Watery Grave. New York, March 12.—The French line steamer La Savoie, from Havre, March 2nd, arrived, on Sunday, after perhaps the most severe experience of any of the trans-Atlantic liners that have recently reported rough weather at sea. On board were 1,048 passengers, and a crowd better pleased than they to reach port seldom hurried down the gangplank, The La Savoie ran into nasty weather on the second day out, a series of port of this city, since such a protest north-west to west gales increasing in forced Capt. Tournier to bring his into fame, three years ago, when he craft to. The steamer drifted eight hours before the voyage could be safe-

About eleven o'clock Thursday morning the La Savoie, having safely ridden a number of tall waves, was lying in the trough of the sea, when a wave measuring in the eyes of the crew anywhere from forty-five to sixty feet in height, broke over the ship from

In a second tons of water flooded the vessel, shattering a heavy oak door which opened into the corridor outside the smoking saloon. The great volume of water rushed in, swept along the corridor, and then poured down the grand stairway into the main dining saloon. The heavy iron stairway leading from the main de k down to the promenade deck was washed away with the flood. Where the blow it was rooted up from the deck flooring. The glass in the portholes of the purser's windows was smashed. Occupants of the smoking room were thrown from their fest, and when, upon recovering themselves, they opened the door to learn what had happened, the water from the corridor rushed in upon them. The water in vaded the cabins and every stateroom where an open door invited entrance; rising at points where it was temporarily staved to a height, it was de- reached the board of trade state that tem for a time, and sudden darkness the ravages of the "Green Bug," further terrified the passengers. Washed Overboard. Vipond, which sailed fram Liverpool sas. March 1st, arrived Sunday morning, from the time she left Liverpool, but on Sunday of last week she ran into a terrific hurricane, and for three days the big liner seemed almost at the mercy of the waves. Great seas rolled | ac up her kides, and for hours they broke over the forward deck. R. S. Jones, a strerage passenger, who was walk ing along the deck on the night of the storm, was caught by a wave and washed overboard. He was twenty eight years of age and was going to
