week we have been very busy receiving, and passing into stock, NEW SPRING GOODS. We have now the best lighted store in the City, and we are shaking hands with ourselves, over the fact, that we have one of the LARGEST AND BEST ASSORTED STOCKS OF READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING IN THIS CITY; and as our expenses are so low, we are able to SELL THESE GOODS AT POPULAR PRICES. We shall hold a

Tips For The Farmers

BY UNCLE JOSE.

There is still a good market in Kingston for fresh killed fowl. There has been a great demand for chickens the past week or so.

At Montreal, the receipts of eggs this week are small and stocks on hand light. The market was very firm. The market in Toronto has taken a drop and is unsteady, owing to increased supplies.

The United States Bureau of Plant Industry has, says Country Life, in America been experimenting with a new form of red clover, which came from the black soil region of Russia. The plant is practically hairless, and therefore does not hold dust like the common red clover. For this reason it is believed that it will make a better forage plant for horses, since it will be much less likely to cause heaves, and will be cleaner and more convenient to handle. Bloating in cattle is, perhaps, due in part to the presence of hairs on common clover. If this be true, the trouble would be obviated by feeding them the new hairless red clover. Another objection to the common red clover is that it matures much earlier than timothy, with which it is usually sown. It is thus impossible to harvest the mixture at a time when the full value of both the clover and timothy can be obtained. The new red clover matures two weeks later than the common red kind, or at the same time with the timothy, and, as a season when the farmer's attention is not so imperatively demanded for his corn, and also at a time when in the most of the clover belt the weather is more favorable for harvesting the crop without injury by rain.

The hand separator is a good thing or a very bad thing, according to the way it is kept, says Successful Farming.

Aside from plenty of good food the cardinal wants of the dairy barn are good light, fresh air, cleanliness, and warmth.

In butter-making use salt that will dissolve readily, says Successful Farming, otherwise your butter is likely to be gritty.

Sell the cow from your dairy herd, says the Iowa Homestead, that makes you work hard all summer and does not pay for the feed she eats.

Reports from Kansas City to the New York Packer, says that creamery butter supplies there are very light, largely equal to local requirements.

Feeding out the poorest cows is the best way to improve the record of any dairy herd in the amount of milk and butter produced, according to the number of cows kept.

The milk cows should have all they will eat of such food as will not only keep the supply of milk, but also keep flesh on them. If you cannot give them scientifically balanced rations, at least, give them liberal rations.

By the use of the separator, says the American Farmer, the cream can be more thoroughly separated from the milk than by skimming, and perfectly fresh cream and skim milk are produced.

Always be gentle with the heifers. They are apt to be a little nervous at the start, and require some patience on your part. Try giving them something to eat while milking. It will take their attention from the milk.

Better bulls, better cows, better feed, and care, result in better dairy herds, says Successful Farming. Don't change breeds, don't use inferior bulls, even though pure-bred, don't neglect the cows, and they will give you satisfaction and profit.

If you have cows freshening in the winter, says the American Farmer, remember that they require special attention. In the absence of green grass, a laxative should be given. Floods and mashes are excellent feeds to keep down the feverish condition.

It is stated upon the best authority, that four hundred tons of pressed hay were shipped out of Kingston on Wednesday of this week and it is further stated that there are still, on Wolfe Island alone, two hundred tons ready for shipment.

The scarcity of cars on the railroads appears to be the only drawback in the trade, according to all the reports.

A prominent shipper stated, yesterday that he knew of one farmer, residing near Nepesin, who had four hundred tons of pressed hay in his barn ready for shipment, but who was unable to ship it because he could not get cars enough to handle it. He knew of other farmers who were in similar positions.

It is pointed out that lambs are coming now on many farms, and it is an essential thing that the ewes be kept in a place free from severe cold, with an abundance of exercise during the day.

Thursday of this week saw one of the best markets Kingston has had for a mid-week market day, in some time. The weather was ideal, and this, no doubt, was the main reason for such a good offering. There was an extra good supply of butter and eggs and all of it was soon disposed of.

Report from Montreal says that cheese market is very quiet now, as there is very little stock for sale. What little trading was put through was on the basis of 14c. to 14c. for finest Ontario colored. In New York, September fancy colored was quoted at 15c., white at 14c., October best colored at 14c. to 14c. In London, Eng., Canadian cheese sold at 14c.

Robert J. Burkett and Hannah M. Burkett, lately married for the fifth time, have been divorced four times since they first became husband and wife twenty years ago. At Bonville, Ind., Mrs. Polly Weed-Stone-Carroll-Weed-Hubb-Black-Cornes-Billon-Baker filed a suit asking for a divorce from William Baker, her much husband, whom she married five weeks ago.
