Drowsy, Languid and Useless

This disease assumes so many forms that there is scarcely a complaint which it may not resemble in one way or another. Among the most prominent symptoms are constipution, sour stomach, variable appetite, heartbarn, water-brash, gas in the stomach and bowals, distress after eating, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS is a positive cure for dyspopsis, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels or blood. It stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juices to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood and tones the entire system to full health and vigor.

Mrs. M. A. McNeil, Brook Village, N.S., writes: "I suffered from dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get but to no purpose; then finally atarted to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effects of the medicine. I can out anything now without any ill after effects and am strong and well again."

FIVE DOLLARS A POUND.

Witty Canadian Sarrister's Ples Careles Weight With the Jury.

There have been many witty Irish-anadians in the legal profession. Canadians in the legal profession. Chief among these was Mr. James O'Reilly, who was the Crown prosecutor in the case against the murderer of D'Arcy McGee in 1888. But Mr. O'Reilly had not always such stern matters to deal with and was known as the most brilliant wit at the Kingston bar. He was once employed by the plaintiff in a breach of promise case and, as his client was ugly, he was that he must make a negative.

Her face Was Red.

Her face was extremely red and as Mr. O'Railly guzed upon her lack of charms he felt that ordinary eloquence about beauty in distress would be thrown away. Her lover was a man of rather mean propensities who had faithfully devoured a large share of calls. In fact, during their acquaint-ance he had gained forty pounds. Mr. O'Reilly obtained two photographs of the perfetions. O'Reilly obtained two photographs of the perfidious gentleman—one showing him to be a gaunt and emacisted creature; the other, after his course of applied domestic science, showing a plump and prosperous citizen. The members of the jury were deeply impressed when Mr. O'Reilly's mellifuous voice asked the question:

as follows:—

Jealousy and intrigues, 92; Drink, 90; quarrels or rage, 68; revenge, 77; robbery, 50; extreme powerty, 39; illegal operations, 12; for insurance money, 3.

Stay On the Farm. They tell me that you are thinking to leaving the farm this spring. Don't do it; keep close to the soil. You are tired of feeding the cattle, the sheep and the pigs, tired of chopping the wood, tired of cleaning the stable out, tired of the store on the corner—tired of it all. You have visited the city, and its roar fascinates you. Everyone seemed well drouged and harry and get a complexion from nature's brush and an arm made strong in God's gymnasium, where you need no medicine to make you eat. Stay with the farm, where life is natural and friendship more real, where you can wear what you want when you want, and there is none who will criticize. Stay and friendliness, from the collie who follows you up and down the line to the swallow who builds in the barn.—
Charles F. Raymond in the Record.
